MONASTIR IS CUT OFF; FRENCH FORCE ISOLATED; SITUATION IS CRITICAL.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.] (30)

MILAN (via London) Nov. 11 (3:00 a.m.)—The Seccolo's correspondent, who has returned to Salonika from Monastir, Serbian-Macedonia, says the situation there is regarded as most critical. Already several bands of comitadjis (irregulars) have penetrated the city and extraordinary precautions are necessary to prevent uprisings among the city's Bulgarian population, which numbers over 9000.

Monastir, the correspondent adds, is entirely cut off from communication with Serbia, and the Bulgarians also have succeeded in cutting communications with the French forces to the eastward.

The population of the city has been reduced to 25,000 from 50,000.

"The French consul," says the correspondent, "appealed to the Serbian military authorities to send two regiments to Monastir but the commander refused to divide his forces."

FUTURE POLICY OF RUSSIA.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.] (30)

LONDON, Nov. 11 (3:46 a.m.)—Sergius Sazonoff, Russian Foreign Minister, is quoted by the Petrograd correspondent of the Times as having said in an interview regarding the future policy of the Russian allies:

"We must follow a policy based firmly on a lasting alliance between Great Britain, France and Russia. We must say to Germany: 'There are your frontiers and your limits; work within them as you please, but out into the world you go no more. We desire to live in peace. We have had enough of your disintergrating influence. You must be content henceforth to stay quietly at home.'

"Unless we can do this the great war will have been waged in vain."

CAILLAUX VISITS THE HAGUE.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.] (30)

AMSTERDAM (via London) Nov. 11 (3:31 a.m.)—In connection with the statement that Joseph Caillaux, former French Premier, recently visited The Hague, the Frankfurter Zeitung says he was accompanied by Baron D'Estournalles de Constant, who has been well known in France as a leader in the movement for international arbitration.

This is the first intimation that M. Caillaux had visited The Hague. He has not been active in France since his recall in March from a mission to South America for the government. He was injured in May in an automobile accident while driving with Baron d'Estournelles de Constant.

GERMAN CRUISER TORPEDOED.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.] (30)

COPENHAGEN (via London) Nov. 11 (7:29 a.m.)—A Stockholm dispatch to the Politiken gives the report that the German protected cruiser Frauenlob, a sister ship of the Undine, has been torpedoed off the south coast of Sweden.

The Undine was sunk off the coast of Sweden several days ago. Both these vessels were protected cruisers, with a displacement of 2000 tons and a complement of 275 men.

AVIATORS ATTACK GERHUTS.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.] (30)

LONDON, Nov. 10 (8:13 p.m.)—A report received from Field Marshal Sir John French, commander-in-chief of the British forces in France and made public tonight, says:

"On the seventh, our aeroplanes bombed Gerhuts with apparently good effect. As a result of a protective air fight, the same day a German machine overturned and fell inside the enemy's lines from a height of 7000 feet. In another fight near Douain we lost one aeroplane.

"On the eighth, we repulsed two small bombing attacks on our right flank left. Otherwise there has been no incident of importance. Generally there has been less artillery activity than usual on the front."

EZRA WINTER MAY BE LOST.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.] (30)

CHICAGO, Nov. 11.—Ezra Winter, Chicago artist, it is feared, lost on the Italian liner Ancona. With his wife and three-year-old daughter, Winter, a member of the Chicago Academy of Fine Arts and winner of the Prix de Roma in 1911, was to have sailed on the Ancona with a large collection of paintings and landscapes for exhibition in New York and Chicago.

Winter was 28 years old.

POLICEMAN'S SKULL FRACTURED. (30)

Policeman Herbert White received a fractured skull, and his two companions in the automobile were severely bruised early yesterday when the wheel of the machine in which they were riding was caught in the frog of the car track switch at Eighth street and Alvarado avenue, turning the small car over. C. H. Gates, owner of the car, was riding beside a friend, W. L. Fawcett, of No. 2118 Michigan avenue, who was driving. Both men fell under the car and were badly bruised and bumped. White was riding in back. He had been picked up from his beat by the men, who wished to take him home. He collapsed on his beat when the accident occurred, and was taken to the Receiving Hospital with a fractured skull. He is in a dangerous condition.

TOWN OF GREAT BEND REPORTED DESTROYED.

Full Extent of Disaster is Unknown, as All Wires are Down.

Debris in the Wake of a Disturbance Sixteen Miles Wide—Path of the Storm Reaches into South Dakota—Much Damage at Hartford—Several Cities in Total Darkness—Power Plants in Ruins.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

KANSAS CITY (Mo.) Nov. 10.—A tornado swept over parts of Kansas, Nebraska and South Dakota tonight, wrecking many buildings and killing a number of persons. The extent of the damage and loss of life could not be ascertained definitely tonight because the storm tore down wires and shut off communication for several hours.

Great Bend, Kan., reported the worst damage in early dispatches. Twelve dead and over 100 injured there were reported.

A message to the Missouri Pacific Railroad said that the tornado swept a path sixteen miles wide at some places.

Among the towns in which buildings were reported destroyed were Claflin, Hoisington, Larned, Kan., and Hartford, S.D.

One brief report from Great Bend said half of the houses in the city were demolished and that the Santa Fe railroad station was razed. Three large flouring mills and a number of grain elevators were in the path of the storm, but their fate was not reported. It was reported that fires broke out in the debris of crushed houses, but a heavy rain quenched the flames before they spread to any extent. At Pratt, Kan., South of Great Bend, more than four inches of rain fell.

An Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe train, due at Great Bend about the time the storm broke, could not be heard from for several hours and fear was entertained for the train and its passengers.

TWELVE DEAD AT GREAT BEND.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

GREAT BEND (Kan.) Nov. 10.—Twelve persons were killed and more than 100 injured in a tornado which swept this town shortly after 7 o'clock this evening.

The storm passed over the south part of the city, wrecking the water works and electric light plant. The town is in darkness and confusion reigns. Telegraph and telephone wires were put out of commission.

According to reports which reached the long distance telephone office when wire communication was reestablished with outside points, the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe Railway station was demolished and half the houses of the city were wrecked.

Three large flour mills and a number of grain elevators were in the path of the storm.

The property loss is estimated at a half-million dollars.

The city water plant, a laundry, two flouring mills, the Santa Fe Depot and fifty residences were demolished. Santa Fe passenger train No. 5, narrowly escaped the path of the twister, which swept through the south part of the city.

Several thousand sheep were killed, the animals being hurled into the air as the cyclone struck their feeding pens. The city tonight is in total darkness and without water supply.

Every available man is tearing through the debris tonight in an effort to rescue many yet imprisoned.

Great damage was done in the country southwest of here, from which direction the cyclone approached, without warning.

Many of those injured were caught beneath their homes, which were picked up from their foundations and twisted and crushed into a mass of debris.

At a late hour tonight a list of those killed and injured was not available, due to the confusion.

Fire broke out in several of the residences struck and as the city was without fire protection, they burned to the ground.

In the three flouring mills destroyed several men working night shifts were killed.

A long string of freight cars were overturned by the cyclone when the Santa Fe Depot crashed in.

A path three quarters of a mile long and several blocks in width was cut through the residence district. Here the heaviest toll of life was exacted.

The people of the town immediately responded as voluntary rescuers, and the work of searching the ruins progressed in a steady downpour of rain that followed the cyclone.

More than forty of the injured tonight were being attended in St. Rose's Hospital. Physicians from Hoisington and surrounding towns have been summoned.

REPORT AT HUTCHINSON.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

HUTCHINSON (Kan.) Nov. 10.—Meager telephone reports from the vicinity of Great Bend say a schoolhouse, lying in the path of the storm, was demolished. Fires broke out in many homes following the first ravages of the storm, but the heavy deluge of rain which followed effectively extinguished them before town-wide conflagration could spread.

At Pratt, south of Great Bend, four and one-half inches of rain is reported to have fallen. Larned is said to have suffered some damage although definite reports are not available.

SANTA FE CUT OFF.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

TOPEKA (Kan.) Nov. 10.—The Santa Fe general offices here have been unable to reach its Great Bend office since 7 o'clock this evening. The Santa Fe office was unable late tonight to secure information about its train No. 5, due at Great Bend about the time the storm is reported to have struck the town.

SIX BODIES ARE RECOVERED.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WICHITA (Kan.) Nov. 10.—A telephone message from Great Bend, received here over a lone wire out of that town late tonight, reported that six bodies of persons killed in the tornado there have been recovered.

OTHER TOWNS BADLY DAMAGED.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

ST. LOUIS (Mo.) Nov. 10.—Messages reaching the Missouri Pacific Railroad headquarters here tonight said that the path of the Kansas tornado was at least sixteen miles wide. The messages added that several houses in Claflin, Kan., fourteen miles from Hoisington, were demolished.

ONE TOWN IS HIT TWICE.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SIOUX FALLS (S. D.) Nov. 10.—A tornado struck Hartford, S. D., tonight, wrecked the electric light plant and injured four persons, none seriously. The tornado passed over the town from southwest to northeast, changed its course and swept the town a second time and then, with diminished force, struck Sioux Falls, where much minor damage was done. A heavy rain followed the wind.

SECOND STORM STRIKES FREMONT.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

DENVER, Nov. 10.—Another cyclone was reported having swept through Fremont, Neb., thirty miles west of Omaha.

All telegraphic communication failed shortly before 7 o'clock. Railroad offices in Denver also reported their wires down, and were also without definite information.

Local Western Union officials declare that at Hoisington, Kan., many buildings were swept into a heap of debris. Details were lacking, owing to wire condition.

SAYS FREMONT ESCAPED.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

OMAHA (Neb.) Nov. 10.—According to messages received here there was no tornado at Fremont, Neb., tonight. It was reported here that only a light rain fell.

ROB BANK AND ESCAPE.

Two Men at Clear Lake, Wash., Lock Cashier in Vault, Secure $300, and Get Away.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

MOUNT VERNON (Wash.) Nov 10.—Two masked men robbed the First State Bank of Clear Lake late today after locking Cashier H. V. Guernsey in the vault. The robbers took $300 in silver, but overlooked $1200 in gold and currency lying on the cashier's table. They escaped in a motor bus which they commandeered. J. M. Smith, the driver, was shot through the hand for trying to ditch his car to enable pursuers to overtake the bandits. Guernsey escaped from the vault by using a screw driver which he had left there for use in such an emergency. The robbers left the automobile three miles out of town and escaped into the woods.

DISSIPATION OF RAIN BY SUN CONSIDERED GOOD OMEN.

Women Carry Charcoal Heaters to Avoid Taking Cold—Friendship with All Nations, Policy of Emperor—Foreigners Greatly Impressed at Splendor of Ceremonies.

[BY PACIFIC CABLE.]

KIOTO (Japan) Nov. 10.—In Kioto, the ancient capital of Japan, Yoshihito was consecrated Emperor today.

For days the weather has been wet and gloomy. At the moment Yoshihito bowed down before the ancestral sun goddess today, the rays of the sun flashed over the mountain dissipating the clouds. According to legend the sun goddess in prehistoric ages emerged from her rocky cave and filled the whole universe with glory. The appearance of the sun today is interpreted by the people of Japan as a good omen of an auspicious reign of Yoshihito and of the destiny of the empire.

The first part of the principal ceremonies held this morning consisted of a ritual service of ancestor worship which struck a note of religious mysticism. This afternoon Yoshihito was enthroned. The morning ceremony was addressed to the gods, it seemed, and the other to the people.

FOREIGNERS IMPRESSED.

Foreigners who witnessed the coronation were deeply impressed. The American women were particularly interested in the sight of the Japanese noblewomen, in ancient court robes. The American Ambassador, George W. Guthrie, expressed himself as moved by the solemnity of the occasion. Post Wheeler, First Secretary of the American Embassy, who is studying the mythology of Japan, spoke on the immobility and silence of the people until Premier Okuma called "Banzai! Banzai!" when the onlooking throng took up the cry and acclaimed the monarchy.

Kioto tonight is crowded with persons from all parts of the empire and from many foreign lands. The streets of the city are filled with countless promenaders, bearing lanterns.

CARRY SMALL HEATERS.

The foreign women who attended the coronation were confronted with the problem of averting the risk of illness occasioned by sitting in open pavilions while clad in decollete gowns. They solved the problem by carrying miniature charcoal heaters with them.

Premier Okuma, who is old and infirm, was assisted by three retainers who resembled ancient Samurai as he mounted to his place before the throne to respond to the Emperor's address.

RESCRIPT IS ISSUED.

The Emperor today issued an imperial rescript in which he declared he will continue the work of his father, who "conceived the great policy of opening the country to foreign intercourse" in the building up of the empire and the strengthening of friendships with other nations.

FROM THE ADDRESS.

Following is the partial text of the rescript:

"Having ascended the imperial throne of divine origin, we hereby perform the ceremony of succession.

"Our forefathers have been constant and loyal to the imperial house, thus consecrated by ties that unite sovereign and subjects with the strength of a bond between father and son. Our empire has developed a character which has no equal on this earth.

"Now that we have inherited the grand work of our father it is our will to secure the permanent stability of the state by consolidating its foundation, and to share the benefits of peace and harmony by strengthening friendship with other nations. May the heavenly spirit of our ancestors witness our determination that we fulfill our mission by diligently laboring day and night.

"We trust our loyal subjects will

VICTIMS OF ANCONA INCLUDE AMERICANS.

Cablegram from Ambassador Page Reports Twenty-seven Lost.

No Real Tension has Developed at Washington as Yet—Berlin Insists the Liner Tried to Escape and that Statement is Generally Accepted in United States. Hundreds of Survivors Landed.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

ROME, Nov. 10, 1:20 a.m. (via Paris.)—Additional reports received here are that the Ancona was sunk without an opportunity for her passengers to escape. The reports say that the submarine first fired a warning shot, whereupon the Ancona immediately stopped. Two shots then struck the ship, one forward and one aft, but it is uncertain whether they came from a gun or were torpedoes.

An explosion resulted from one of the shots and the steamer sank rapidly before the boats could be lowered or help arrive from the wireless call.

PARIS, Nov. 11, 1:25 a.m.—The Ancona was attacked by two submarines, both flying the Austrian flag, says a Havas dispatch from Cape Bon, Tunis.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10.—About twenty-seven Americans are believed to have been lost with the torpedoed Italian liner Ancona, according to a cable to the State Department tonight from Ambassador Page at Rome.

The Ambassador said that probable victims of the tragedy were Alexander Patattivo, his wife and four children of New York, and Mrs. Frances Mascolo Lamura, and about twenty unnamed third-class passengers.

Mrs. Cecile L. Grell (first reported Grey) was named as the one known American survivor among the passengers.

Ambassador Page and American Consuls throughout Italy were instructed today by Secretary Lansing to cable immediately all information they could gather concerning the torpedoing of the Italian liner Ancona. Press dispatches caused concern in official quarters, but there was no real tension, because news dispatches which referred to the shelling of the Ancona by the Austrian submarine led to the belief generally among officials that the Italian vessel ignored warning and was attempting to escape.

This, in the view of this government, would justify a submarine commander in the use of force.

Should it develop that no warning was given, a note demanding disavowal, reparation and assurances that the incident would not be repeated would be sent to Austria.

CONSUL'S DISPATCH.

The text of Consul White's dispatch as given out at the State Department follows:

"Mrs. Francesca Mascolo Lamura, an American citizen, and a minor child, sailed on the Ancona under the Italian flag. Verbally reported Ancona sunk near Bizerta, Mediterranean, and that among the passengers and crew 270 were saved."

No further word came from Ambassador Page during the night. Secretary Lansing kept in touch with the telegraph office of the State Department until nearly midnight, hoping that additional dispatches would tell definitely of the fate of the missing Americans and throw some light upon the manner in which the Ancona was attacked.

Such information as has been received has caused officials to regard it as practically certain that the liner was attempting to escape, when she was sent to the bottom.

Particulars.

MANY SURVIVORS LANDED IN TUNIS AND MALTA.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

ROME, Nov. 10.—How many persons lost their lives in the sinking of the Italian liner Ancona by a submarine in the Mediterranean has not been definitely ascertained, but latest advices from Naples say that 320 survivors have been landed at Tunis ports and fifty at Malta. The number of passengers on the Ancona is placed at 462 and the crew has been estimated variously from 60 to 160.

The Ancona carried boats for the accommodation of 2500 and it is possible that some of the boats are still afloat and may bring in additional survivors in the next twenty-four hours.

The Ancona was torpedoed Tuesday morning and a Tunis dispatch to the Giornale d'Italia gives a dramatic, though brief, account of the attack.

"A submarine approached the Ancona toward noon," says this account, "and as soon as this steamer saw it an attempt was made to escape at full speed.

"The Ancona was overtaken and stopped. Then the submarine fired on the Ancona, sinking her amid the desperate cries of the passengers.

"The lifeboats were next attacked, the submarine likewise firing on them. A woman, a man and two children were killed; their bodies are at Bizerta.

"The submarine then disappeared. Before sinking, the Ancona was able to send out a wireless call for help. This was heard by the station at Bizerta. Aid was sent promptly and thus 160 passengers and 10 sailors

WORKING FOR ALLIES, BIG PLANT IS BURNED.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

TRENTON (N. J.) Nov. 11.—Fire, which started in the new rope mill of the John A. Roeblings' Sons Company early today, had almost destroyed the building, a four-story structure, an hour later. The fire is still raging and firemen are trying to prevent it from spreading to other buildings near by.

The fire quickly spread to the old rope mill and at 3 o'clock was still uncontrolled. The entire fire department of the city was called into action, but the heat was so great that it was almost impossible to get their apparatus nearer than a block from the blaze. Residents for several blocks around are moving their household goods into the streets.

The origin of the fire could not be learned. The company was engaged in the manufacture of large orders of chains and barbed wire for the Entente allies and the plant was running night and day.

PEACE PLAN OF KAISER IS FORECAST IN PARIS.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

PARIS, Nov. 10.—Quoting from an English source, which he considers "eminently trustworthy," Arthur Meyer, editor of the Royalist Organ le Gaulois, states that British ministers have received a semi-official report from Holland to the effect that the Kaiser is only awaiting the entry of the Austro-Germans into Constantinople to address a peace message to President Wilson.

The contents of this message M. Meyer describes as follows:

"William II would begin by protesting that he had not wanted war, and had been compelled to resort to it by Great Britain and Russia, and had merely opposed force by force. He would repudiate the accusation of ever having ordered systematic cruelties.

"He would then add that it is time

TWO BILLIONS MORE FOR WAR.

Asquith Describes the Next Credit to be Asked.

Increase in Expenditure is Due to High Prices.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

LONDON, Nov. 10.—Premier Asquith was to have asked the House of Commons today for a vote of credit of £400,000,000 ($2,000,000,000,) but some unexpected development prevented him from taking this action, which was postponed until tomorrow. The Premier, however, made his expected statement in regard to the financial situation, and impressed upon the nation the necessity of a careful husbanding of its resources.

Including the new vote of credit to be asked tomorrow, the Premier pointed out the total amount allotted for war purposes will be £1,862,000,000 ($9,310,000,000.) He presented figures showing that the government had a sufficient sum left over from the previous note to finance the war to the third week of November.

The approximate daily cost of the war between September 12 and November 6 was given by Mr. Asquith as £4,350,000 ($21,750,000.) It rose to this figure from £2,700,000 ($13,500,000) in the earlier part of the financial year.

Loans advanced by Great Britain to her allies and dominions between April 1 and November 6, Mr. Asquith said, amounted to £98,000,000. In the same period £25,000,000 was expended for food supplies and miscellaneous items.

REASON FOR INCREASE.

The main causes of increase in the cost of the war, Mr. Asquith continued, were the great expenditures for munitions and the advances to Great Britain's allies and dominions. He could hold out no hope that there was any immediate likelihood of a decrease in those two items.

Mr. Asquith said there was no reason to believe expenditures during the next two months would exceed £5,000,000 daily, so that the new vote of credit might be expected to last to the middle of February.

Returning to the question of public economy, the Premier said the matter had engaged the attention of the government and a special Cabinet committee for several months. As a result there had been much closer investigation of army contract prices and there has been a revision of the scales of the army rations.

AS TO CONTRACTS.

Regarding contracts, said the Premier, arrangements had been made between the allied governments to avoid competing against one another either in the home market or in foreign markets and thus keep down prices. Where there has been reasonable ground to suspect that excessive profits were being earned by contractors, prices had been reduced to a reasonable level.

The War Office, Premier Asquith asserted, has already taken steps to secure a more effective and co-ordinated prosecution of the war on the part of the allied powers by strengthening the British general staff and establishing more intimate intercommunication between the military and naval advisers of all the allied powers. His own views had been much strengthened by what he had seen during his two visits to the front as to the importance of interchanging officers between the War Office and the army in the field so that all might experience trench fighting and all the novel operations this war had introduced.

EXPERIENCE OF STAFF.

The Premier said that no less than twenty-six of the present War Office staff had had actual experience in the present war.

The Premier said there was a British attache at French headquarters and a French officer is in attendance at the London War Office, while arrangements now had been made for more intimate co-operation and for the interchange of views for common development of plans for all the military operations in the different theaters of the war.

"It is more than possible," added the Premier, "that this organization may be still further developed."

HOUSE OF LORDS ALARMED AT GROSS EXTRAVAGANCE.

Viscount Peel Declares it is Duty of Government to Exercise More Stringent Supervision of Expenditures, and Forced Loan is Thought to be Likely in Future if Present Rate is Continued.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

LONDON, Nov. 10.—During the debate in the House of Lords this evening on a motion of Viscount Peel declaring it to be the duty of the government to exercise more effective supervision and control of naval and military expenditure, Baron Davenport said the country could not go on as it had been indefinitely and maintain financial solvency. The Marquis of Crewe, Lord President of the Council, who replied, said that the main bulk of the expenditure was on account of the importation of munitions and loans to the allies and the British dominions.

Lord Peel, in support of his motion, said that the figures which were given as to the expenditure on war and civil expenditure for a full year approached very nearly to the aggregate amount of the income of the nation.

He doubted whether the government was sufficiently serious in enforcing economy. The government had acted only half-heartedly in restricting the excess of imports, and while advising the nation to practice economy, there was no evidence that the government was setting an example in economy.

Lord Davenport thought it likely that the government would have to resort to a forced loan.

CHECK ON IMPORTS.

"We cannot go on indefinitely and maintain our financial solvency," he said. He estimated the country imported from $250,000,000 to $300,000,000 of goods which could be done without. The government, he urged, should have courage to recast the system of separation allowances so that no family should have more than it received before the war.

Baron Joicey, who is a large colliery owner, said he had no hesitation in saying that the financial situation of the country at the present time was causing a great deal of anxiety. The government, he declared, did not seem really to grasp the financial position, the waste, extravagance and reckless expenditure taking place throughout the country in connection with military affairs.

In reply, the Marquis of Crewe said everybody now realized the national strain imposed by the war.

TAX ON LUXURIES.

The question of the taxation of luxuries had been considered, but the taxation of some of these articles would involve changes in the customs department, which would cost more than the additional amount collected. It had been impossible, he said, to maintain treasury control of the War Office expenditures, where serious delay might be caused, but the financial council of the war had strictly supervised the expenditures.

Lord Crewe concluded by expressing the conviction that for the whole course of the war sound international finance and domestic economy should go hand in hand.

"If this rule is persevered in," he said, "we will find that when the war is ended we are standing on the firm rock of financial stability while our enemies will be floundering deeply in the swamp into which their feet are already beginning to subside."

The debate will be resumed tomorrow.

KRUPP'S GROSS PROFITS TWENTY-ONE MILLIONS.

[BY WIRELESS AND A. P.]

BERLIN (via Sayville, N. Y.) Nov. 10.—Although the profits of the Krupp works last year amounting to $21,500,000 would permit of payment of a 24 per cent. dividend, the owners will make no extra profits on account of the war. After payment of a dividend of 12 per cent., the amount distributed last year, a surplus of about $6,000,000 will be devoted to charity. To the relief fund for families of soldiers killed in battle, $5,000,000 will be given and $925,000 will go to the general relief fund.

The gross earnings of the Krupp works last year amounted to 113,000,000 marks, against 84,000,000 marks for the previous year, and the net earnings were $6,400,000 marks, as compared with 33,900,000 marks for the previous year.

The annual report explains that the volume of home sales, owing to the heavy demands for the army and the navy, reached a total almost two and one-half times that of the aggregate of home and foreign sales before the war. The company, it is stated, is engaged in enlarging its plant in order to meet the demands for war material. Hence the remaining $5,000,000 marks uncalled capital of last year's increase of 70,000,000 marks will now be called, making the total capital 250,000,000 marks.

SCHWAB'S GUN PLANT LOSES MILLIONS IN FIRE.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

SOUTH BETHLEHEM (Pa.) Nov. 10.—The fire which virtually destroyed the No. 4 machine shop of the Bethlehem Steel Company here today was finally extinguished this afternoon after causing damage estimated at from $1,000,000 to $4,000,000.

The building destroyed was recently reconstructed and equipped with valuable machinery at a cost of about $2,000,000. Eight hundred guns, along with other war material were in process of manufacture in the shop. These guns were valued at nearly $1,000,000. The building was almost completely burned and the machinery and guns ruined or damaged. The guns were being made for the Entente allies and for the United States government.

The company issued a statement that he fire was due to crossed electric light wire circuit which ignited oil in the boring mill.

SLAV OFFENSIVE IS A FAILURE.

[BY WIRELESS AND A. P.]

BERLIN, Nov. 10 (via Sayville.)—An offensive movement undertaken by the Russians in the Riga district is said by the War Office to have failed.

The Russians also took the offensive in the region of Czartorysk. They attempted to break through the German lines north of Budka, but were checked.

Peace Plan.

to halt the shedding of blood and permit Europe to recover from its wounds through fruitful peace. Germany not being a nation of rapine and conquest, the Kaiser would be resolved to give the world the spectacle of German magnanimity.

"Therefore, he would appeal to President Wilson, whose humanitarian sentiments are well known to him, to be his intermediary with the belligerents. He would undertake to evacuate the invaded French departments and the whole of Belgium, the question of the status of Antwerp remaining to be settled in negotiations with Great Britain.

"He would create with Poland a buffer state against Russia. He would not tamper with Serbian independence, resting content with the restoration to Austria of provinces taken from her. He would, of course, exact the return of the German colonies and would set up with Great Britain a status which would give him on the sea, for the development of German commerce, the rights of a great, even though not victorious, nation.

"In conclusion, his message would contain a threat of war of extermination in the event of the rejection of these proposals, and a triumphal couplet in honor of his people, his army and himself."

Commenting, M. Meyer emphasizes the French determination to heed no peace talk unless it includes the return to France of Alsace and Lorraine.

NEW ALARM BY SUBMARINES.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

LONDON, Nov. 10.—The renewed activity of German and Austrian submarines, especially those in the Mediterranean, as evidenced by the sinking of the Italian liner Ancona, and the attack on the British transport Mercian, has again brought to the front the unceasing vigilance required by the navies of the allies to secure the safe transport of the troops needed in the Near East.

The news of the sinking of the Ancona, which reached the British public today in a dispatch from New York, created a sensation and was compared with the destruction of the Lusitania, the London evening papers heading the report of her loss with the words "Another Lusitania."

CONFIDENCE IN NAVY.

Naval writers believe that the navy will be able to contend with the submarines in the Mediterranean as was done in the waters around the British Isles, and already two of them are reported to have been sunk, but for the moment there is natural anxiety for the transports which are proceeding east and because of the possibility of interference with the campaign in the Balkans, where troops are so necessary.

The Anglo-French troops already there are believed to be more than holding their own on the repeated attacks of the Bulgarians who are trying to destroy the little army before reinforcements can reach it. But as the Serbians are driven back by the Austro-Germans and Bulgarians, and the latter receive additional supplies of munitions, they will be alive to assume stronger offensive in the south.

OCCUPATION OF VELES.

With the French occupation of Veles, however, the position of the Bulgarians at Uskup and west of that town is precarious. On the other fronts there is much fighting despite the unfavorable weather conditions. The Russians have, by repeated attacks, regained some ground around Riga and Dvinsk, have driven the Germans farther back from the Dvina River, and in the south are repeated their thrusts, with the object of preventing the Germans and Austrians from entrenching.

In fact, Gens. Ruzsky and Ivanoff and their colleagues are proving that it is dangerous for the Germans to weaken their fronts to support the Balkan western lines.

ITALIANS AGGRESSIVE.

The Italians, likewise, continue their aggressive tactics and have added another mountain position to their gains in Trentino.

The British are having a rather quiet time, while the French in the western zone have had to contend with only a few minor attacks.

There is a report current that the Germans contemplate another offensive in the west, such as they put into effect a year ago.

MOVE TO END HOSTILE ACTS.

AMERICAN SOCIETY REQUESTS PRESIDENT TO PUT CHECK ON FOREIGNERS.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—"More effectual action against the lawless and hostile acts committed in this country in the interests of foreign governments" is urged in messages sent today to President Wilson and to members of Congress by the American society.

The society, described as a federation for national unity, and recently incorporated in New York State, announced that the sending of the messages to Washington was determined upon at the first meeting of the board of directors. The membership includes many representative men. Rear-Admiral Caspar F. Goodrich was elected vice-president of the society, and John A. Steward, chairman of the board of directors.

The directors also adopted a resolution "deprecating hyphenated political organizations of every kind, and the society will urge the adoption by all political parties of a policy of non-recognition, in nominations or otherwise, of such un-American influences."

INEFFICIENCY OF BLOCKADE.

HUNDREDS OF STEAMERS HAVE CLEARED FROM BALTIC IN LAST TWO WEEKS.

[BY WIRELESS AND A. P.]

BERLIN, Nov. 10 (via Tuckerton, N. J.)—"The inefficiency of the British blockade in the Baltic is pointed out by the newspapers," says the Overseas News Agency, "the figures showing that during the past fortnight 1200 ships, with an aggregate of 5,500,000 tons, have cleared from seven Baltic ports.

"It is also noted that during the past four weeks vessels aggregating 79,616 tons belonging to Germany's enemies have been sunk by the Germans, while only fourteen German vessels, with an aggregate of 29,451 tons, have been lost."

ALLIES JAM GREEK PORT.

Disembarkation at Saloniki Made in Good Order.

Formal Protest is Filed but Troops are Welcome.

Street Venders of the Town Reaping a Fortune.

[A. P. FOREIGN CORRESPONDENCE.]

LONDON, Oct. 30.—There was an international flavor to the crowd which watched the landing of the first allied troops at Saloniki, a large number of English and American Red Cross workers having come down from Belgrade and Nish to await the course of events at the Greek port. Several of these eyewitnesses reached England this week. The Rev. A. H. Sewell, chaplain of the Red Cross detachments in Serbia, spoke in enthusiastic terms of the completeness, quiet and speed with which the allied expedition disembarked and of the unmistakable cordiality with which it was received by the populace.

"A British vanguard reached Saloniki on September 30," he said, "consisting of Brig.-Gen. Hamilton—whom everybody mistook for Sir Ian Hamilton—and his staff, with a following of twenty strapping British Tommies in brand new khaki.

"Both officers and men made themselves as inconspicuous as possible in Saloniki, their purpose being merely to inspect the camps prepared for the landing force some two miles outside the town. Four days later reports gained general currency that the expedition was already waiting in a huge fleet of transports outside the harbor. There was academic discussion among the populace as to the ethics of a landing and crossing of neutral Greece, and one hears suggestions here and there that it was 'just what the Germans had done to Belgium,' but nowhere was there any attitude of hostility to the allied plans. Indeed, when opinion was expressed at all, it was in terms of cordial welcome.

"On October 5 the transports began to arrive in the harbor proper. They were crammed with French troops, which poured over the gangplanks onto the 'Serbian quay.' The Saloniki newspapers published two pieces of news side by side—first, that the Greek government had lodged a 'protest' against the landing; and, second, that the governor of Saloniki harbor had given orders to clear it, in order that no other traffic might interfere with the comfortable disembarkation of the allied forces. That typified the whole operation. Greece had entered formal complaint, but was shutting her eyes to the actual operation. It interpreted popular feeling, which is vigorously sympathetic with the allies.

"When the news of Venizelos's resignation and the causes of it reached Saloniki on the afternoon of October 5 the public was stunned. It could not understand. It seemed so completely at variance with the spectacle unfolding itself before Saloniki's own eyes. It was like a thunderbolt.

"Meantime the Anglo-French landing continued. The streets were crowded with spectators, but the troops, once disembarked, marched straight away from the town, not through it. Thus there was little opportunity for demonstration either pro or con. There certainly was not at any stage anything approaching a hostile reception. The disembarkation took place beneath a broiling sun such as New York experiences in mid-July, but the heat was not allowed to interfere with the workman-like precision of the operation. The newcomers brought with them every solitary thing an army needs to live on and fight with. They needed to ask their Greek hosts for nothing except water. Artillery, stores, horses, mules, tenting, ammunition—everything seemingly in great quantity and spic and span shape—was on hand, and the troops simply marched out to their encampment and made themselves at home. The camp is on a plateau-like area quite close to the beach.

"Fraternizing between Britons, French and Greeks set in without delay. There was perhaps a little more immediate intimacy between the Greeks and the French, for many of the Greek soldiers talk French fluently, while only occasionally is one found who speaks good English. On the other hand, there is a great physical resemblance between the Greek and British soldiers. Their khaki field kits and uniforms are almost exactly alike.

"The street venders in Saloniki must be making a fortune. Mysterious edibles on sticks, almonds, pistachios, all are bought up by the visitors as fast as offered. The newsboys are able to sell all the papers they can obtain, whether printed in Greek, French, or English, at their own price.

"The hotels seethe with officers; the waiters are fast becoming incoherent from overwork, and Saloniki is beginning to dread a failure of foodstuffs. German spies, many of whom are quite frank and straightforward about their business, are everywhere."

TEN NURSES LOST AT SEA.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

LONDON, Nov. 10.—Casualty lists issued tonight show that ten women nurses of the New Zealand nursing service were lost when the transport Marquette was torpedoed and sunk in the Aegean Sea last month. Nearly 100 of the personnel of the Marquette, in all, were unaccounted for, the Admiralty stated when the sinking of the transport was announced on October 26.

HOW WOUNDED ARE CARED FOR.

French System Said to be Precision Itself.

Nearly Eight Thousand Men Reach Paris Daily.

Each One is Greeted with Steaming Hot Meal.

[A. P. FOREIGN CORRESPONDENCE.]

PARIS, Oct. 30.—Long trains of wounded keep rolling into La Chapitre station of the Gare du Nord; train after train, even after the fiercest fighting of Champagne has occurred, for the ebb and flow of the struggle keeps going on with its steady yield of maimed and stricken soldiers. The government gave the correspondent facilities the other day to see this procession of incoming trains and the methods employed for promptly handling this enormous daily inrush of human freight requiring the most immediate and delicate attention.

La Chapitre is the station in the most northeastern section of Paris, nearest the fighting line, sixty-five miles away, and is the natural point for these trains from the front to empty into Paris. Here the trains of wounded averaged twenty-six a day, with 200 to 300 wounded on each train, even after the lull in the fighting, or from 5200 to 7800 wounded to be cared for daily. When the fighting was fiercest these figures were far exceeded, and one of the officers stated 41,000 wounded had been received in four days, and added the remarkable fact that only two out of the 41,000 had died in transit.

HOT MEALS READY.

The platforms to which these trains of wounded roll up, are all thoroughly organized for fast and systematic work. Near at hand is a huge kitchen which can furnish 4000 meals on short notice, so that the wounded may immediately receive hot tea and sustenance. There are many cooks, and scores of nurses ready to carry dozens of meals packed in wicker baskets. Twelve surgeons are on duty to give first aid in a pressing case, though this station is not for treatment of the wounded; it is merely to receive and distribute them to the hospitals in Paris or in Central or Southern France.

A train of wounded from the front had just come in as the inspecting party arrived under government escort. Some fifty ambulances were drawn up on the platform ready to receive the wounded men, and already the ambulances were well filled and moving off to the various hospitals. Each ambulance received six, two tiers of three, the litters sliding on groves into their places in the ambulances. Only a roll of yellow blanket appeared on the stretchers, with here and there a face, but usually the heads were covered, seeking complete quiet. There was no complaint; no groans. Everything moved along swiftly and with absolute precision, and not long after the men came from the trains they were on their way to the hospitals.

EVERY MAN "BOOKED."

Occasionally some case needed special attention. One red-bearded peasant soldier, well along in years, was ashen pale as he was rolled by in an invalid chair to receive the care of surgeons. Another young soldier was laughing as his chair rolled by, to assure the visitors that his wound was slight. Most of the men, it was said, were only slightly wounded, there were not the harrowing cases as when trains bearing the heavily wounded empty into La Chapitre.

While the men were being taken from the train and placed in ambulances, a constant checking was going on among an army of military clerks, keeping an accurate register of each man, his wound, his hospital was best suited to his case, whether his condition permitted further travel to the hospitals in the interior of France, as there is no desire to avoid congestion in these Paris hospitals. The registers were kept with the exactness of a bank.

"We find that two hours suffice to dispose of the most difficult case of wounded," said the officer as the last ambulance moved away.

LOS ANGELES JAPANESE CELEBRATE CORONATION

Americans Attend Magnificent Reception and Ball Given by Vice-Consul Ujiro Oyama at Ebell Clubhouse—New Emperor is Cheered and President Wilson Acclaimed with Banzais.

AMERICAN Los Angeles joined last night with Japanese Los Angeles in celebrating the coronation of the new Emperor of Japan at a magnificent reception and ball given by Vice-Consul Ujiro Oyama at the Ebell Club House. More than 1200 invitations were issued, and a majority of them were accepted. Social leaders and prominent business men of the city mingled with the many Nipponese present, and the beautiful gowns of the women mingled wonderful colors with the native costumes worn by a number of the Japanese present.

The clubhouse was decorated with chrysanthemums, roses, and flags of Japan and the United States. A big American flag was draped over the stage in the auditorium, surrounded by the rising sun flags of the Cherry Blossom Empire.

OYAMA HEADS LINE.

Vice-Consul and Mrs. Oyama headed the receiving line. Those who aided in greeting the guests were Dr. and Mrs. A. J. Scott, Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Ashley, Mr. and Mrs. S. A. Simon, Mr. and Mrs. F. D. R. Moote, Mr. and Mrs. H. Toyama, Dr. and Mrs. K. Ikeuchi, Dr. and Mrs. J. Tanaka, Mr. and Mrs. S. Hirose and Mr. K. Tanigoshi, vice-president of the Japanese-American League.

As each guest entered, they were presented with a huge chrysanthemum, the emblem of the Japanese Imperial court. During the reception, those who came early indulged in dancing. Later special fancy dances were performed by Japanese girls.

Vice-Consul Oyama then addressed his guests, and told them the reason for the celebration. He thanked them all heartily for aiding in honoring the new Emperor of Japan, Yoshihito.

Mr. Oyama's speech was answered by Meyer Lissner, for the Americans present. Following which the Japanese there joined in cheering "banzai" for their Emperor. This banzai was followed by another for President Wilson.

BALLARDS ARE PRESENT.

Among those present were Walter J. Ballard, and his daughter, Miss Winifred C. Ballard. Mr. Ballard wore the decoration, "The Order of the Rising Sun, fifth class," bestowed upon him by the late Emperor Mushihito, for merit. Mr. Ballard is one of the five Americans to possess such a distinction.

Others present were Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Lippincott, Mr. and Mrs. Andrew J. Copp, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Robert N. Bulla, Mr. and Mrs. Edward R. Brainerd, Mrs. and Miss Behymer, Dr. and Mrs. Charless W. Bryson, Mr. and Mrs. George A. Brock, Louis S. Nordlinger, Louis J. Sentous, Rabbi Hecht, D. A. Hamburger, and a host of other social prominent residents.

Avoid Seizure.

TO KEEP SHIPS AT HOME UNTIL SEA IS MADE SAFE.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10.—A request for further information regarding Great Britain's recent announcement naming a score of vessels flying neutral flags as "suspected" of German ownership is being seriously considered by State Department officials.

The newly organized trans-Atlantic line, eleven of whose ships under the American flag are on the "suspected" list, has protested to the State Department that, as one of its vessels already had been condemned by a French prize court, it is unwilling to allow the others to go to sea until the attitude of the allied governments is more definitely known.

All the trans-Atlantic line ships have been transferred to American registry since the war began, but line officials say that stock of the corporation is all American-owned. The vessel seized by the French was the Solveig, which was condemned "by default." The British announcement, a copy of which has been transmitted to the State Department, warns British subjects not to use the "suspected" ships, but does not state specifically they will be considered subject to seizure because of the status of their ownership.

BRITISH BOARD AMERICAN SHIP.

Search the Zealandia in Harbor at Progreso.

Act Constitutes a Violation of Rules of War.

English Say the Vessel is Manned by Germans.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10.—The American steamer Zealandia was forcibly searched by a party from a British cruiser last week, while lying in the port of Progreso, Mex. The American Consul there reports the cruiser now is lying outside, presumably waiting to seize the ship.

On the face of such a report as the Consul sent, even though incomplete, the official conclusion here is that the British naval authorities not only violated Mexican neutrality, but far exceeded their rights in forcibly searching an American ship in a neutral port.

The Zealandia has figured much of late in reports of the investigations of the British agents on the trail of ships supposed to be fitting out in the United States for attacking oil-carrying ships from Mexican oil fields where the British navy draws a great proportion of its supply of fuel.

GERMANS ABOARD.

On October 7, the Zealandia, formerly a Hawaiian ship, mysteriously left Pensacola, Fla., at night, for Tampico, Mex., carrying a large stock of provisions and manned principally by Germans. An American flag was painted on her hull had been painted over and it was reported that while at sea she flew the German flag, although this was flatly denied by her owners.

The ship moved from Tampico to Campeche, where British agents located her and reported that she bore a large quantity of rosin for which there was no ostensible use in Mexico, though it is used largely for making chewing gum. They also reported their suspicions that she bore a large quantity of copper and the British cruiser was that the ship was waiting for an opportunity to slip out with her cargo for some port where it would find its way to Great Britain's enemies.

DENIES GERMANS ABOARD.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—The steamer Zealandia, which is reported to have been searched by a boarding party from a British cruiser at Progreso, Mex., is owned by the Fiske Trading Company of New York. The company said today that they had received no report from Capt. Devanbur for a week.

The manager of the Fiske company also denied that the Zealandia had been on board several officers were taken from the interned German auxiliary cruiser Kronprinz Wilhelm at Norfolk, Va., or that the vessel had been fitted out for the use of Germans in possible raids against British commerce in the region of the coast of Mexico.

Interstate Commission Refuses to Reopen the Western Freight Rate Hearings.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10.—Application of the western railroads for a reopening of the advance freight rate case were denied today by the Interstate Commerce Commission.

At the same time the commission, on its own initiative, ordered an investigation of rates, rules and practices of western railroads in relation to the transportation of livestock, fresh meats and packing-house products. These commodities were among those on which the roads sought to have rates increased. No reason was assigned for the refusal to reopen the case.

PHILIPPINE BILL AGAIN.

Measure to Grant More Self-Government to Islands will Come up in Congress this Session.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10.—The bill to give a greater measure of self-government to the Philippines and promise ultimate independence, which failed of final passage by Congress at the last session, will again be made a part of the administration programme at the next session. High officials let it be known today that Congress also would be urged to act on the bill giving citizenship to Porto Ricans.

TEXAS BANK FAILS.

CASHIER REPORTED MISSING.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10.—Comptroller of the Currency Williams announced tonight that the Merchants and Farmers National Bank of Cisco, Tex., had closed its doors upon the disappearance of the cashier, whose shortage at the institution were excessive. The bank's capital is $50,000 and its deposits at the time of the last examination $80,000. "The bank had been closed upon several weeks ago to make an impairment of capital," said the Comptroller's statement. "Its failure is the result of continued mismanagement by the officers, disregard of reserve requirements, excessive and unsecured loans."

"During this last struggle the Italians have suffered immense losses, but the Austro-Hungarians have maintained all their positions."

UTILIZATION OF BRITISH SHIPPING.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

LONDON, Nov. 10, 6:05 p.m.—The measures decided upon by the government in pursuance of its recent decision to utilize British shipping more effectively to meet the needs of the war were made known today in the following official announcement:

"Two orders in council were made today. The first prohibits British ships from carrying cargo from one foreign port to another foreign port after December 1, unless licensed. The second gives power to requisition ships for the carriage of foodstuffs and necessaries."

EXPLAIN PARCEL POST STOPPAGE.

[BY WIRELESS AND A. P.]

BERLIN (via Sayville, N. Y.) Nov. 10.—The suspension of the parcel post service from Germany to America is explained in official circles as having been due to the fact that the Holland-America line informed the German authorities it was unable longer to carry parcels owing to interference by the British. Other steamship lines are unwilling, for the same reason, to carry parcels.

Parcel post traffic from the United States to Germany, however, has not been interrupted. This is interpreted here as indicating that the British refrain from seizing these parcels owing to possible complications with Washington.

Congress.

WOULD UTILIZE USELESS POSTS.

Garrison's Army Plan Likely to Receive Support.

Congressmen are Overjoyed at Present Outlook.

Development of New Force is Welcome to Senators.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Nov. 10.—Secretary of War Garrison has brought delight to the hearts of "pork barrel" members of the Senate and House of Representatives. Mr. Garrison has discovered a use for the useless army posts upon which millions of dollars of the national defense appropriations have been expended in recent years. In his recent explanation of the plan advocated by the President and himself for the development of a military force to include 400,000 continentals, the Secretary made this statement:

"It is not now proposed to attempt a rearrangement of army posts. However undesirable from a military standpoint the location of some of the existing posts may be, they do exist and can be utilized and in fact will be necessary if the increased force is provided."

So there is joy in Congressional hearts and will be among those in numerous communities who have reaped profits from the construction and development of military stations for which the army had not the slightest use and which have been responsible for a great deal of the inefficiency existing in the service. Congressmen who fought for years the efforts of the War Department, will support enthusiastically the Garrison plan for they can see in it a continuance of appropriations for the profit of their respective localities.

MAY AID ACTION.

Sordid as this reason is for the support some Senators and Congressmen will give to the scheme of national defense, it is bound to be influential in getting Congressional action. It is not often that an evil can be turned into a positive good and the country can thank its lucky star that this is the case with reference to the posts which have been established by Congressional and local greed and which, to an almost unbelievable extent, have taken money from the public treasury for the benefit of the few rather than for that of the entire people.

The army of the United States at the present time is made up of 108,000 officers and enlisted men. This force has been provided with 176 posts or sub-stations. The cost of these 176 posts amounts to about $100,000,000. Deducting some $20,000,00 expended for construction of quarters for the officers of the army there remains about $80,000,000 spent in the construction of what may be termed army posts, sub-posts, coast artillery posts, etc. The average cost of a post for quartering soldiers, therefore, is about $800 per man. Could there be anything more unbusinesslike?

WHERE POSTS ARE SCATTERED.

Most of the posts have been scattered among twenty-four States with more regard to the "pork" than the need of the country or of the military service. Including the small stations, there are about fifty posts, many of them authorized without the approval of the army. The army war college three years ago recommended the abandonment of a great many posts and the establishment of eight which it regarded as desirable from a strategical and economical point of view. The posts recommended for abandonment cost the government about $20,000,000 and it was estimated that an annual saving of something like $5,500,000 could be effected if the concentration policy were adopted. Did Congress adopt the war college scheme? It did not. The power of "pork" was too potent. Congress blandly placed the responsibility upon the Secretary of War.

WONDER WHAT WILSON WILL DO.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

PARIS, Nov. 10.—The international phase of the sinking of the Ancona is attracting especial attention owing to the attitude of President Wilson with respect to the limitation of submarine activity against merchant vessels.

The French government has received only meager reports of the disaster, and these have not disclosed whether the commander of the submarine investigated the nationality of the passengers and gave them time to take to the boats before sinking the ship.

The French steamer Plaidan rescued 100 persons from the Ancona, who were among those landed at Bizerta. Those who took to the small boats after the vessel went down suffered great hardships before they reached shore.

ROME AND MILAN GIVE DETAILS.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

LONDON, Nov. 11, 2:14 a.m.—Rome and Milan dispatches to the London morning papers allege that when the submarine gave chase the Ancona increased her speed but the submarine slowly caught up to her and began firing, repeatedly hitting the stern of the vessel.

Scenes of panic occurred aboard the Ancona when eventually the captain gave up his attempt to escape, whereupon after further shelling, the submarine fired a torpedo.

The Ancona listed and began to sink. There was no time to lower all the boats. Many of the passengers who were rescued jumped overboard with the life belts.

A wireless call for help brought the French steamer Plaidan and several launches to the scene. They made many rescues.

MANY KILLED BY GUNFIRE.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

LONDON, Nov. 11, 3:35 a.m.—A Central News dispatch from Rome says, there is no news of 110 persons who were on board the Ancona and that it is presumed they were killed by the gunfire of the submarine. The only American in the first cabin, the dispatch says, was Mrs. Greil.

H. CARR.

His Crucifixion at the Hands of Enraged Britons—A Good Deal of "Langwidge" Mixed with a Trifle of Logic.

[The Times prints the following letters verbatim, et literatim, et punctuatim, et cetera:]

Against H. Carr and His Sins.

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 9.—[To the Editor of The Times:] It is with pleasure that I read the letter of protest printed in today's Times over the name of Anna L. Lawrence. It is high time that the preponderant peoples of English, Canadian, Australian, French, Belgian, Russian, Portuguese and Italian birth protest against the pro-German stand of that portion of the American press owned or controlled by those near-sighted German-Americans and descendants of expatriated Irishmen.

It is a crime that success based upon the infraction of every international law and humane motive should gain the support of supposed-to-be neutral America. Understand, I am not pro-British. I haven't a drop of English blood in my veins. For the Individual Britisher I have little regard. My sympathies lie with Belgium and Serbia, and the sympathy I feel for those unfortunate countries must in some degree extend to their allies, who so unhesitatingly came to their defense—Russia for Serbia, and England for Belgium.

My ancestors were Teutons, but in the face of present events I thank God that I am a native-born American! Or, in fact, I should thank the Creator were I a Hottentot or Peruvian Inca rather than a German or Austrian!

From the diaries and records of my ancestors I have had ample proof of the native brutality and inhumanity of Prussia. A paternal ancestor was sentenced to death many years ago for the simple "crime" of marrying a Polish girl of royal blood. Fortunately—for me—his wife and baby boy escaped to America. My mother, although of pure Prussian blood, has often related to me the horrors of the German authorities governing her province, Alsace-Lorraine.

Undoubtedly the world, and particularly America, has been served an excellent warning and example on the value of preparedness by the Teutonic campaigns. We cannot but admire their efficiency. Neither can we but admire the physical perfection of Indigent Patagonians, but should the acknowledgment of perfection, physically or offensively, carry our sympathies with Patagonian cannibalism or Teutonic inhumanity? I should say not! We should be taught a lesson not only in the value of preparedness, but also in the value of a humaneness that in case of an unfortunate conflict will bring us the sympathy and moral support of the civilized world — which is the one big thing that Germany cannot command, now nor for generations.

All nations, true, have been guilty of national crimes, but at the present and in the present conflict we should consider the present actions of the combatants toward human life and its sanctity. Who dares say that the financial disadvantages England's seizure of American commerce causes us to suffer is in any way a barbarity? Who can deny that Germany's sinking of commercial vessels with their neutral crews and passengers is more barbarous than the cannibalism of the Patagonians who used to kill in order to eat?

Not militarism, but Teutonism, is being fought by the most of the world, and I—of Teuton ancestry—will be the happiest to see it go down to defeat. RUPERT HECHT.

Logic, Sarcasm and Chesterfieldian Politeness.

SANTA MONICA, Nov. 9.—[To the Editor of The Times:] I have always read Mr. Harry Carr's effusions for years. When he was sporting editor of your paper he was excellent, though he did not know much about "sport" in the higher sense. I like to read him, because he writes forcibly, with the ignorance of a "cave man." (Of course, he couldn't be a cave man, as he is such a shrimp.)

When he wrote war stories at his desk in The Times Building he was quite good, but when he went abroad he "bit off more than he could chew." He was not a big-enough man for the job. The war correspondents of other newspapers in this country (presumably neutral) are more dignified and not so rabid, even if they are pro-German. By the way, why does Harry write "pro-ally?" "Ally" is singular—as he is—whereas the allies are quite plural.

He reminds me of the days of my extreme youth, when I played marbles. There were some marbles quite useless for business and colored like an Easter egg. We called them "Dutch Alleys." I conclude they were made in Germany. In your issue of today he says: "My watch did not happen to attract them. I am glad I had an old watch."

This is just cheap vulgarity. If he has been indulging in this kind of talk while he has been in "Urrup" he need not be surprised that all nations hate Americans (which he has stated) of his stamp. He talks of Ambassador Gerard as "Gerard," and thinks he is quite a decent sort of fellow. I don't know what Ambassador Gerard would do, but I know what any other Ambassador would do under the circumstances. If Harry Carr called him Tom, Dick or Harry to his face he would order somebody "lower down" to kick the said Mr. Harry Carr. Mr. Harry Carr hasn't "got my goat." (I have lived too long in this country to have any goats left.)

On the other hand, I love him, because he is so cocky, so forcible, and so ignorant. I shall rue the day when he leaves The Times and takes the position of dictator to the world. (The Kaiser must die some time.) You published a letter signed "Anna L. Lawrence," so I am hoping you will publish this. G. L. WARING.

No Skyscrapers in London—And Why.

ELLIOTT-BRANT RANCHO (Owensmouth) Nov. 11.—[To the Editor of The Times:] Being one of several Englishmen in this locality who have become absolutely nauseated by Mr. Harry Carr's attack on England and the English people in general, I am delighted to see a letter in today's Times by Anna L. Lawrence, who is evidently unafraid to make a stand for her English cousins.

Mr. Carr in his railing calls many things he professes to have observed with his marvelous American intelligence as piffle, yet in The Times of November 1 he says: "With the real affection that I have learned to have for the English people [how very considerate of him] I can say from the bottom of my heart that it would be a good thing if the next Zeppelin blew up Westminster Abbey, St. Paul's and all the rest of the relics. There are too damn many relics there." May I ask any cultured American if this is not worse than piffle? He goes on childishly to say: "They don't show you any skyscrapers going up." Firstly, we do not allow any building over seven stories on account of appearances, and, secondly, London, being undermined with underground railways, the public safety has to be considered before the almighty dollar.

Now for the moment let us follow Mr. Carr's tirade against British inefficiency in taking a small glimpse at what British arms have accomplished. With the exception of East Africa and a district in Kameruns, we have gained the whole great German colonial empire; we have swept the German naval and mercantile fleets from the face of the ocean; we have smashed her serious and murderous submarine attack, while our own navy is stronger than ever; we have completely repelled the Turkish invasion of Egypt and taken Mesopotamia from them; we have helped to save Paris and, mainly by the feat of our own arms, stopped the advance on Calais, helped extricate the Belgian army, and we have, as your Canadian correspondent affirms, raised an enormous voluntary army from all parts of the British empire—that empire of glorious traditions upon which the sun never sets, whose colonies hold out the strong arm of the man-child to the great Mother who gave them birth, and, lastly, we have acted as banker, factory and ammunition store of our stanch allies.

I have been in Ontario, British Columbia and Saskatchewan, and let any man tell the sons of the land of the maple that they are untrue in word or deed to England, and see what will happen. Canada, I believe, refused reciprocity with U.S.A. Why?

I myself have two brothers on the western front and nine other relatives in the field, and my sister lost her fiance when the Hawke went down.

Twice before it has fallen to England to smash world conquest—that of Spain in the form of the Spanish Armada, and when we broke Napoleon at Waterloo—and it has again fallen on her shoulders to be the main cause of Germany's eventual complete and utter defeat.

As a subscriber and one of the thousands of British readers of your paper in Southern California, I shall be glad to see this letter in print, as a gentle hint of the feeling of Englishmen in your great country.

Yours truly,
H. T. WILLOUGHBY.

HEAD STUFFED FROM CATARRH OR A COLD

Says Cream Applied in Nostrils Opens Air Passages Right Up.

Instant relief—no waiting. Your clogged nostrils open right up; the air passages of your head clear and you can breathe freely. No more hawking, snuffling, blowing, headache, dryness. No struggling for breath at night; your cold or catarrh disappears.

Get a small bottle of Ely's Cream Balm from your druggist now. Apply a little of this fragrant, antiseptic, healing cream in your nostrils. It penetrates through every air passage of the head, soothes the inflamed or swollen mucous membrane and relief comes instantly.

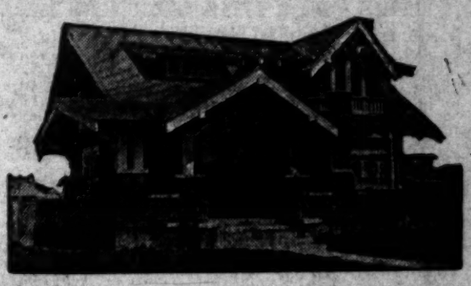
It's just fine. Don't stay stuffed up with a cold or nasty catarrh.

To Keep Straightest, Unruliest Hair in Curl

(Woman's Tribune)

The straightest, contrariest hair can be kept in curl by such simple and harmless means, that the use of the drying, singeing, blistering curling iron is altogether inexcusable. One need only get a few ounces of plain liquid silmerine from the druggist and apply a little to the hair before retiring. The result will be quite remarkable, as the looking glass will show in the morning. The hair will be delightfully wavy, fluffy and glossy, without being in the least greasy, gummy or streaked.

The silmerine is best put on with a clean tooth brush, drawing this through the hair from crown to tip, preferably after dividing it into strands. The application seems to gradually improve the texture and growth of the hair.



Only $30.00 a Month

Necessary to Buy This Home

Make us a small payment as a matter of good faith, and let your rent money of $30 a month pay the balance on this pretty home.

It is situated on the Grand Avenue car line, West Forty-eighth Street, a highly restricted residential district.

Downstairs, living room, dining room, kitchen and spare bedroom; upstairs, two bedrooms, sleeping porch, bath and numerous closets, with the large one for linen, conveniently located in the hall.

This house is placed on large lot, is high, and commands a panoramic view of the mountains.

It is modern, with hardwood floors and all rooms, except living and dining rooms are finished in white enamel, and contains all those little built-in features that please the women folks.

The home is a real bargain at the price of $3300, with terms like rent, which enables the renter to eventually own a home of which he can feel proud.

Remember this desirable home and others we have are real bargains, and now is home buying time while prices are right and terms easiest.

Get Rid of Scrofula, How? Take S.S.S.

Fifty Years' Use Proves S. S. S. Will Relieve Stubborn Cases.

You have noticed the little festering pimples on the face and body—swelling of the glands—soreness in the legs and arm muscles. These are the symptoms of Scrofula. You may have some of these symptoms, possibly the taint of Scrofula infection. But in either case, it is a dangerous condition. Your blood is infected, impure and you can never hope to gain perfect health until the impurities are washed from the system. If you feel badly all the time, you must crave health. If you want to feel renewed spirits, the glow of perfect health, bright eyes, clear skin, the knowledge that you are well, you can do so. Cleanse your blood by taking S. S. S. For fifty years it has been the standard blood purifier. It relieves the trouble by renourishing the blood, renewing its strength and stimulating the flow so that the blood regains its lost vitality, and throws off the poison. Even long-standing cases respond. But you must use S. S. S. Take it for all blood infections. Get it at your druggist's today.

Secrets of Garden of Eden Revealed to the Jury.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

ST. JOSEPH (Mich.) Nov. 10.—Benjamin, "the seventh angel of Shiloh," enthroned in his retreat in the House of David colony, while his son, Prince Coy, is defending a $25,000 suit for slander, was stigmatized in the Circuit Court today as a "coward hiding behind the skirts of his wife, Mary," as a debaucher under the cloak of religion of young girls of his flock and as the "king" who arranged wholesale marriages among young people of the colony in order to prevent possible exposure of his intimate relations with these young women, who lived with him in the "garden of Eden" and then held up to them the law of the faith that married couples are forbidden to sustain the ordinary relations of husbands and wives.

THE CLIMAX COMES.

The climax in the trial came this afternoon, when Mrs. Holliday, the plaintiff in the case, was recalled to the stand, and was followed by her sister, Mrs. Lena McFarlane, who also is suing the son of Benjamin for $25,000 damages, alleging slander. Mrs. Holliday, during the trial, swore that she had been summoned to the "inner court" by Benjamin, and that he had led her into improper relations, reminding her all the time that he was all holy and pure and could do no wrong. She told the jury that after the first visit to the apartments of the "king" that she had gone to her room and wept bitterly, all the time trying to convince herself that under the divine law which was preached in the colony, that she had done no wrong.

THE KING'S ALIBI.

A multitude of witnesses, among them the keenest of the "preaching apostles" of the House of David, came into court to deny that their doctrine prohibited husband and wife from consummating their marriage. They said that they had every reason to believe that Mr. and Mrs. Holliday had sustained full marriage relations.

Mrs. Esther Hannaford, another of the proselytes for the colony, said it was not taught that it was sinful for couples to enter into sexual relationship, and then she added: "Providing they are fit."

It has been charged that it made no difference if the couples were married or not, and it is said most were not.

John Bully, one of the "pillars" of the colony, admitted on cross-examination that in the ten years he had been a member of King Benjamin's flock he had never known a child to be born in the colony.

BRITISH CREDITS ARE ARRANGED.

AMERICAN BANKERS ORGANIZE TO TAKE CARE OF BIG LOANS.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—A committee of American bankers to assume charge of negotiations looking to the establishment of British bank credits here was appointed today at a meeting of leading financial institutions with whom the London bankers have been negotiating. It is understood that the first credit to be arranged for in the immediate future is to be $50,000,000, and that other credits are contemplated.

Frank A. Vanderlip, president of the National City Bank, is chairman of the committee, the other members being Seward Prosser and Fred L. Kent, of the Bankers' Trust Company; J. S. Alexander, president of the National Bank of Commerce; R. Y. Hebden, local manager of the Bank of Montreal; C. E. Sabin, president of the Guaranty Trust Company; William H. Porter of J. P. Morgan & Co.; G. M. Reynolds, president of the Continental and Commercial Bank of Chicago, and J. B. Forgan, president of the First National Bank of Chicago.

TRYING TO STOP CANTALOUPE SUIT.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 10.—The United States District Court of Western Pennsylvania will be asked to determine tomorrow the legality of the taking of depositions in the Sherman anti-trust suit against the Western Cantaloupe Exchange. This action was determined upon by counsel for the defendants and the farmers of the Imperial Valley of California, who brought the suit after they had argued the question practically all day before A. R Beatty, Federal master, and after three witnesses had refused to testify at the hearing today.

Counsel for the defense said that a motion would be made tomorrow to have the hearing in Pittsburgh stopped. The motion will be opposed by the plaintiff's counsel, who will ask the court to issue attachments for books and documents of the M. O. Coggins Company of Pittsburgh, one of the defendant companies, so they can be produced as evidence.

J. S. Crutchfield o fthe firm of Crutchfield & Woldfolk Company, a defendant company, refused to testify today declaring he was acting under advice of counsel. Previously two witnesses, Milburn Sill and George Lafbury, refused to be sworn.

Listens to Fraternal Delegates and Resolutions on Almost Every Conceivable Subject are Introduced.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 10.—The American Federation of Labor spent the third day of its thirty-fifth annual convention listening to speeches of fraternal delegates from this and foreign countries. Resolutions opposing the opening of coastwise shipping to foreign vessels; protesting against any alteration or repeal of the seamen's act; support of the administration programme for the establishment of a merchant marine manned by American seamen, and the creation of a shipping board for the construction and purchase of vessels were introduced.

Others introduced were against stop-watch timing of government workmen; support of an eight-hour day in all shipbuilding yards; employment only of American citizens in the construction of government works; survey of unemployment in the United States; better government compensation for retired and incapacitated Federal employees and indorsement of the civil service retirement measure; and a resolution denouncing the "persecution of members and officers of the International Garment Workers' Union as a revolting surrender of the machinery of justice to the enemies of labor," and pledging funds to defend the remaining members of the union to be tried in connection with the riots of the garment workers' strike.

Among the fraternal delegates who spoke today was B. Suzuki, delegate from the Laborers' Friendly Society of Japan. He was the first Japanese to address the federation. Although denied a seat as a fraternal delegate, he was accorded the privileges of the convention.

OBREGON AIDS THE AMERICANS.

Sends Troops to Guard the Mines at El Tigre.

Protest Against Carothers is Lodged with Carranza.

Food Reported Very Scarce Throughout Chihuahua.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

DOUGLAS (Ariz.) Nov. 10.—Carranza partisans have been ordered to go to the American-owned mining camps of El Tigre and Nacozari, Son., according to Gen. Obregon, chief of Carranza forces. Obregon said he would have tomorrow for Nogales, Son., on the border from the Villa-held town of the same name, to investigate reports that Villa troops under Gen. Juan Cabrera wish to surrender.

Gen. Calles today requested the American Consul at Naco, Ariz., to convey his thanks to Gen. Villa his willingness to care for the wounded Villa soldiers now at Nacozari, and to return them when cured to Gen. Villa or, declining them amnesty, permit their return to their homes. According to General Otero, formerly of the Villa army, there are 376 Villa soldiers ill at Naco lacking proper food and medical attention.

A. Tracy, an American, returned today from a scouting tour for the El Paso Copper Company, and reported that many deserters from Villa's army were making their way to the border. He said the Villa army attempted no destruction of American property at El Tigre.

Gen. Ignacio Moreni, the Carranza Secretary of State for Sonora, left here today for Hermosillo to establish a new capital.

ATTACKS CAROTHERS.

Obregon charges that George Carothers, special agent of the United States State Department, is "dangerous to the tranquillity of the de facto government in Mexico," in a message sent today to Gen. Carranza. The message asks Carranza to take up the matter with the Washington government. Carothers now is on the border. Formerly he represented the State Department in territory controlled by Gen. Francisco Villa.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

CHIHUAHUA (Tex.) Nov. 10.—Gen. Obregon, Gen. Carranza and party left this city today for Monclova. It was announced here that there was a serious scarcity of food throughout Chihuahua and that many sections faced famine.

Gen. Obregon left a guard for the protection of foreigners and property has been established in Mexico City, according to advices received here today. The guard will accompany trains as far south as may be made necessary by the activities of marauding bands of Zapatistas.

OBREGON RECOGNITION.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10.—Approval of the conference of American diplomats which resulted in recognition of the de facto government in Mexico, was announced unanimously today by the governing board of the Pan-American conference with all the members of the Pan-American diplomatic corps present. The resolution adopted said:

"The Pan-American Union expresses its satisfaction and approval of the action adopted by the governments represented by the de facto government of Mexico, in that it evidences a spirit of co-operation, which is the essential element of Pan-American solidarity."

Reply to the Mexican agency was announced that Gen. Carranza, as the recognized de facto government, would enter Mexico City November 20.

EAGLE PASS (Tex.) Nov. 10.—One hundred Villa officers left Douglas, Ariz., for Piedras Negras at 7 o'clock today, having accepted amnesty, according to a message from Gen. Carranza commander at Agua Prieta, received by the Mexican consul here. The message states that the officers will return to their homes in Piedras Negras.

TRY TO DYNAMITE THE SANTA CLARA.

EFFORT TO SECURE CARGO ON SHIP IS DISCOVERED BY OFFICERS.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

MARSHFIELD (Or.) Nov. 10.—An attempt to dynamite the stranded steamship Santa Clara, presumably in order to obtain valuable cargo still on board, was discovered today. A heavy charge of dynamite had been placed under the vessel's stern at low tide, but the fuse had failed to burn properly.

Postal inspectors were here today and began an investigation of the looting of a number of parcel post sacks on board the wreck.

COMMITS ERROR THAT SHE DENIED.

DR. TEDFORD PUT TO TEST BY OPPOSITION IN KEITH WILL CASE.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 10.—The Keith will contest before Judge J. V. Coffey, in the Superior Court, in which Dr. Sarah J. Tedford is trying to establish the claim of Mrs. Loula Keith Thompson, an alleged daughter, as the heir of the late John M. Keith, developed a dramatic turn today when Mrs. Tedford, writing from dictaton an extract from an alleged will of Keith's wrote "verious" for "various," an error committed in the alleged will which Mrs. Tedford had denied having written.

John L. McNab, attorney for Keith's heirs under a will that has been admitted to probate, dictated the passage as part of his cross-examination of Dr. Tedford.

"I cannot write any more, I am too nervous," Dr. Tedford said.

"We are satisfied," said McNab, handing the writing to the judge. "The witness can be excused."

Dr. Tedford was under cross-examination all day and the hearing will be continued tomorrow.

ITALIAN PUBLIC GREATLY EXCITED.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

ROME, via Paris, Nov. 10, 7:10 a.m.—The sinking of the steamer Ancona by a hostile submarine has caused intense indignation in official circles in Rome and among the Italian public generally.

Thus far Mr. Page, the American Ambassador, has been unable to ascertain definitely whether there were any American-born passengers aboard the Ancona. The Rome office of the Italian Line, to which the Ancona belonged, likewise is in the dark in this respect. It was said there today that an American family had intended to sail by the Ancona, but that their reservation had been cancelled and that it was unknown whether any Americans had booked passage through the Naples office.

Attempts to communicate with the Naples office were prevented by the stringent military regulations.

Owing to the recent activity of hostile submarines in the Mediterranean orders have been issued to the Italian fleet to redouble their efforts to capture or destroy these underwater craft and also to watch particularly and attempt to guard boats plying between the Mediterranean and the United States, and also in the Otranto Canal.

SERBIA'S APPEAL WAS NOT REFUSED.

[A. P. FOREIGN CORRESPONDENCE.]

LONDON, Nov. 10.—The statement recently attributed to a member of the Serbian Cabinet that Serbia had asked the Entente powers in vain for permission to attack Bulgaria before Bulgarian mobilization was complete, was followed by a question of this subject in the House of Commons today. The reply disclosed that apparently the attitude of the allies was one of discouragement of the proposal, but that there was no actual refusal of permission for the attack.

RUSHING OIL TO THE ALLIES.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

RICHMOND, Nov. 10.—An express train with an armed guard and carrying 750,000 gallons of petrol to fill war orders, will leave here for New York every twenty-four hours until the Panama Canal is reopened for traffic, according to announcement made today by officials of the Standard Oil Company. The first train left today over the Santa Fe Railroad with the right of way over all other traffic, orders to make no stops except for fuel and water and with a time limit for the trip of sixty-eight hours.

FOR A BAD COUGH

Here is a fine old-fashioned recipe for coughs, colds or catarrh trouble that has been used for many years with great success. Get from your druggist 1 oz. of Parmint (Double Strength) and add to it ¼ pint of hot water and 4 oz. of granulated sugar. Take one tablespoonful 4 times a day.

No more racking your whole body with a cough. Clogged nostrils should open, air passages of your head clear up so you can breathe freely. It is easy to prepare, costs little and is pleasant to take. Anyone who has a stubborn cough, or hard cold or catarrh in any form should give this prescription a trial.

Survivors.

were saved. They were taken to Ferryville (in the environs of Bizerta,) where they were attended by physicians and the Consul.

"Among the survivors are a number of wounded emigrants, nearly all Venetians and ten Greeks. A number of the survivors seem to have lost their reason as the result of their terrible experiences."

OF THE SURVIVORS.

The official list of survivors as issued in Rome included 1 American woman, Mrs. Cretle Greil of New York, 143 Italians, 16 Greeks and 1 Russian.

The statement is made that twenty-four of the Ancona's passengers were naturalized Americans. Of these nothing is known at the present time.

One of the notable passengers aboard the Ancona was the Prince of Cassano, head of one of the oldest Neapolitan families resident in Rome.

The passenger, Cecile Greil, mentioned in the official list of survivors, was previously reported under the name of "Mrs. Prof. Cecil Igriel of New York," and "Cecil Grey."

According to the New York directory Mrs. Cecile L. Greil, physician, resides at No. 107 Waverly place, borough of Manhattan.

SISTER OF LINER REACHES NEW YORK.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—The Italian line steamship Stampalia, sister ship of the Ancona, arrived tonight from Naples. Her voyage was without incident. The Stampalia left Naples one week before the sailing of the Ancona.

In view of the sinking of the Ancona and the reported activity of German and Austrian submarines in the Mediterranean and adjacent waters, considerable interest was expressed in marine circles here today concerning three steamers that sailed from American ports and are now nearing Italy.

The Europa of La Veloce line sailed from New York on October 31 and is due at Naples today, but has not been reported as arriving. The Europa carried 1125 passengers, a large portion of them being reservists.

The steamer Caserta of the Lloyd Italian line sailed from here November 1 for Genoa with 1200 passengers, nearly all of them being Italian reservists. The White Star steamer Cretic, which sailed from Boston for Mediterranean ports on October 30, is due at Gibraltar today with 1088 passengers.

BALTIMORE WOMAN ABOARD ANCONA.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

BALTIMORE, Nov. 10.—Niccola Mazzurello of this city today notified Italian Consul Schiaffino that he had received a letter Saturday from his wife saying she and their daughters would sail from Naples for New York on the steamer Ancona.

Mrs. Mazzurello wrote she would sail under the name of Andelino Stangheri, her maiden name, as required by Italian law, when a married woman is not accompanied by her husband. The daughter's name on the passenger list was given as Philaberti Mazzurello. She is 16 years old.

A CLERGYMAN A PASSENGER.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

PATERSON (N. J.) Nov. 10.—The Rev. Dr. Canfield B. Jones and wife, former residents of Paterson, are reported to have been passengers on the ill-fated steamship Ancona. Reports to this effect reached here today from Mrs. Catherine Wentz of Norristown, Pa., mother of Mrs. Jones. Mrs. Wentz received a letter from her daughter on the 19th stating that she and her husband were on their way to America. According to this letter their plans for sailing coincided with the date of the sailing of the Ancona

LATE REPORT FROM BERLIN.

[BY WIRELESS AND A. P.]

BERLIN, Nov. 10 (via Sayville, N. Y.)—"Information from a reliable source is that the steamship Ancona was sunk by an Austro-Hungarian submarine," says the Overseas News Agency. "She attempted to escape and thus compelled the submarine to use her guns."

MANY PASSENGERS REACH BIZERTA.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

BIZERTA (via Paris) Nov. 10.—Survivors of the Ancona to the number of 161 have been brought here by a mine sweeper and a torpedo boat. They were taken to a hospital, where they were aided by the Consuls of Italy and France. Four of them died.

TITA RUFFO ESCAPES DEATH.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 10.—Howard Shelly of the Boston Opera Company has received a letter from Tita Ruffo, the Italian opera singer, indicating that Ruffo was not on the steamship Ancona, torpedoed in the Mediterranean. He had intended to sail on the ship, but cancelled his reservation, as he had cancelled all his American engagements subsequent to arranging for the trip on the Ancona.

BRITISH SHIP ESCAPES CAPTURE.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

LONDON, Nov. 10.—Twenty-three men were killed and fifty wounded in an attack by gun fire from a submarine on the British transport Mercian in the Mediterranean. The Mercian escaped and reached port.

Announcement of the attack on the Mercian was made tonight by the British War Office, as follows:

"The outward bound transport Mercian was attacked by gunfire from an enemy submarine in the Mediterranean. She reached harbor safely with casualties of twenty-three killed, thirty missing and fifty wounded, who were landed and are in a hospital.

Nothing Stops This Man

The man with vigorous, virile health, and a clear mind, who brushes away obstacles, and rejoices in overcoming difficulties, is bound to succeed. His is the joyous outlook on life.

Physical and mental conditions like these come largely through proper eating—"Food makes the man."

Now it is a fact—attested by food experts—that the modern dietary is woefully lacking in the very elements that put success into a man. They are the mineral salts—Phosphate of Potash, etc. White bread is almost wholly lacking in them. But there is one food that richly supplies these vital elements, and that food is

Grape Nuts

Made from whole wheat and barley. Grape-Nuts contains all the nutriment of the grain, including the valuable mineral salts. It is easily digested, is concentrated and has delicious taste. A daily ration of Grape-Nuts along with other food helps build vigorous bodies and keen brains.

TODAY'S BEAUTY HINTS

To whiten and beautify the complexion permanently we have found no better preparation than a lotion made by dissolving four ounces of spurmax in a half pint of hot water, then adding two teaspoonfuls glycerin. This removes any pimples, shiny, muddy or sallow appearance, and will make anyone's skin clear, smooth and velvety. It does not show or rub off like powder; in fact, it seems a part of the skin; and for removing tan and freckles is unequaled.

It is necessary to shampoo more frequently in the warmer weather because of excessive dust and the fact that the head perspires more and is usually more exposed to the weather. The easiest to use and quickest drying shampoo that we can recommend to our readers can be prepared very cheaply by dissolving a teaspoonful of canthrox, obtained from your druggist, in a cup of hot water. This rubbed into the scalp creates a thick lather, soothing and cooling in its action, as well as very beneficial to scalp aid hair. After rinsing, the scalp is fresh and clean, while the hair dries quickly and evenly, developing a bright luster and a soft fluffiness that makes it seem very heavy.

MALTED MILK OYSTER SOUP

A Delicious and Nourishing Dish Easily and Quickly Prepared.

Now that oysters are again in season, a most nourishing dish for invalids, as well as a delicious food for those that are well, can be quickly and easily prepared as follows:

Drain two dozen oysters. Add to the oyster liquor thus obtained 1½ pints of hot water in which two heaping tablespoonfuls of Malted Milk have been dissolved. Season with salt and pepper to taste. Just before reaching the boiling point, add oysters, remove from fire and serve. This delicious dish is especially good for invalids, as it will not curdle.

In using recipes containing Malted Milk, it will be of interest to know that "The Grand Prize" (highest possible award) at the San Francisco Exposition was conferred upon that world-famous brand known as "Borden's Malted Milk in the Square Package."

Through a special process of manufacture, in Borden's Malted Milk the casein or cheesy part of the Milk has been partially predigested, thus rendering the food remarkably easy of assimilation by the most delicate stomach.

No household is complete without a package of Borden's Malted Milk constantly on hand. Insist upon the square package. At all druggists.

SAYS WILSON IGNORES CHRIST.

Bryan is Surprised at President's Use of Scripture to Bolster His Defense Plans.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10.—Former Secretary of State Bryan today added a chapter to his disagreement with President Wilson over the question of national defense by issuing a formal statement in comment on the President's recent quotation from the scriptures in support of his advocacy of military preparedness. The same quotation had been used by Col. Roosevelt in a recent published article.

"It is not surprising that Mr. Roosevelt should consult the Old Testament rather than the New," said Mr. Bryan's statement, "because he classes Christ with the mollycoddles, but why should the President, a Presbyterian elder, pass over the New Gospel in which love is the chief corner-stone and build his defense upon a passage in the Old Testament, written at a time when the children of Israel were surrounded by enemies?

"It is all right for Mr. Roosevelt to sound the trumpet because all colors are red to him. He sees armies marching against us from every direction, but the President is a man of peace and he is in a position to know that no one is threatening to attack us. It is surprising, first, that in looking up Bible authority he should ignore the teachings of Christ, and second, that he should select a passage that refers, not to preparation against imaginary dangers, but immediate action to meet an attack actually made. What the world needs today is a Pentecost, not an Armageddon."

BOIES PENROSE TO AID MILITIA.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SAN FRANCISCO BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Nov. 10.—Senator Boies Penrose of Pennsylvania gave his pledge to the National Guard Association of the United States today at the convention here of that organization to stand by the organized militia at the next session of Congress, said that in his opinion the United States should have the greatest navy in the world and went on record as favoring a Federal military and naval academy like West Point and Annapolis, maintained on the Pacific Coast.

The Senator's address seemed to strengthen the evident intention of the convention not to indorse in any manner President Wilson's proposed "continental army" of "trained citizens," and it is believed more than probable that the convention tomorrow will act adversely on the continental army idea, although the understanding is that if any fight is made on the Wilson policy by the militiamen the proposed militia pay bill will be fought by Secretary of War Lindley M. Garrison. At any rate the convention unanimously voted to levy an assessment in each State for the purpose of maintaining a lobby during the next session of Congress.

NOT A PARTICLE OF DANDRUFF OR A FALLING HAIR

Save your hair! Double its beauty in just a few moments.

25-cent "Danderine" makes hair thick, glossy, wavy and beautiful.

Within ten minutes after an application of Danderine you can not find a single trace of dandruff or falling hair and your scalp will not itch, but what will please you most will be after a few weeks' use, when you see new hair, fine and downy at first—yes—but really new hair—growing all over the scalp.

Danderine is to the hair what fresh showers of rain and sunshine are to vegetation. It goes right to the roots, invigorates and strengthens them. Its exhilarating, stimulating and life-producing properties cause the hair to grow long, strong and beautiful.

A little Danderine immediately doubles the beauty of your hair. No difference how dull, faded, brittle and scraggy, just moisten a cloth with Danderine and carefully draw it through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. The effect is amazing—your hair will be light, fluffy and wavy, and have an appearance of abundance; an incomparable lustre, softness and luxuriance.

Get a 25-cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine from any drug store or toilet counter, and prove that your hair is as pretty and soft as any—that it has been neglected or injured by careless treatment—that's all—you surely can have beautiful hair and lots of it if you will just try a little Danderine.

NEW YORK BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Nov. 10.—The issue of Das Deutsche Blatt, a German weekly published in Frankfort on the Main, has a remarkable article warning the United States that the country is threatened by a Japanese invasion, and that the so-called slides recently in the Panama Canal were really the result of explosions for which the Japanese are responsible. Declares Present Governor of the Philippi... Wrecking Superstructure Which has Taken Fo... Years to Build—Believes Republican Victory in M... sachusetts is Most Significant Development.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

CHICAGO BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Nov. 10.—William Howard Taft is "out of politics," to employ his own phrase, but he is "rooting" for Elihu Root for President.

The former President, jovial as ever, sat in his apartment at the Blackstone today and for the better part of an hour discoursed without reserve upon national questions, issues and politics.

Mr. Taft made a psychological analysis of the effect of the European war on the 1916 political situation. He dwelt with diffidence on Republican Presidential politics, and after saying he was for Root as "one of the greatest living Americans," told a story upon himself to illustrate why he was putting the soft pedal on political comment.

He betrayed a personal feeling in discussing the Philippines, and his voice shook as he remarked that the present Governor-General of the islands is "wrecking" the superstructure of government that took fourteen years to build and with which the greater part of Mr. Taft's public career was identified.

Col. Roosevelt's name was brought up once. It was at the conclusion of the interview.

"During your trips have you heard much talk that Col. Roosevelt might be a candidate?" Mr. Taft was asked.

The former President threw back his head while his frame shook with laughter. "Ho, ho, ho!" he said: "I didn't come out here to answer the riddles of the Sphinx."

In commenting on politics Mr. Taft took up the election of Gov. McCall in Massachusetts.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPA...

CHICAGO BUREAU OF ... TIMES, Nov. 10.—Armed preparedness—not alone for national defense time of stress, but as a means of forcing the Monroe Doctrine as an open-door policy in the Orient—was Senator Lawrence Y. Sherman's policy for the United States.

"We must enforce the Monroe Doctrine or abandon it ignobly. We must stand by the open door in China in the East or forget it," declared the chief instance of Senator Sherman's preparedness address made before the Chicago Association of Commerce today at the La Salle.

Seven hundred Chicago business men applauded vigorously the statement of the Illinois Senator. They approved noisily his declaration that all Americanism may soon make decisive test and that the first essential of all citizens, native born or naturalized, is to be American flag. Frank Shepard was the presiding officer.

The Senator made many pointed references to the Japanese without naming them by name. There was no misunderstanding of his meaning on the part of his audience.

"If we accept the open-door policy in the Orient and its responsibilities," he said, "some time it will test the same thing that the Monroe Doctrine does."

The Senator called on the nation to admit frankly that one of the strongest reasons why preparedness was being pushed to a successful stage was the possibility of invasion of our country by the Japanese or some other great military governments who are ambitious for land.

SHOE CONCERN ENJOINED.

Court Orders it to Withdraw Enforcement of Penalties Until Case is Heard.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 10.—A temporary injunction restraining the United Shoe Machinery Company from enforcing seven clauses in its contracts with manufacturers was issued in the Federal District Court here today.

The injunction is aimed specifically at that clause in the contracts which authorizes the United Shoe Machinery Company to withdraw from the factories any of its machines in case a contract is violated.

The injunction will apply only in case of the government suit against the United Shoe Machinery Company brought under the Clayton anti-trust law—can be heard on merits.

BUY IN LEFFINGWELL HEIGHTS.

MAKE MONEY.

Have you read the market reports on Valencia oranges? They have again paid big profits. Growers of Valencias near Leffingwell Heights have received this year $5 to $7 a box for their fruit. Returns amount to $600, $800 and over $1000 an acre for this year's crop of Valencias in East Whittier.
And yet right now you can buy choice rich land with ample water in Leffingwell Heights—in this rich, highly developed district—at only $600 an acre, on very easy terms. We have good transportation and city conveniences—everything to make Leffingwell Heights not only a money maker, but a high class home place.
Call or phone Monday and let us show you this property. Don't waste time, but secure the choicest location NOW.

CHINA'S NEEDS MEAN TRADE FOR AMERICA.

Enormous Opportunity Opened to Our Manufacturers and Exporters to Extend Their Business in the Orient. Four Hundred Million People There to Buy Just the Commodities We Have to Sell.

BY S. S. KNABENSHUE,
Former American Consul-General at Tien-tsin, China.

FOR the first time in our economic history, the manufacturers and exporters of America are beginning to realize the enormous opportunity for the extension of our export trade which has been given by the mighty conflict now proceeding in Europe. Edward N. Harley, vice-chairman of the new Federal Trade Commission, recently stated that "it is the judgment of the best business brains of the country that never has there been so favorable an opportunity as the present for American commerce to secure foreign markets."

The industries of every warring nation are deranged, for the conflict has called tens of thousands of skilled workmen from productive industry to take their places in the ranks. The manufacturing establishments of each nation have been largely turned from their usual work to the production of war material of all kinds. With the enormous requirements for this purpose, and the reduction in the number of skilled workmen in the shops, the manufacture of goods to supply foreign trade demands has necessarily been curtailed. Then, too, there is a diminution in the number of vessels available for overseas commerce. The opportunity to supply the shortage is open to us and the importance of our availing ourselves of it should be patent to all.

There are two great fields open to us for commercial exploitation. One embraces the portion of this continent to the south of us—Mexico, Central and South America. The other is the Republic of China. Our merchants are already awake to the opportunities open in the former field. Without minimizing these, the purpose of this paper is to direct attention to the vastly larger field which lies open to us across the Pacific.

The number of possible customers for our goods in any foreign country is, roughly speaking, in proportion to the population. In the Americas, from our southern boundary to Cape Horn, there are about 63,000,000 people; in China, something like 400,000,000, or nearly six times as many. Hence, China's potential value as a market is practically six-fold that of the Americas. Its area is as great as that of the United States including Alaska. Its population is four times our own, and about one-quarter of that of the entire globe.

China's agricultural and mineral resources are enormous; but its agriculture is carried on by methods prehistoric in their crudeness, without a gleam of modern scientific method; gardens and farms are worked by crude implements and contrivances similar to those seen sculptured on the Egyptian monuments; the millions of acres of arable soil only await the introduction of modern American farm machinery and methods to make this vast land the garden spot of the world. The mineral wealth of the country has hardly been scratched.

Iron ore is abundant; gold, silver, tin, lead and copper are found, and there are magnificent coal deposits in every province. In Shansi, for instance, 30,000 square files are underlaid with as fine a quality of anthracite as can be found in the world, estimated as sufficient to supply the entire globe for more than a century. Bituminous coal is still more abundant. It is not too much to say that China is the mineral storehouse of the world. In the near future American mining machinery will find there a most magnificent opportunity in the opening of these vast mineral deposits.

CHINESE EVOLUTION.

The revolution of 1911 was the logical result of the gradual education of the Chinese people to realize the advantages of western ideals and methods. It had its inception in Southern China, in Canton, of which a Chinese proverb says it is "the most populous, the most advanced, and the most turbulent city in the middle kingdom." Its population is over 1,600,000.

From it came nearly all the Chinese in the United States; Cantonese also form the Chinese population of Hawaii and the Philippines and overran Java, Siam and other sections of the Far East. Very many of these Cantonese who came to the United States returned to their native place after amassing money here, and they took with them advanced ideas on government and a clear realization of the advantages of our civilization. Those who remain here have kept in touch with their relatives at home through letters and remittances, thus giving to the Cantonese a much broader view of the outside world than is possessed by the remainder of the Chinese people. There is a saying current in Peking and Northern China that "everything new originates in Canton," and this is true, especially of matters political.

The revolution had its origin there, and many of its leaders were natives of that city or province. Among them may be mentioned Sun Yat Sen, Tong Shao Yi, Huang Hsing and Wu Ting Fang, former minister to the United States. Had it not been for the American ideas prevalent in Canton and Southern China, there would have been no revolution of 1911, and the Manchu dynasty would still be tyrannizing over what is now the youngest and the largest republic in the world.

Another factor of enlightenment was the student body of young men, educated in the United States, whose influence has been powerful in the inculcation of advanced ideas among their fellow-Chinese. The United States has thus been really the example in freedom and progress, which "Young China" has made the ideal toward which the country is tending. And one powerful factor in the promotion of our trade with China is the feeling of friendly confidence toward this country, which is universal among the men of affairs in the young republic. Dislike and distrust are felt toward those countries which have forced concessions of territory or other humiliations on China. But the United States has never gone land-grabbing in China, has not asked for a "sphere of influence," but has stood firmly by the policy of the open door—which means that the trade of China shall be open to all nations on exactly the same terms, without special favors being exacted by any; and that no nation shall throw any restrictions on the trade of any other nation with China. The men who have the guidance of the new republic know these things, and gratefully turn to us for help and guidance, because they have full confidence in the sincerity of our friendship. This confidence and good feeling is a factor of great value in our efforts to enlarge our commerce with this great country.

TRADE FIELD EXTENSIVE.

While our trade with China is of fair dimensions, the field there is so extensive that it taxes the imagination to define its possible boundaries. She could absorb all the exports we can furnish of those goods which she requires, and still have room for importations from Europe. All that is needed for the rapid development of our commerce with her is American pioneer grit, backed up by Yankee confidence and push. Let us look at the commerce of China for the year 1912—the last for which the official Chinese figures are available. In their customs reports, the figures are in haikman (custom-house) taels; and these have been reduced to our currency, at the average value of the tael for the year.

In 1912, China took from the United States merchandise valued at $27,290,096, and sold to us $26,078,462 worth, making a total trade between the two countries of $53,368,558. No doubt the first impression of the man in the street will be that $27,000,000 of exports to China is a very tidy stroke of business; so it is, but it is small, compared with what is in our power to do. In the same year, the British empire exported to China over seven times as much in value as did we, the figures being: British exports, $196,000,000; British imports from China, over $94,000,000; total trade for the year, $290,000,000.

The relative standing of the countries of the world in the foreign commerce of China is clearly set forth in the following table of percentages of total imports and exports, also for the calendar year 1912:

	Per cent.
British Empire (including Hongkong)	48.3
Japan and Chosen (Korea)	18.0
United States and Philippines	8.4
Russian Empire	7.7
France and French Indo-China	5.4
Germany	4.1
Belgium	1.7
Italy	1.3
Portugal and Macao	1.2
Netherlands and Dutch East Indies	1.9
All other countries	2.0

Hongkong is the enterpot of British trade in the Far East. Its commerce is enormous. Being a free port, its published statistics of trade do not give the country of origin of the merchandise passing through it, but the bulk is British. The above table shows that Great Britain and Hongkong possessed 48.3 per cent. of China's total foreign trade. This was divided thus: Hongkong, 29.3 per cent.; Great Britain, 19.0 per cent.

The table above shows that the British Empire enjoyed nearly one-half of China's total foreign commerce. Japan came next, with nearly one-sixth. Then came the United States with about one-twelfth—less than half that of Japan. France had nine-fourteenths as much as we, and Germany somewhat less than half our total. In the present state of disorganization of European commerce, due to the war, we should have little difficulty in largely increasing our proportion of China's trade, and in holding it permanently.

PRODUCTS IN DEMAND.

The American products which are most largely exported to China at the present time are cotton and cotton cloths, structural iron and steel, iron sheets and plates, nails, spikes, wire, builders' hardware and tools, railway machinery and steel rails, breadstuffs, lumber, leather and its manufactures, copper and lead and their manufactures, kerosene and tobacco, both leaf and manufactured—cigarettes being the most important form of the latter. Sewing machines and typewriters are also important items in our exports.

It is to be clearly understood that there is not only a vast field for increase in the quantities of articles from America already known to the Chinese people, but that many other of our products can be sold there, if proper effort is given to their introduction. American manufacturers are too prone to pay little attention to the possibilities of an export trade until a period of stagnation at home reduces their sales, and stocks begin to pile up. Then a spasmodic effort is made to dispose of the surplus abroad; and when good times come again, attention is at once occupied with the home market, the foreign market being given the go-by.

What is needed is steady, persistent work to ascertain the needs of the Chinese market, and careful effort to create a demand. Success is certain if these things are kept in mind. It is to be remembered that there are many articles of our manufacture which are as yet entirely unknown to the Chinese masses. They must be introduced to these goods, and persistent work be done along this line, if a good market is to be expected. Some instances of success already achieved, and the methods used, are given later in this article. First will be mentioned some lines which afford openings.

The Chinese government is keenly alive to the necessity of extending the railway system, by linking up the great commercial cities. This will be the work of years, and it will open an enormous market for railway material and equipment of all kinds. American manufacturers should keep close watch of opportunities as they develop. At present, at least one American locomotive establishment keeps an agent in China to sell engines to the railway already in operation and those building. This example should be followed by our manufacturers of all kinds of railway equipment, including machinery for the shops.

The well-to-do Chinese dress in silks, while the masses universally use cotton fabrics, both summer and winter. The winter garments of both sexes, trousers and long coats, are wadded with cotton batting and quilted. In severe weather, more coats are donned. In North China, when the temperature ranges around zero, it is common to see men wearing five or six of these long wadded coats, one over the other, giving the body the outline of a barrel.

Since the revolution, many of the native business men in the treaty ports have adopted western dress; and this opens a market for woolen suitings for men's wear, and for all other articles of clothing — underwear, shirts, collars, neckties, stockings, shoes, hats, etc. The official class has discarded the gorgeous silks and brocades formerly worn exclusively, and will be found arrayed in frock coats, silk hats, and such other articles as gentlemen wear in New York or London, and as a rule of fine materials and faultless as to cut and fit. There are opportunities along these lines which Americans should utilize.

CANNED GOODS IN DEMAND.

There is a rapidly increasing market for a vast variety of articles which we can furnish. These embrace the food products sold in our grocery stores here, including canned goods of all kinds. Flour from our Pacific Coast mills is an important import. The chief competition is from the mills in the great Manchurian wheat belt, and from those in Shanghai. There is somewhat of a craze among the wealthy for fine furniture on Western models, and a profitable trade can be had in this for a time.

The Chinese are good workmen, and accurate imitators; so it is probable that after a while the native shops would be filled with Chinese copies of the best pieces of furniture, at prices less than one-half those charged by American dealers. American manufacturers should also extend their trade in office requisites, watches, clocks, ornamental goods, and the thousand-and-one articles of every-day use, comprehensively referred to as "Yankee notions."

As is well known, China entered into commercial relations with the rest of the world with extreme reluctance, in fact, she was compelled to do so by force. Previous to 1842, Canton was the only place in the vast empire at which foreigners could reside and transact business. In that year, as the result of the "opium war," four other ports were opened to foreign residence and trade.

From time to time since then, other cities were added to the list, until at the present time over fifty are embraced therein. These are called "treaty ports," and are the only places in China wherein foreigners may reside and open business houses. The missionaries form an exception. They may settle anywhere in the country, and acquire property for the erection of churches, schools, hospitals and residences.

The foreign business houses in the treaty ports are generally established as branches of a firm in the home country, and do both an import and an export business. They purchase and ship to the home house or its order any Chinese products required, and import any foreign manufactured goods for which they can find a market. These imported goods are sold to Chinese merchants for sale in the interior.

Some American business men contemplating the extension of their trade to China, mistakenly assume that they should get in touch with native firms, and do business with them direct. It may be possible to do this to a limited extent in South China, where there are Chinese firms acquainted with the American trade.

But in general this course is both impracticable and undesirable. The lack of knowledge of English by Chinese merchants, and the corresponding lack of knowledge of written Chinese on the part of the American firm, render an intermediary at a treaty port a necessity. Again, the general rule is that the Chinese merchant must be given credit.

But there is no Chinese Dun or Bradstreet, and no way to ascertain the business standing of the would-be creditor by the American firm, thousands of miles away. Many assume that the American Consular officer at the treaty port will give this information; but it would be extremely difficult for him to find out with any certainty, and besides the State Department forbids Consuls to furnish such information.

HOW TO ESTABLISH TRADE.

But how does a foreign business house in a treaty port obtain this essential information? Through its "compradore," the most important native on its staff. The compradore is a Chinese merchant, necessarily with a wide and intimate acquaintance with the native mercantile and banking community of the port and its tributary territory. He is the intermediary between his firm and the Chinese business community. He has a thorough knowledge of the products of that part of the country, for he makes the contracts with the native producers of the goods which his firm buys for export.

It is also the compradore's duty to find purchasers for the articles his firm imports. The Chinese merchant who buys them must have credit; and the compradore must protect his firm from bad debts. Here his services are very valuable. Sometimes he does this by becoming responsible for the buyer, reciving a commission for the service.

One of the reasons why American export trade with China is not so great in volume as it should be is that the American exporter insists on "cash against documents." That means, the buyer in China shall open a credit at a bank in this country, on which he shall send a draft for the price of the goods ordered; this draft is honored by the bank when it is presented, attached to the bill of lading and other documents showing that the goods are in the hands of the steamship company for shipment. The buyer in China is thus without the use of his money for a considerable time; for it takes three months or more from the time he sends his order and the draft until the goods reach him. European merchants are not so strenuous; and they thus get orders which otherwise would come to this country.

The best way to establish a profitable business in China for a line of manufactures is for the American firm to send out a man familiar with the business here at home, and establish a branch house in some large treaty port. A number of American firms have done this, and have a flourishing business. Probably the most prominent of these is the Standard Oil Company. It has a central house at Shanghai, with depots at a large number of treaty ports, from which oil is supplied to native merchants for sale in the interior.

The company's first step was to open a brisk campaign to acquaint the native population with the merits of coal oil as an illuminant. Houses and shops were universally lighted by primitive lamps, burning vegetable oils, and by candles. These are still used by the majority of the people, for it will take years for the entire population to become acquainted with kerosene. The company contracted for the manufacture, literally by the hundred thousand, of a small, cheap glass hand lamp.

These were first given away, filled with oil, as an advertisement. Afterward, they were sold at a very low price. This advertising scheme proved an immense success, creating a very great demand for oil. Be it understood that the Standard has not a monopoly of the oil market in China; for the Dutch company is fighting hard for a place for its Sumatra oil. But the field is so great that both companies have plenty of room.

BUSINESS ALREADY SECURED.

The British-American Tobacco Company, which is under American management in China, followed a similar method in building up an enormous trade in cigarettes. It has branches in each treaty port, from which salesmen are sent out to the towns and villages of the tributary country.

Arrangements are made with native storekeepers to sell the goods; sample packets of cigarettes are distributed free, along with plenty of advertising matter printed in Chinese; and all the dead walls display huge colored and pictured posters extolling the merits of the brands of cigarettes put forth by this company. All this has resulted in a profitable and growing business, despite the active competition of the Japanese manufacturers, as well as that of Chinese ones. There is no monopoly of the trade, and each competitor hustles to get his share of it.

The Singer Sewing Machine Company is prospering along the same lines of work. It has branches in the treaty ports, each with skilled native operators to teach Chinese purchasers to run the machine. Each has a school with female operators (Chinese or Eurasian) wherein women are taught to sew, and also to accomplish intricate embroidery on the machines.

All are familiar with the beautiful embroideries which are in such great favor with the Chinese, and their quaint and elaborate forms. As many natives are too poor to purchase a machine outright, they can buy on the instalment plan, by giving security. The machines are gradually penetrating into the interior; but the field is so wide that any other company which is willing to work along the same line can capture a profitable share of the Chinese trade.

The Chinese have great faith in patent medicines, and possess many much-esteemed nostrums of their own. Certain American patent medicine manufacturers have taken advantage of the native faith in cure-alls, and are doing a good business. Each has a central house from which agents are sent out to all the treaty ports, selling at wholesale to native merchants, who in turn supply dealers in the interior. These firms have all their printed matter in Chinese, also advertise lavishly in the vernacular newspapers, and have found much profit in the business.

BUSINESS SUCCESS POSSIBLE.

The above instances are given to show that success will follow the sound business plan of establishing a house in China by an American firm to conduct sales. It is the surest way, but it requires considerable capital to start satisfactorily. Then, too, there are many American manufacturers of articles of merit which would find a good market in China, but with which it would hardly pay to undertake the expense of a house in that country to supply native merchants. Take the case of the manufacturer of a safety razor, for example. There is a market for them in China, but the cost of a special establishment in China would probably be too great for the business done. This is true with regard to many other articles. What is the best plan in such a case? There are two courses open:

First: Send out a member of the firm, or some one familiar with the business seeking the market. Let him visit the chief treaty ports, examine carefully into the situation, always calling on the American Consul for information and advice at each place visited. Arrange, at several of these ports to have some import and export firm take the agency for that part of the country. In many cases, it will seem best, all things considered, to put the business into the hands of some firm of European nationality. Here care must be exercised, for naturally a firm is more inclined to push the goods of its own country than those of another. It is generally wise to decline to give the exclusive agency for all China to one firm. Better have selling agencies at several cities, each responsible to the home house. After a year or two, it will be easy to select the one which has done the best business to put in charge of the whole of China.

Second: There are fourteen American consular officers in China, each stationed at an important treaty port. Write to some or all of them; explain your business, sending your circulars and other printed matter; and ask for a list of the import and export houses of good repute, who would possibly care to take up the matter. The consular officers will be glad to help you in this. Then by correspondence with the firms indicated, the would-be exporter will probably be able to secure a representative.

Much has been said by those writing on the extension of our trade to the Latin-American countries as to the necessity of American banks. A similar need exists in China. One American bank (the International Banking Corporation) was established recently in Peking, and it has correspondents in the principal treaty ports. There are a number of foreign banks in China—British, French, Belgian, German, Russian and Japanese—several of which have branches or correspondents in the United States. So the foreign commercial interests in China are not without good banking facilities, though our trade would be better served were there a chain of American banks in the great ports.

Let American business men anxious to see the overseas trade of the country increase, look carefully over the inviting field which China presents. Foreign trade with the republic is bound to increase as the millions of Chinese become better acquainted with the products of other countries. With the commerce of our principal European competitors crippled by the war, a unique opportunity is placed within our grasp. A market with one-fourth of the human race, all the individuals of which are better disposed toward America than toward any other country, opens such stupendous possibilities that a sober enumeration of them seems like a golden dream rather than the reality which it actually is.

PATRIOTISM OF THE DUMA.

Recent Prorogation Regarded as the Supreme Test.

Precipitation of a Strike was Narrowly Averted.

Assembly has Learned Power and Virtue of Tact.

[A. P. FOREIGN CORRESPONDENCE.]

LONDON, Oct. 20.—The prorogation of the Russian Duma, according to accounts that have reached London from members of the Octobrist and Progressive parties, was one of the severest tests which representative government in Russia has met since it came into being. Only the sheer patriotism of the men who guided the majority in that body prevented the prorogation from becoming a disaster of the most far-reaching import. At one time it threatened to precipitate a general strike in all the factories supplying the army, a strike which would have left the army practically helpless.

The following account of the crisis comes from a member of the Progressive group:

"First of all, it is necessary to realize exactly what this Duma meant to the Russian people. That people was enduring the heavy mental strain of a long period of retreat, a retreat on a scale so gigantic that its effects were obvious even to those many hundred miles from the front. Wounded soldiers returning to the heart of the country brought to town and village stories that made the lack of ammunition more than an intellectual problem. The result was that the common people were clamorous for open criticism and some sort of control of the bureaucracy which it felt was responsible, and the Duma seemed to all classes the only hope of such criticism and control. For a time it was refused to them. Then, under the stress of the fall of Warsaw, the government decided to yield and summon the Duma.

"The Duma, conscious that the nation for once was united behind it, astonished everyone by the thoroughness and frankness with which it attacked in a hundred speeches the problems that had been in the minds of all. It soon became evident that this was to be a different sort of a Duma from those which had preceded it. It was to be a parliament in fact as well as name, for the membership, always heretofore broken up into tiny political groups which made anything like concerted action well nigh impossible, began to weld itself into two or three parties and a real majority party began to appear for the first time in history.

"There are fourteen so-called parties represented in the Russian Duma, as follows:

"Extreme Right.
"Nationalists.
"Progressive Nationalists.
"Zemstvo Octobrists.
"Left Octobrists.
"Poles.
"Mohammedans.
"Peasants.
"Progressives
"Cadets.
"Labor Members.
"Social Democrats.
"Social Democratic 'Minority' Party.

"While thus disunited, the Duma was weak. But things began to assume a very different aspect when Miliukov, leader of the Cadets, and Guchkov, leader of the Octobrists, working together, succeeded in forming what was called the Progressive bloc. They combined all the parties in the preceding list except the first three and the last two. Then for the first time the government was faced by a Duma with the power of making itself felt. The majority enjoyed by the Progressive bloc was absolutely overwhelming.

"The next stage in the story was the result of the peculiar character of the Russian politician. No sooner do any two Russians agree on anything than they sit down to draw up a platform or programme, dealing not only with the matter in hand, but extending far afield to all the subjects upon which they are able to agree. So with this Progressive bloc. No sooner had the constituent parties agreed to unite for their work in the Duma than, in spite of the fact that every man was solely concentrated on doing what should be done for the winning of the war, they met to elaborate a serious programme which should show all the subjects on which they were agreed. They produced a programme embodying about a dozen points, including such untimely matters as the reform of the Zemstvos or municipal councils, a broadening of the electoral franchise, recognition of trade unions, and the establishment of a ministry not recruited from the ranks of officialdom.

"It is obvious that the few points noted are enough to constitute the widest possible reformation in the Russian system of government. Leaders of the bloc have since declared that they did not mean this programme as anything but a statement of 'ultimate hopes,' and that for the moment they were content to concentrate their attention on matters of war legislation. But the publication of the programme gave the conservative governing classes a tremendous shock, and officialdom took the opportunity to say 'Look what these people are determined to do under cover of the national emergency.'

"Premier Goremykin, who was one of those greatly aroused by the programme, rushed off to the Czar and obtained a decree of prorogation, as a reply to what he believed to be a threat against his official existence. It is said that when he laid the decree before his colleagues of the Cabinet they all, with the exception of one man, aided against him, but there lay the Czar's order on the table, and the thing was done, the enraged Duma being politely told that it had successfully accomplished its destiny.

"But for the patriotism of the members the result might have been chaos. For a time Miliukov threatened that all members of his party would resign from their positions on the committees formed for dealing with questions of munitions and other war matters. This would have been an incitement from above to a general and disastrous strike. Miliukov was fortunately made to see the danger of it, and the leaders of every party set themselves to preventing any disturbance.

"The story is not yet finished. The Duma has learned its power. It has also, perhaps, learned the virtue of tact."

EVENTS BRIEFLY TOLD

Licensed in San Francisco.

Hugh B. Dalton, Jennie S. Snyder, both of Los Angeles, and John C. Awenius, Mary B. Bungay, both of Venice, took out marriage licenses in San Francisco yesterday.

To Read Postumous Paper.

A paper, the last composition of the late Mrs. Lucy Blanchard, will be read at the Los Angeles Y.C.T.U. meeting at the First Methodist Church next Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

West Virginia Meeting.

The West Virginia Society will meet in The Times assembly-rooms this evening. A musical programme has been planned, to be followed by cards and dancing. All former West Virginia people are invited.

Missionary Workers' Meeting.

The Women's Federation of Christian Missionary Workers will hold an all-day meeting in the First Congregational Church tomorrow, beginning at 10 o'clock. Several missionaries will speak. The interested public is invited.

Guardsmen Coming.

Thirty-five officers of the National Guard of New York will arrive here at 6:45 p.m., Sunday, from San Francisco, where they have been attending the big conference of guardsmen, according to advice received yesterday by the Southern Pacific. They are occupying two chartered Pullmans.

Boy Scouts as Guards.

The members of the Los Angeles organization of Boy Scouts are to act as guards of honor for the Liberty Bell on the occasion of its visit to this city next Monday. They are directed to appear in regulation uniform with white gloves, forming a double line through which the bell will pass as it nears Exposition Park.

St. Anthanasius Bazaar.

The annual bazaar, sale and supper of the Woman's Guild of St. Anthanasius Episcopal Church, Custer avenue, near Temple, will be held there next Thursday, day and evening. Dinner will be served from 5:30 to 7 o'clock p.m. Mrs. M. J. Wheeler is in general charge. There will be all kinds of pretty, useful and edible things for sale.

French Newspaper Sold.

"L'Union Nouvelle," a French newspaper which has been published in Los Angeles since 1879, and whose offices are at No. 108 Commercial street, has been sold to a company to be known as the L'Union Nouvelle Publishing Company, Inc. The sellers are Maurice Fog and Theodore Gyger, Mr. Fog is a director in the new concern, with Antoin Pellissier and Marcellin Eyraud, Jr., and will be president and editor.

An Attractive Brochure.

The Times-Mirror Printing and Binding House, S. W. Crabil manager, has reprinted a remarkably catchy and optimistic little article by John Edward Russell, that attracted much attention in the Strand Magazine where it first appeared. The brochure is bound in read leather, and has a very attractive typographical arrangement which is heightened by an artistic use of colored lettering. The tribute to optimism is called "As You were Saying."

Our Poultry to Bay City Show.

About 600 Los Angeles chickens of all varieties will be sent by Los Angeles breeders to compete with fowls from all parts of the world in the San Francisco Exposition International Poultry Show which opens in the Bay City the 18th inst. This will be the largest affair of the kind ever held on the Pacific Coast, more than 10,000 entries being already arranged for. There will be thirty-six judges, among them A. C. Goodacre of Compton. W. P. Williams of No. 1102 West Fifty-second street, has charge of shipping all the fowls from this city.

Missionary from Egypt Speaks.

Miss Roe Olive Williams, a returned missionary of the United Presbyterian Church, who has been working for several years at Assiut, Egypt, will address the Student Volunteer Band of the Bible Institute of Los Angeles this evening at 7 o'clock, in lecture-room No. 2. Because of the importance of the events now taking place in Egypt, Syria and Turkey, her address has a peculiar significance. British rule in Egypt and its bearing on the failure of the Mohammedans to respond to the call for a holy war as seen by an American will be discussed. The meeting will be open to all friends of missions.

Lecture by Evangelist.

Dr. Bruce Brown, the evangelist who is conducting a series of special religious meetings at the Wilshire-boulevard Christian Church during the present month, will give his Chautauqua lecture, " AMan's a Man for a' That" in the church this evening. The arrangements are entirely in the hands of the men of the congregation, a previous meeting having been conducted by the women and that of tomorrow evening being in charge of the young people. American flags will be used in decorating and there will be a musical programme arranged by Will C. Harris and William Wheatly.

Stanford-U.S.C. Debate.

With the Mayor presiding, Stanford University will meet the University of Southern California in debate tomorrow evening at the University Auditorium, Thirty-fifth street and University avenue, discussing the question of government ownership of railways. It will be the first time the people of Los Angeles will have the opportunity of witnessing a local group of orators in a contest with a team from another California university. The University Glee Club will sing. For the local university, on the affirmative, are E. N. Ames, John C. Haynes, Reuel L. Olson. The Stanford men are A. Morosco, M. L. McClintock and M. Crobaugh. The honorary debating fraternity of the university, Delta Sigma Rho, will give a banquet in honor of the Stanford team after the debate. Thomas A. Berkebile will be toastmaster.

ONE RED COPPER.

That is Judgment Suitor Wins from a Stockholder of Defunct Motor Car Company.

One of the smallest judgments rendered in local courts for many months was that awarded to Ralph Dunham by Justice Brown yesterday. He brought suit against the Municipal Motor Car Company, a defunct corporation, for $488 due him. Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Bayles were the only stockholders of the company who appeared in court. On the amount of stock held by Bayles, Justice Brown figured that the plaintiff had nine and seven-tenths mills coming and ordered the defendant to pay one cent to him. Mrs. Bayles, however, held considerable more stock and she was held liable to the extent of $10.50. Both amounts were paid in the court-room.

BANKRUPTCY PETITIONS.

Up to the close of business last night in the office of the clerk of the United States District Court, there had been filed thus far this year 416 petitions in bankruptcy. During the entire year of 1914, there were but 362 filed, showing an increase of 154 cases, and the year almost two months to run. The number filed in 1914 indicated an increase of 37 per cent. over that of 1913. Alice Wood Ihrig filed a petition, reporting liabilities of $1472.35, representing judgment secured against her for a rooming-house in Long Beach. Her assets are valued at $250.

UNFILLED TONNAGE SHOWS INCREASE.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—The unfilled tonnage of the United States Steel Corporation on October 31 totaled 6,165,452 tons, an increase of 847,834 tons over Sepetmber.

The tonnage increase exceeds most forecasts and is almost 100 per cent. more as compared with the corresponding month of last year. Not since May of 1913 has the Steel Corporation had so large an amount of unfilled business on its books. United States Steel was the most active feature of the stock market today, rising well above its recent low level, despite further declines in other industrials and war shares.

NEW FRENCH LOAN AT GOOD INTEREST.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

PARIS, Nov. 10.—The price of issue of the new French loan will be such that the net rate of interest will be in excess of 5½ per cent., but it is understood that the exact price will not be fixed until just before the introduction of the loan bill in the Chamber of Deputies tomorrow, and will be inserted at the last moment.

The issue will be unlimited in amount, but the subscription will only be open during a fixed number of days. Every subscriber will be given a document showing the service he had thus rendered to the national defense.

When Baby Comes.

Before baby comes there is a period when experienced mothers are glad to aid the expectant mothers. They urge the use of Mother's Friend, obtained at any drug store, because this sare harmless external remedy is positively necessary since it brings relief in easing the muscles, cords, tendons and ligaments involved, and unnecessary pain is avoided; thus it serves to ease the mind and has a beneficial effect on the nervous system. In many cases nausea, morning sickness and other distresses are avoided.

RUINED BY LOAN SHARKS.

Railroad Clerk Forced into Bankruptcy by Leeches Who Bleed Him for Exorbitant Interest.

The ruin of a man who patronized the loan sharks to his financial undoing was indicated in an inconspicuous petition filed in a bankruptcy case in the United States District Court yesterday.

The petitioner was Arthur L. Brumfield, a railroad clerk, who scheduled liabilities amounting to $478.72, and of this amount $262 was due money lenders in Chicago, San Francisco and Los Angeles. Brumfield alleges that they had stung him all the way from ⅞ to 20 per cent. interest a month. He claimed an exemption of $100.65, all his assets.

Frederick A. Palmer, who bills himself as a writer and publisher, filed a petition in bankruptcy yesterday, giving his debts as $4192.10, and his assets at $75. His liabilities consist almost entirely of notes for money advanced by friends.

Welfare Commissioners Ask That No More Assistance Be Given the Vance Working Boys' Club.

On the request that the Vance Working Boys' Club be denied further assistance from the county by the Public Welfare Commissioners, the Board of Supervisors yesterday took the matter under consideration awaiting the time that Supervisor Norton can file a report which has been requested for no later than the first Monday in December.

The club in the past has always received the hearty commendation of the Supervisors, but the commission alleges that it is not able to meet the requirements that have arisen through its growth and that various suggestions for its improvement have not been complied with by the management.

CRUSHED IN COLLISION.

Fireman May Lose Leg as Result of Crash Between His Motorcycle and an Automobile.

Five breaks of the leg bone below the knee was the injury received by C. F Hockett, a fireman, No. 1332 Winfield street, yesterday, when he ran his motorcycle into an automobile driven by J. M. Blocker, proprietor of a bee farm on Echo Park avenue. The fractures are so involved and serious that an amputation may be necessary, as the bone was splintered and ground under the heavy motorcycle.

Mr. Blocker was turning at Sixth and Flower streets. A street car obscured the vision of Mr. Hockett, who was making the turn for an opposite corner. Mr. Blocker was shocked by the accident, and offered to aid in any way possible. The police could find no blame for the accident with either party.

CASCARETS SELL TWENTY MILLION BOXES PER YEAR

Best, safest cathartic for liver and bowels, and people know it.

They're fine! Don't stay bilious, sick, headachy or constipated.

ROCK NOT HEAVY ENOUGH.

So Unique Attempt by a Prisoner in Chain Gang to Commit Suicide Proves a Failure.

Frank Neu, a prisoner, attempted to take his life yesterday by hurling himself on the head with a rock.

The attempt occurred at Avenue Seco and Avenue Porter, where he was working there as a member of the chain gang from the city jail, where he is serving a term for drunkenness.

After attending to the routine duties of breaking up rock for several days, he determined to end it all by killing himself. No sharp instruments or weapons were available, so he could conceive no other method to end his life than by beating his head with a rock. So he lifted a heavy stone high above his head and let it drop.

The blow felled him. He was taken to the Receiving Hospital, where his long gashes were attended to. His skull was not fractured, and he will recover.

Opening Statement.

CALLS SCHMIDT FIREBUG, DYNAMITER, SLUGGER.

Noel Names Him as a Principal in Great Unionite Conspiracy.

Special Counsel for the State Tells Jury Prosecution will Fasten a Terrible Record on Defendant in Murder Case and Establish that He was Here and Took Part in Destruction of "Times" Building.

THAT Matthew A. Schmidt, now on trial on the charge of the murder of Charles A. Haggerty, one of the twenty victims in the destruction of the original Times Building by dynamite, was a principal in the gigantic conspiracy that had its operations in at least twenty States of the Union; that he associated with men known to be connected with this organized warfare against society, that he was a union agitator in Chicago, and there by his own admissions beat a non-union man so that this man was to stay in the hospital for six months; that Schmidt in San Francisco was in the business of producing fires upon "open shop" work by a scheme to break bottles and release incendiary gases and that a mass of evidence will be produced to show that Schmidt was an important figure in the monster conspiracy—these were some of the pertinent matters which Special Counsel James W. Noel of Indianapolis told the jury yesterday will be proved by evidence in the trial now in progress.

Counsel for the defense at various times during the presentation of that portion of the State's statement of facts as has already stated made strenuous attempts to prevent the matter from appearing in the records and from being considered by the jurors, in not a single instance were the contentions upheld by the court.

OBJECTIONS OVERRULED.

Judge Willis held that as he understood the theory of the prosecution the destruction of the Los Angeles Times Building was but an incident in a general conspiracy. This conspiracy, he said, he understood the State would seek to prove had existed over a period of years and included criminal acts in various States. These different criminal acts occurring outside of Los Angeles and outside the State of California he held were relevant matters as being part of this conspiracy. Counsel Noel assured the court that its understanding of the prosecution's theory was correct and that the State would prove every crime charged as alleged to have been a part of the general conspiracy. On this statement Judge Willis overruled every objection made by the defense, on the ground of irrelevancy. This seems to indicate that the State will be allowed to introduce a vast volume of evidence which it has prepared relative to the alleged criminal acts occurring outside of the jurisdiction of this court.

The first talesman examined yesterday morning, E. S. Rowley of No. 2620 Menlo avenue, who has been engaged in the real estate and building business, was qualified as the alternate juror, despite the challenge of the defense.

After he was sworn, the jury was ordered from the room while the matter of the objection of the defense to the participation of Special Counsel Noel for the prosecution was taken up.

The defense counsel continued its objection, notwithstanding the statement that Mr. Noel has been admitted to practice in California courts, on the ground that he is not a citizen of this State, but the court held that he is qualified to act as special counsel for the prosecution.

At 11:30 yesterday forenoon the jury was again brought into the courtroom and Clerk Blakeley read the indictment. Mr. Noel then began his presentation of the State's theory of the case. The remainder of the forenoon and all of the afternoon session was devoted to this presentation, and Mr. Noel was far from its completion when the court adjourned last evening until 10 o'clock this morning.

OPENING STATEMENT.

Mr. Noel's opening statement was that the State will attempt to prove that Schmidt is guilty of murder in the first degree and will ask for the death penalty; that Schmidt engaged in the murder of Charles A. Haggerty with malice aforethought and that he was present and aided his associates in acts preparatory to this crime.

He declared that it will be shown that the explosion that destroyed the original Times Building and killed twenty men was caused by an infernal machine, so that the principals might be far away; that the man who set the plant was 200 miles away, preparing an alibi, when the explosion occurred.

But the evidence will also show, said Mr. Noel, that the defendant and

JOY CARNIVAL FOR HOLIDAYS.

BIG FAIR'S SHOWS ARE TO BE OPENED UP HERE.

Hundred and Fifty of Them and Two Hundred Concessions of San Francisco Exposition in Sight for Prosperity Event—Queen Contest Ready to Start.

Choice attractions of the Joy Zone of the Panama-Pacific Exposition—hundreds of them—are preparing to migrate to this city and hold forth at the holidays, in a great prosperity indoor carnival and fair in the old Boston Store Building, Broadway, opposite the City Hall. One hundred and fifty shows and 200 zone concessions are in sight for the event, and other sources will contribute to a pleasure plant that will occupy about 100,000 square feet of space, on all four floors.

Free attractions, a queen contest and other features will be introduced to make every day a big day. Those in charge declare the shows and concessions will represent much that is big, spectacular and worth while in the just-for-fun section of the northern fair.

The queen contest is getting under way right now. It is proposed to have a bevy of the prettiest and most popular young women of the city reign over the fun. Stanley Warde Hart is in charge of this contest and has sent out a call for prospective candidates to call at No. 239 South Broadway, leave their pictures, secure credentials and start their campaigns. The queen and her four maids of honor will all receive valuable prizes.

The show will be in charge of a staff of men well known in amusement circles. Dick Parks is director of concessions, H. W. Nixon, general manager, and M. Gore, treasurer.

Those in charge expect the show to draw to the shopping district an even greater crowd than is usually seen at the holiday rush season and also to bring into the city hundreds of interested persons from adjacent districts. For this reason they believe it has a commercial importance of no small moment.

BIG DAY AT COLTON.

Programme and Barbecue for Three Thousand to Celebrate Completion of Gigantic Rock Crusher.

Colton and San Bernardino will celebrate the completion today at the former place of the greatest rock crusher in the West, as an adjunct to the $2,000,000 plant of the California-Portland Cement Company.

Under the auspices of the Colton and San Bernardino Boosters' Club, an inspection of the great plant has been arranged between 10 and 1 o'clock, with officials of the company as guides. The inspection will be followed by a barbecue at the plant, to which 3000 invitations have been issued.

With a rated capacity of 5500 barrels of cement a day, the Colton company, through the completion of its rock crusher, becomes perhaps the stellar producing concern of the West.

In connection with the barbecue there will be speeches by General Manager T. J. Fleming of the cement company, E. M. Boyd of this city and others.

Arrangements have been made with the Santa Fe for train service between Colton and the plant, which is one mile from the city.

HARBOR WORK UNDER FIRE.

Investigation is Asked for by its Critics.

Mayor Promises it if the Facts Warrant.

Tells His Callers to Give Specific Information.

A complete official inquiry into the Municipal Harbor Department on specific charges of mismanagement and misappropriation of public funds was foreshadowed yesterday when a number of citizens called on the Mayor and laid before him evidence against the department gathered by them in recent investigations.

The Mayor's visitors, whose names he said he could not divulge last night, outlined their charges verbally and asked the chief executive's co-operation in bringing about an investigation that will divulge the full facts regarding the construction and improvement work carried on by the present Board of Harbor Commissioners. The charges, according to Mayor Sebastian, do not involve the commission in any direct accusation of graft, but they do allege general incompetency and mismanagement in the expenditure of harbor funds.

In case the specific charges relative to the administration of harbor affairs are filed with the Mayor this morning, and he deems them worthy of such actions, it is likely he will immediately call them to the attention of the Council.

READY TO DIG IN.

Councilman Langdon, chairman of the Harbor Committee, said last night that he has discussed the probability of an investigation of the harbor department with President Woodman and members of the commission and all were aware that such a move is contemplated.

"Members of the Harbor Commission have told me that they will welcome a fair and thorough investigation of the department if called for," said Mr. Langdon. "I have not gone into the details of the alleged charges, although of course I have heard rumors of criticism. From what I can learn the criticism and agitation against the harbor department and the administration of harbor affairs comes from the so-called labor element at the harbor. I do not believe the City Council has any intention of ordering any investigation unless it is demanded and the demands are accompanied by specific charges."

The charges as outlined verbally to the Mayor yesterday cite certain instances where the harbor funds are alleged to have been misused; and numerous instances of faulty and ill-advised construction and bungling engineering work that reflects directly upon the administration of harbor affairs by the commission.

MUST BE DEFINITE.

"I told my callers that it is immaterial to whom their charges are presented, so long as they are specific and in writing," said Mayor Sebastian last night. "I am not prepared at the present time to pass on the merits of the case as it has been presented so far, but if the charges outlined to me verbally are made in good faith and in definite form, they will certainly call for a most rigid investigation. Such an investigation can harm no innocent person, and in my opinion can only result in general good for the public service. Our harbor is an institution in which every taxpayer of Los Angeles should have a vital interest and the administration of harbor affairs is a matter in which every citizen should have the utmost confidence."

FOR LIBERTY BELL PARADE.

The local camps of the United Spanish War Veterans joined in a call yesterday for all veterans of the war with Spain and the Philippine Insurrection to meet tonight on the tenth floor of the Hall of Records to arrange for participation in the reception and parade to be given in honor of the Liberty Bell next Monday morning. The Spanish War Veterans will march behind the bell, carrying an immense flag.

BIGGER FAIR; LONGER NAME.

"International" now Part of Exposition's Cognomen.

Nine Los Angeles Men Placed on Directorate.

Articles of Incorporation Filed in San Diego.

Officially christened the Panama-California International Exposition, the Southland's greater 1916 fair was officially launched yesterday with the filing of articles of incorporation by the new management.

Nine men to represent Los Angeles on the board of directors of the big 1916 show were chosen at noon yesterday by the directorate of the Chamber of Commerce and immediately certified to San Diego for inclusion in the list of incorporators.

Those named to represent Los Angeles are R. W. Pridham, chairman of the Board of Supervisors; Robert N. Bulla, president; and John S. Mitchell, first vice-president of the Chamber of Commerce; J. O. Koepfli, Vernon Goodwin, Fred L. Baker, Sylvester L. Weaver, E. J. Eisenmayer and M. A. Hamburger. Mr. Goodwin has been chairman of the San Diego Exposition Committee and Mr. Weaver chairman of that organization's Executive Committee.

Stoddard Jess, vice-president of the First National Bank, was originally named a member of the directorate, but requested that his name be withdrawn, due to a press of other business.

NOW A CERTAINTY.

After weeks of cumulative effort by San Diego and Los Angeles bodies the final step that made the continuance of the exposition a certainty came unexpectedly. By wire President Davidson of the exposition informed the Chamber of Commerce that the naming of directors to represent Los Angeles on the new directorate should be made at once, as it was exceedingly desirable that the incorporation papers be filed at once.

Following the appointments the names were wired to President Davidson, and in the evening came back a telegraph message telling of the incorporation and consequent launching of the enterprise that will disclose to the world, New Year's Day, the gems of the San Francisco exposition in the setting of the "white city on the hill."

These appointments result in increasing the directorate of the exposi-

LOOKS LIKE SURE CUT THROUGH BUNKER HILL.

Public Officials and Proponents of Projected Traffic Route from Business District West and Northwest Get Many Assurances from Interested Property Owners. Councilman Topham Discusses the Assessments.

NEVER before since the long agitation for a servicable traffic route through Bunker Hill was begun have the indications for a successful consummation been so pronounced and promising as at present. This opinion is voiced not only by the active proponents of the projected open cut from First to Second streets, but by public officials, and is based on numerous expressions that have been heard since the publication in The Times last Sunday of the first draft map of the proposed open-cut assessment district, and of the tentative assessment rates.

The map and tables, prepared in the City Engineer's office under the direction of the Public Works Committee of the City Council, incorporated the suggestions of committee for arriving at an equable apportionment of the cost of the great enterprise. It was especially designed to start discussion and in this respect it appears to have been entirely successful. The committee in offering the results of its own study into the subject of assessments invited opinions from the property owners interested and these have been forthcoming in shoals of letters addressed to the committee or its chairman, John Topham.

PLEASED WITH START.

Mr. Topham stated yesterday that several property owners in the district directly affected have written merely to express their appreciation that the open-cut proceedings are at last under way. Others have wanted information. The protests received, declared Mr. Topham, have been in no instance directed against the open-cut project itself, but against the particular assessment rates suggested for different localities. In certain instances, he stated, these protests have had merit enough to warrant changes in the rates thus far outlined.

Mr. Topham said that some confusion has arisen over the question of whether the figures of his committee were in any way final. He explained that the map and figures as presented in The Times were just what they were represented to be—"tentative." Changes that seem reasonable, he said, will be incorporated before either the map or figures are presented to the Council. No plan or detail that has not been carefully considered and reconsidered would, he observed, be embodied in the final drafts that come from the assessment bureau.

"Another cause of worry upon the part of some of the interested property owners," said the Councilman,

WHITE COAT GIVEN FREE.

Paint Drops from High on Men and Women Down in the Street.

Six men and four women were drenched yesterday just before noon with white paint that fell from the flagstaff on the H. W. Hellman Building at Fourth and Spring streets. Ten hats and ten suits were ruined in the unique shower.

A painter, clinging to the flagstaff reached for his bucket a second after it dropped from its fastening. He saw the flying spray following the revolving bucket like the tail of a comet. His yell was not heard above the roar of the traffic in the two streets below, and a car turning into Spring from Fourth street, felt the heavy thud of the bucket while the crowd waiting at the curb caught the white spray.

William Spendrup, manager of the building, held open house for the ten victims of the paint, among whom was ex-Mayor Owen McAleer. Mr. Spendrup gave orders for new hats all around and sent the clothes to the cleaner, promising that if they are not made as good as new he will provide four new dresses and six new suits.

The Artist's Tone is the EDISON Tone

ELEONORA De CISNEROS as CARMEN

There is no such thing as an "Edison Tone." There is, in the new Edison, a Bonci Tone, a Spalding Tone, a Case Tone—each separate and distinct; each faithful to the distinctive character of the artist. But the New Edison has no tone of its own. It is merely a perfect vehicle for the reproduction of the artist's work. There is no foreign sound, no "talking machine" tone. Mr. Edison has eliminated all these. The music of the New Edison is nothing but the pure, unaltered, life-like tone of the original artist.

MINING EXPERT GOES SUDDENLY.

Well-known Army Engineer Dies After Operation.

Widow is Prostrated at Her Home in Alhambra.

Deceased Member of Family of National Note.

Word of the sudden death in New York City of Col. T. Waln Morgan Draper, once prominent army engineer stationed at the Presidio, and recently better known as a mining expert, was received yesterday by his widow at her Alhambra residence. The news came as a terrible shock to Mrs. Draper, who had but two weeks before left him in New York apparently in the best of health. Death came to the well-known officer simultaneously with the arrival in New York of his sister, the Marquise de Mili, who was bringing the body of her husband from Italy to America for burial.

Col. Draper was born in New York City sixty years ago. After his graduation from a private school on the Hudson, his parents sent him to Freiburg, Germany, where he entered the military college. He graduated from that institution a finished army engineer, and shortly after returned to his native country.

Deciding to follow the profession of military engineering, the young man obtained a captain's commission in the army. He served on many posts and rose in rank quickly. When the Spanish War broke out he was a major. During the 100 days' conflict he was promoted to a colonelcy. Following the declaration of peace, he was assigned to the Philippine Islands, where he aided in bringing order out of the chaos there.

When the great fire destroyed part of San Francisco Col. Draper was stationed at the Presidio, and aided in the work done during the period of martial law there.

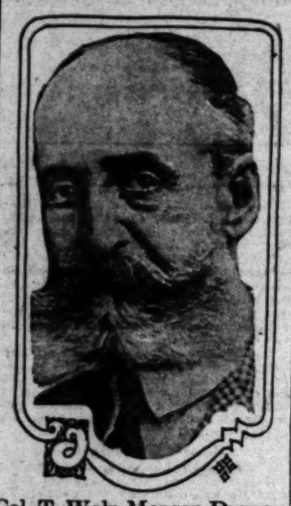
A few years ago Col. Draper resigned from the army and devoted his time to a civil practice of his profession. Although his real headquarters was New York City, he spent much of his time on the Pacific Coast, where he maintained several residences. One residence, where the widow now is, is at No. 425 South Hidalgo avenue, Alhambra.

Col. Draper was one of the three founders of the Society of Colonial Wars. He was a member of many New York clubs, among which are the Bohemian Club, the Staten Island Cricket Club, the Lambs Club and the New York Athletic Club. Gen. William Draper of Washington, a long time Minister to Rome, and Gov. Draper of Massachusetts, were cousins of the colonel.

He leaves, besides the widow, two daughters and one son. The daughters, Mrs. James L. Kauffman and Mrs. K. H. Donavin, were well known in San Francisco as the Misses Elsa and Dorothy Draper. They both married lieutenants in the navy, and are living in New York, where their husbands are stationed. The son, Morgan Draper, is also in the East. A cousin, Mrs. Frank Ogilvy Wood, resides in Alhambra. Mrs. Draper was Miss Louise Graham Kelsey of New York.

Mrs. Draper, the widow, stated last night that she had left her husband in perfect health two weeks ago. He had intended to have a slight operation on his throat, but had not considered it serious. It is understood the operation proved fatal. His children were with him when the end came.

Funeral services will be conducted by the daughters in New York City either today or tomorrow. The widow is prostrated because she is unable to be there for the sad ceremony.



Col. T. Waln Morgan Draper, Prominent former army engineer, news of whose sudden death in New York came as a terrible shock to the widow at her home in Alhambra.

JUBILEE ENTERTAINMENT.

The Southern Jubilee and Concert Company will furnish the entertainment for the free open house at the Young Men's Christian Association tonight. They will give their concert, "A Night in Southland," which introduces jubilee songs, instrumental and vocal solos, humorous character impersonations and plantation melodies. The chief feature of the evening will be the rendition of old darkey songs by the Dixie Quartett. Both men and women are admitted to the Thursday evening programmes which are held in the Y.M.C.A. auditorium.

SNOW AT TEHACHEPI.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

TEHACHEPI, Nov. 10.—When the residents of the Tehachepi district looked out their windows this morning they found the trees heavily laden and the ground covered with five inches of snow, the first of the season. While the mountains around the valley will be covered with snow now until next June, the snow seldom remains in the valley longer than a day or so. Coming so early in the season so much moisture as has fallen in the recent rains and snow will make it possible for the ranchmen to start plowing at once.

TELLS MAKING OF DEATH TRAP.

Maid Who Aided Canfield Woman is Found.

Says She Bored Vents and Distributed Oil.

Accused Arsonist Battles with Detectives.

Located last night after a search for three days, Mrs. Mary Blake, a maid, confessed to Detectives McMahan and Cherry how she had distributed distillate and oil and bored vent holes which made the Canfield Hotel a death trap. Declaring she did this at the instructions of Mrs. Harriet A. Canfield, the maid furnished evidence weaving a tight web around the Canfield woman, held in the County Jail on a charge of attempted arson.

Raving and fighting, Mrs. Canfield yesterday made a lively scene at the City Jail, when the detectives sought to have her picture taken for the rogues' gallery. She screamed that the police would have to carry her dead body into the photographing room. She pulled her hair and scratched the detectives, kicked and attempted to throw herself upon the floor. So hysterical did she become that the detectives were forced to postpone the ordeal.

With the story of Mrs. Blake, Detective McMahan declared last night the case against Mrs. Canfield is finished. Mrs. Blake explained missing features of the case to the two detectives. She said that she had not seen she thought when she left the hotel last Wednesday, and did not know that Mrs. Canfield had been arrested. She declared to the police that while she thought when he left the hotel that there was some thing wrong, she did not think that Mrs. Canfield intended to burn the place, and had no idea just what she wanted with the distillate about the house.

Mrs. Blake said she had been employed at the Canfield Hotel for a number of months. For some time Mrs. Blake declared she noticed strange actions on the part of Mrs. Canfield but gave them no special attention.

"Just a week ago today," Mrs. Blake told the detectives last night, "Mrs. Canfield instructed me to carry into the house a lot of distillate bottles. She showed me where to place them. She declared that they were to be used for killing moths. After I had placed all the oil about the house I thought that something was wrong and again asked Mrs. Canfield what she wanted all that stuff about the house for. She told me that it was none of my business.

"After carrying in the oil Mrs. Canfield told me to bore the holes through the rooms. I did it and kept thinking all the time that Mrs. Canfield must be crazy. After knocking out the holes in the walls Mrs. Canfield instructed me to tear up two or three steps in the back stair way. I protested and Mrs. Canfield said she wanted to see if there was room beneath the stairway for a closet. I told her all right, she could see, but she would have to get some one else to do the work. I then left the house.

"On account of the actions of Mrs. Canfield I got scared and did not go back to the hotel the next day. I have not been back since and did not know until tonight of the trouble. I have not even drawn my pay."

Mrs. Blake will make a full statement for the police today. The detectives declared last night that she is not to blame for her part in the plot to burn the hotel as she was only acting under instructions and did not know the purpose of the work. As soon as Mrs. Blake was told of the arrest of Mrs. Canfield she offered all the help in her power to the police.

According to Detective McMahan the statements of Mrs. Blake are of great importance to the case as they show without a doubt that Mrs. Canfield planned every detail of the plot to burn up the house with great care. With the statements of the other maid, Mrs. Mary Johnson, who had already given the police the story of her part in the placing of the distillate about the Canfield Hotel, the detectives said last night they have enough evidence with which to secure a conviction.

Mrs. Canfield was arraigned before Justice Hanby Tuesday and is being held in the County Jail in default of $20,000 bail. The date of the preliminary hearing has not yet been set.

NEED FOR HARBOR FACILITIES TOLD.

PORT'S GREAT OPPORTUNITIES THEME AT BANQUET OF CIVIC BODY.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

LOS ANGELES HARBOR, Nov. 10.—Need of greater harbor facilities was told tonight by President Woodman of the Harbor Commission, at a banquet of the local Chamber of Commerce, an annual get-together affair attended by about 100 persons.

"There are few people in Los Angeles," said Mr. Woodman, "who realize we are laying the foundation for the commercial future of the South, here at the harbor. We have voted millions for improvements and most people think we have appropriated generously. But with the Panama Canal in full operation and the world at peace, there is every reason to believe the Pacific Coast will enjoy the same commercial advantages in the future it has had in the past. New York is 1200 miles nearer the nations of the East by the Panama Canal route, and we stand as a way-station on the great circle route of the Pacific.

"We should prepare for an increase of commerce and to meet the competition of other ports with the best modern facilities. Municipal Dock No. 1 at the outer harbor will be a port of call for the great steamers to and from the Orient and there we are planning a great exchange and transfer point. We had better build the first unit of our great warehouses that will be required, and have it stand empty two years, than to need it six months before it is completed."

Other speakers were S. C. Jupp, George H. Dunlop, John P. Gilmer and Capt. Louis Hansen. President Mitchell of the Chamber was toastmaster.

BUS DRIVER ON TRIAL.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

SANTA ANA, Nov. 10.—The trial of William L. Sapp, a jitney bus driver, charged with manslaughter in the death of Meyer S. Rafield, a Los Angeles salesman, last August 22, began today in Department One of the Superior Court, Judge West presiding. The bus in which Rafield was riding and which was driven by Sapp, struck a buggy. The automobile turned turtle and pinned Rafield underneath. He died several hours later. Floyd Webster, a boy who was in the buggy, testified today that he heard no horn prior to the crash.

ELECTION DATE STANDS.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

POMONA, Nov. 10.—The City Council today refused to agree to the demand of one of its members and put off the $50,000 bond election from January 11 to the first Tuesday in April and after a lengthy discussion it was voted to leave the date unchanged. The bonds will be used to improve local streets, add to the storm water protection, build new roads and add to the equipment of the local parks and construct a Chamber of Commerce building.

A Safe Place To Borrow Money

The State Mutual Building and Loan Association has been loaning money for building purposes and on improved property for more than 26 years. We now have $3,800,000 loaned on improved property, and yet we do not own one dollar's worth of real estate taken in default of a debt.

We tell you this to convince you of our absolute reliability, and so that you may know that your property is perfectly safe under a loan from us.

We will loan you money to help build a house on your lot, or for any other legitimate purpose, in amounts not to exceed $5000.

When you contract for a loan from us you arrange to repay it in easy monthly installments, thus constantly reducing the amount of interest, as well as principal, still to be paid.

There are many advantages to be gained in making a loan from us. Call in and find out all about them.

AN-URIC

The Newest Discovery in Chemistry.

This is a recent discovery of Doctor Pierce, who is head of the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute at Buffalo, N. Y. Experiments at Dr. Pierce's Hospital for several years proved that there is no other eliminator of uric acid that can be compared to it. For those easily recognized symptoms of inflammation—as backache, scalding urine and frequent urination, as well as sediment in the urine, or if uric acid in the blood has caused rheumatism, it is simply wonderful how surely "An-uric" acts. The best results are always obtained in cases of acute rheumatism in the joints, in gravel and gout, and invariably the pains and stiffness which so frequently and persistently accompany the disease rapidly disappear.

Go to your nearest drug store and simply ask for a 50-cent package of "An-uric" manufactured by Dr. P... or even write Dr. Pierce for a sample. If you suspect kidney or bladder trouble, send him a sample of your water and describe symptoms. Dr. Pierce's chemist will examine it, then Dr. Pierce will report to you without fee or charge.

Note:—"An-uric" is many times more active than lemon juice in eliminating uric acid, and is a harmless but reliable chemical product that may be safely given to children. It should be used only by those who actually wish to restore the kidneys to perfect health, by cautiously using one box—in extreme cases—as "An-uric" is Doctor Pierce's achievement, by far the most perfect kidney and bladder corrector obtainable.

The Times Special Party

Will Be Among the Participants at the International Exposition on "Los Angeles" Day

Join The Times Excursion for a six-days World's Fair Tour, leaving Los Angeles on Thursday evening, November 18, via the Southern Pacific Coast route and the Giant Red Wood Trees near Santa Cruz. Come along, to help boost for your home town!

Miss Vera Reynolds in costume she suggests for a girls' corps to boost for Los Angeles Day.

Early in the year The Times originated a series of Excursions at a reasonable price for every necessary expense of travel, enabling everybody to avail themselves of the offer to see the Fair at its greatest advantage with a minimum of expense and a maximum of comfort. All details and delays caused by the usual mode of travel have been entirely eliminated on these tours.

The price of ticket, which includes first-class transportation, Pullman berth, meals en route, admissions to the grove of giant trees near Santa Cruz, auto-bus transfer in San Francisco, accommodations and all first-class meals at the Inside Inn, a modern hotel on the Exposition grounds, with admissions each day to the Fair is $42.50.

As this party will be limited in Number, reservations should be made promptly.

NOTED RABBI COMING.

Head of New York's Free Synagogue and Leader of Zionist Movement to be Here Next Week.

Touring the United States in the interests of the Zionist movement and the relief of the suffering of the Jews of Palestine, Dr. Stephen S. Wise, rabbi of the Free Synagogue of New York, vice-president of the Provisional Executive Committee for General Zionist Affairs, and one of the ablest public speakers in the country, will visit Los Angeles next Thursday and Friday.

At a meeting held at Christopher's Monday plans were perfected calling for a monster meeting to be held at the B'nai B'rith Temple, Ninth and Hope streets, next Thursday evening, and a luncheon to be given at the Alexandria Hotel at noon on Friday. It is expected that more than 500 people will be present at the luncheon, invitations for which have been issued to the members of the various civic bodies of the city.

After completing his visit in Los Angeles, Dr. Wise will leave for San Francisco, where meetings have been arranged for him by the Commonwealth Club and various other civic and Jewish organizations.

The Los Angeles committee which has in hand the arrangements for Dr. Wise's visit is composed of Lewis M. Cole, R. Brown, Dr. Leo Blass, Dr. D. W. Edelman, H. W. Frank, B. Furer, Harry Fram, Harry A. Goldman, Rev. Dr. Sigmund Hecht, Charles Isenstein, Henry Klein, Meyer Lissner, Ben R. Meyer, Morris Kaufman, Marco R. Newmark and G. Mossbacher.

SEEKS HER FATHER.

New York Girl is Searching for Bernard Katz, Who Came Out West Eight Years Ago.

Miss Elsie Katz, an attractive New York girl, called at the Central Police Station yesterday to ask for aid in locating her father, Bernard Katz, former church singer, who came to Southern California eight years ago, and has not reported his whereabouts since. She has been searching for five years, and is convinced he is somewhere in Southern California.

Although only 17 years old, Miss Katz has searched throughout the Northwest, where her father resided for some years after coming to the West Coast. It was there she learned he had come to California. Miss Katz is talented, and it was to discuss details of her future that she particularly wished to find her father.

PROCLAMATION.

Whereas, the United States of America is the only great nation not at war and is enjoying the blessings of unbounded prosperity and peace, already sought; and,

Whereas, with the awakening of the public mind, and with that consequent in administrative officials that encourages investments and increases trade, the tide of national prosperity has set in; and,

Whereas, the people of these United States, while deploring the conditions of war and while personal preferences may exist among them, are unitedly maintaining the strictest neutrality and impartiality and are unanimous in their desires for peace and friendship with all nations; and,

Whereas, electricity has ever been the symbol of peace, comfort and prosperity and has benefited mankind more than any other physical agent; and,

Whereas, the interests engaged in the application of electricity to all industrial purposes, representing investments of over $3,000,000,000 have designated the week of November 29 to December 4 as Electrical Prosperity Week; and,

Whereas, during this week there will be a nation-wide celebration of the blessings of peace and prosperity, and of electricity's part in the public well-being; and,

Whereas, statistics show that today one-fifth of the entire electric generating capacity of the United States is used by one-seventeenth of the country's population in the West, and that each person in this domain pays for the light, heat and power as compared with a $3 contribution east of the Rockies; and,

Whereas, the people of the State of California have been particularly fortunate in the benefits they have derived from the utilization of its water-power, ranking second only in the water-power developed to the Empire State; and,

Whereas, Los Angeles harbors withstand the most extensive system of electrical distribution for commerce, power for homes, factories and industries, has a railway system on which persons ride more car miles per capita than in any of the twenty largest cities in the Union; and,

Whereas, we have more telephones per capita of population than any city in the world, and where we have in connection the largest telephone switchboard in the world; therefore,

I, George E. Cryer, Mayor of Los Angeles, do hereby proclaim, that I, Charles E. Chaplin, Mayor of Los Angeles, indorse the plans for the celebration proposed by the local committee, and call upon all citizens to co-operate in their execution, such as the decoration of our streets, business houses and stores, to attend the lectures on electrical topics, to urge the people to visit power stations and electrical exchanges, and to generally participate in the celebration, because of its complete confidence, create enthusiasm and compel the optimism of success in the city's future, upon which the healthy well-being of the city, its institutions and its citizens depend.

Bunker Hill Cut.

"arises from a confusion of the terms 'side feet' and 'square feet' used in relation to the proposed assessments. This has been fully explained, but there are still some who are mixed on the proposition.

"The only property assessed on the square foot basis under our tentative plan is that in and immediately adjoining the downtown business district and in the actual area of the regrading. Outside of these limited zones the assessment is all arranged on a front foot and side foot basis. Inside lots are assessed by the front foot only. In the case of corners there is added to the regular front foot assessment a rate per side foot amounting to one-quarter of that prevailing per front foot.

"Thus, if a man had a corner lot 50x150 feet in size and his front foot rate were $1, he would pay a dollar a foot for the fifty feet frontage and 25 cents a foot for the 150 side feet, making a total assessment of $87.50. On an inside lot of the same size the payment at the same rate would be $50."

UNDER HAMMOND ACT.

Mr. Topham declared that it is the idea of the Public Works Committee to carry the cut project through under the provisions of the Hammond Improvement Act as amended in 1913. This would enable property owners to let their assessments go to bonds with a life of from one to twenty-five years, eliminating all obligation to pay in cash at the time of the project's launching.

"Under this plan," said Mr. Topham, "the carrying out of the open-cut plan need not be an unnecessary hardship on any owner. The bond plan will enable an owner to distribute his payments over a long term of years, and at the same time to meet his share of the cost of an improvement which I am absolutely convinced will enhance property in some parts of the proposed assessment district to many times its present value and which will more than pay for itself in its benefits to the entire district and city within a short time after its completion."

School Military Training.

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 9.—[To the Editor of The Times:] The proposal of Maj. A. J. Copp to offer a resolution of the Los Angeles Board of Education to provide for military training to the boys of the high schools, should meet the approval and indorsement of every peace and law abiding member of the Board of Education as well as every active, sincere member of this community, and this training should not only be instituted in the schools of this city, but should be a part of the curriculum of every school in this country. This training will be of a twofold value, it will not only act as a peace agent in the way of preparedness, acting in a preventive measure, but will be more far-reaching than this; it will give to our boys and growing young men a certain pride and a physical training that is very much needed for the young men of America today.

I am sure that the women who are opposing this movement are those who are not vitally interested in the full development of our young man, or are women who have not been mothers of sons. If they are, their boys are no doubt mollycoddles or should have been girls; or these women fail to understand and appreciate the real nature of boys and men. If our boys were given more attention in the way of this form of occupation and training, thereby absorbing much of the latent and unused and misdirected energy, we would have fewer boys of the Bundy type. Boys who are permitted to frequent poolrooms and other places of like low order, do not develop the best that is in them, from a physical and mental viewpoint. I think a happy solution of this situation would be to make military training in our public schools optional instead of compulsory. Permit the real red-blooded boys to have the benefit of this work, and let the "little sisters of the poor," whose mothers object to their development and training along the military lines, be permitted to do fancy work such as tatting, knitting and sewing.

To further determine the real feeling of our boys and their needs, I would suggest that a straw vote be taken among the boys in the high schools to obtain their sentiment and wishes, and I am sure you will find at least 90 per cent. of them will welcome the innovation. In any event, I wish to commend the action of Maj. Copp and every other member of the Board of Education who understands and knows boys and their life as it should be, and appreciates, not only the great stride in the direction of preventing warfare, and for peace in the way of preparedness, but also the full value of the fine training, both mental and physical, that military instruction will afford our boys.

STRONG SUPPORT FOR FILM PLAY.

Many Give Indorsement to "Damaged Goods."

Application is to be Made Today for Showing.

Favorable Comments from Prominent People.

Already negatively victorious for its producers in paving the way for events that led up to the recent shake-up in the local Board of Motion Picture Censors, the campaign for the right to show the film, "Damaged Goods," founded on the famous Brieux play, continues with unabated vigor. Armed with indorsements from persons in all walks of life, J. A. Quinn, manager of Quinn's Theater, at which it is planned to present the picture, is to appear before the four members of the censor board other than those who have resigned, and make application for permission to show the picture.

Mr. Quinn has secured nearly twelve closely-written typewritten pages of indorsements, and the names of over 100 indorsers appear therein. The statements constitute a strong plea for the presentation of the remarkable pathologic picture play.

Among the indorsements secured, according to the document, are the following: Rev. Dr. Baker P. Lee, Rabbi Hecht, C. E. Snively, Chief of Police; Mrs. H. C. Terrell, secretary of the Board of Education; H. S. Upjohn, principal of South Pasadena High School; C. J. McCormick, member of the Board of Education; F. J. Armstrong, treasurer, student body organization, Manual Arts High School; Olga McNeile, M. D., medical examiner, juvenile bureau, police department; Gladys Patrick, attending physician at Los Angeles County Hospital; Rose W. Baruch, vice-president Los Angeles Society of Social Hygiene; Bertha Lovejoy Cable, president of Federation of Woman's Clubs, Los Angeles district; Mrs. J. D. Taylor, president of Los Angeles Federation of Parent-Teachers' Association; Mrs. Aletha Gilbert, city mother; Mrs. Nellie Scott Lucas, secretary Temple-Street School Parent-Teachers' Association; Mrs. A. W. Francisco, city mother; A. W. Fenwick, professor at Manual Arts High School; Estelle Lawton Lindsey, chairman Public Welfare Committee, City Council; Mrs. Jefferson D. Gibbs, chairman city mothers' bureau, advisory board, and Mrs. Rufus N. Lake, in charge of day nurseries, Los Angeles Parent-Teachers' Association.

In certain instances suggestions are given as regards the changing or elimination of certain scenes, but most of the indorsements are given with little or no qualification.

Following are excerpts from some of the indorsements:

C. E. Snively, Chief of Police: The story is one that every person of a comprehending age should witness and not forget. To meet the demands a few feet of the film might be omitted, but the lesson is now complete in its entirety.

Mrs. H. C. Terrell, secretary of the Board of Education: Every father, mother, son and daughter (over 16) should view "Damaged Goods." This will bring to them a realization of "their duty," save our future generations, "our assets."

Olga McNeile, M. D., medical examiner, juvenile bureau of police department: In my experience as examining physician for both the county and city juvenile bureau I have found that immorality among the female delinquents coming under the jurisdiction of the department usually begins at or under the age of 12 years. For this reason I believe that this film should be generally shown, without any changes in any portion, and to persons of all ages.

Rose W. Baruch, vice-president of the Los Angeles Society of Social Hygiene: The production of "Damaged Goods" in moving pictures is a remarkable visualization of a most unpleasant theme, but as a means of educational value it has great merit. I am glad to recommend this film for it portrays so forcibly the dangers to innocent members of society through their introduction into marriage."

Bertha Lovejoy Cable, president of the Federation of Woman's Clubs, Los Angeles district: The film "Damaged Goods" is, in my opinion, an educational presentation of a social problem that has assumed such proportions in our national life that only a fearless facing of facts will arouse the public conscience to the necessity of dealing with the problem. Personally, I can see no objection to showing this picture, and believe that it would result favorably in a more thorough understanding of this social evil and its disastrous effects."

Mrs. J. D. Taylor, president Los Angeles Federation of Parent-Teachers' Association: The film "Damaged Goods" deals with a subject we must face, however terrible and objectionable we may consider it. Every father and mother in the country needs an awakening on this question. The very young will not understand it, but it will do them no harm. Every child of understandable age ought to be taken by their parents to see the film.

"LAND RUSH" FIZZLES.

Six Homestead Entrymen Appear on First Day to Claim Parts of Cleveland Forest Just Reopened.

The advertised rush of entries for land recently segregated from the Cleveland National Forest, in San Diego and Riverside counties did not materialize yesterday at the local Land Office.

Under the ruling of the Interior Department entries may be made any time between November 10 and November 30, at which time, where there are conflicting entries, Register Roche and Receiver Mitchell will determine the rights of the various parties.

There were about half a dozen entries yesterday and there is not likely to be over fifty applications for entry altogether, the officials say.

Many who were enthusiastic in regard to the possibilities of securing a fairly good farm somewhere in the large area restored to the public domain made a visit to the section following the opening and returned in a pessimistic frame of mind. They found the statements in The Times as to the undesirability of nine-tenths of the land were true, that it is either mountainous and unsuitable for agricultural uses or is in the desert, where there is no likelihood of being able to get enough water for even domestic purposes. What good land there is has been taken up long before.

Under the rule of the department all entries made during the ensuing twenty days will be treated as having been filed simultaneously, so there is no advantage to be had by hurrying. In the hearing that is to follow after the close of the entries the only question will be which of the entrymen has come nearest to complying with the homestead law in the way of improvements and money spent on the land. There are likely to be several entrymen each on a few of the best pieces of land yet remaining unoccupied.

LAWYER EXONERATED.

Judge Van Fleet yesterday vacated the order issued in the case of Duke Stone, the attorney who did not appear to defend Edward Holt, after he had been appointed by the court to do so. The lawyer was exonerated after he had made a full statement in court. He said he had been appointed by Judge Bledsoe to defend Holt, but that he had no knowledge that the case was to have been taken up on Tuesday. He had gone to Imperial county to try a case.

Nujol

REG. U.S. PAT. OFF.

A PURE WHITE MINERAL OIL

Your Doctor Prescribes It

THE highest medical authorities everywhere now endorse pure mineral oil as a remedy for constipation.

Nujol conforms to the requirements of the mineral oil treatment as prescribed by its discoverer, Sir William Arbuthnot Lane. It gives permanent, not temporary, relief from constipation, with none of the harmful after-effects of laxative drugs.

Nujol is odorless and tasteless, absolutely neutral, and is not digested or absorbed into the system. It acts merely as a mechanical lubricant.

Nujol is not a drug. Its use will not give quick, temporary relief. But Nujol is a genuine remedy in that it relieves constipation in the most natural way by lubricating the lining of the intestines, softening the intestinal contents, and thus promoting healthy and normal bowel activity.

You Can't Possibly Go Wrong With

COAL BRIQUETS

Here's the solution of the perplexing fuel problem—Coal Briquets!

Made from the richest, purest portions of coal veins owned by the Pacific Coast Coal Company and famed from Bering Sea to Mexico for the efficiency of their product; mixed with California Petroleum as a "binder," still further enhancing the heating value.

So clean they would hardly soil your fingers. No greasy soot will fill your house and damage your furnishings if you burn Coal Briquets.

Low in first cost and doubly economical in their long life—burning slowly and steadily or fiercely hot, as you may desire; easily governed by the drafts. Minimum of ash.

And remember the Guarantee. If Coal Briquets don't please you right down ta the ground we lose—you keep the money.

TREND OF THE FINANCIAL NEWS.

CHIEF EVENTS OF YESTERDAY.

(At Home:) The weeding-out process in financial circles has begun, and investors can now see clearly those securities that are not inflated by war contracts. High-grade industrial and railroad shares, dividend-paying, are in excellent demand at better prices, while those affected by momentary profits in war business are not so well liked. It is reported the big steel corporation has over six million tons of work on its "unfilled" books, a big increase over last month and year. Europe has started to buy our wheat again.

(Abroad:) The new French war loan is to draw 5½ per cent. interest.

(For details see financial pages.)

THE GREAT UNCERTAINTIES.

Two things are quite uncertain in this world of realities and upon this plane of definiteness. One is what the public will think of any play before it has been produced, and the other is the price of hay before the season is halfway over. Most of us thought ourselves lucky to get $13 a ton a few weeks ago, and some of us are buying it back at $24 retail. At the start it looked as if the war would not help the price of hay. They were sending all of the horses abroad to fight for somebody else's country. Nobody suspected that the hay would also be shipped abroad to feed the horses that had gone to war. This has happened, however, and the next time there is a world war and you have hay to sell hold it a little while on suspicion.

THE CULT OF FEET.

The primary duty of fashion is to attract attention. And feet doubtless felt that their turn was due. We can remember the tame old times when feet were essentially modest. Just so long as they were neatly covered in some good, dark, serviceable leather, they were satisfied. They were content to be obscure and any unmaidenly feet that unduly called attention to themselves were promptly frowned down.

But every dog has his day and feet have been violently fashionable for a couple of years or more. But alas, alas, when everybody is somebody no one's anybody, and feet can shriek to their loudest content and they no longer attract a second glance. A foot would have to be unusually dowdy nowadays to get any sort of special attention. We soon get used to things. One man proved that he could get used to hell.

The fashion wave of the last few years has been cruelly hard on the stage. Many an actress made her reputation on scanty draperies and violent feet. Nowadays one can see the most vivid efforts of any actress duplicated a score of times in the audience—and one can see lay feet (and legs) without paying for the privilege.

This is obviously unfair competition. Fashion is unquestionably responsible for the demise of the chorus. Why pay to see a row of legs and feet when an inexpensive stroll along Broadway provides the show?

The chorus girl will tell you that the movies have put her out of business. Not a bit of it. She encompassed her own undoing. She banked on legs and feet and made such a success of it that the average lay-woman was forced to reconsider her own attractions and naturally discovered that she, too, had feet. Fashion did the rest.

NO TREATING.

The no-treating order for the London area has just gone into effect, meaning that it becomes a chargeable offense to stand anyone a drink. The London area comprises 699 miles and has a population of seven and a quarter millions; and as nearly every corner, excepting only in the best residential and business districts, is occupied by a saloon, a large and fearful moan has risen like a dirge.

One can imagine John Smith wondering dismally how on earth social intercourse is to be preserved with an arbitrary order like that in force. Could anything be more coldly unsociable than a Dutch treat, or drinking by oneself? Since the beginning of time treating has been a sort of religious rite; it was considered bad form to either omit an invitation to drink or to refuse one. You could not say anything much worse about a fellow over there than that he drank alone or failed in his social responsibilities to treat and be treated by his friends.

The idea of discussing any problem whatsoever in any way but over the mutual drinks was unthinkable. It is safe to say that a dozen Zeppelin raids and the demolition of Westminster Abbey itself could not bring home the unpleasantness of war quite so poignantly to the average Londoner as this no-treating order which will knock the very bottom out of social intercourse. There are almost as many rules of etiquette for correct treating and acceptance in England as there are golf rules. You could tell at once whether a man was a "regular fellow" by the simple process of inviting him to a drink, and his method of acceptance and reciprocity.

"No, hang it all, old chap, how is a fellow to know? One might as well be a bally conscript.

"I mean to say, don't you know, war is 'orrid."

It is announced that there will be no change in the form of government in China this year. But it is not long until 1916, President Yuan Shi Kai.

It is announced that King George is now taking exercise after his accident, but horseback riding is not one of his stunts.

GOVERNOR HUNT, THE FRIEND OF CRIMINALS.

A few years ago Arizona was admitted to Statehood. The new State is known as one of the richest within the Union. She has wonderful mines of copper, gold, silver and zinc. She has great areas of agricultural lands, well suited to intensive farming, with a plenty of water for irrigation secured through the preferential liberality of the general government. She has hills whereon range millions of cattle, horses and sheep. She has the greatest unbroken forest within the nation. On the basis of these things prosperity in the highest degree was expected, not only by her own people, but in the judgment of outsiders who considered her situation and resources.

But the good results expected from Statehood have not come to pass. The capital that was to flow in for the development of her resources has been withheld, save for enterprises already initiated. This deplorable fact has not been due to the general depression that followed the advent of the war and the passing of a Republican national administration. There was a more immediate reason, one to be found in the Statehouse of Arizona herself, a building wherein fair play no longer seems to have an abiding place. The root of the whole trouble is in the State administration. Gov. Hunt has shown himself not the leader and representative of his whole people, but merely the representative and attorney of a small and disturbing faction, in cases wherein he should have been the administrator of exact and equal justice.

Particularly in point is the attitude of the Governor with respect to the strike at Clifton, where efforts to force unionism upon all the employees of the district are causing the loss of over a million dollars a month to labor, capital and to the locality at large. Incidental to the strike was the burning of an immense concentrating mill a few days ago. The strikers, said to number about 4000, have taken possession of three towns, have run out everyone who will not shout with them, and have denied circulation to a newspaper that failed to pander to their views. There was a question of wages, but the strike began with a demand for recognition of the lawless Western Federation of Miners. The mine managers, who fled to El Paso for personal safety from criminals and assassins, naturally want to resume production, but demand, as a prerequisite for negotiations, full assurance that the federation shall not be given any share in the management of the mines. In this action they not only are within their legal rights, but, in view of what has happened in the mines of Colorado, they show merely common horse sense.

Gov. Hunt, after declaring his full sympathy with the law-breaking strikers, sent militia to the ground, not as guards to property, but merely as an intimation that force might be met with force in case of active rioting. Most of the guardsmen have just been withdrawn, with an official intimation that the peace of the district can be safely left in the hands of the strikers. Yet there are indications that the companies are looking toward resumption of operations in their mines and mills and smelters. Should they decide to start again next week, they would have, under the Constitution, the right to demand that the State protect them in their lawful industry. It cannot be doubted that such protection would be denied.

It is told that the Governor does not propose to seek a third term of his high office. He has received hard criticism, particularly within his own party and from his own party newspapers, and he is said to have indicated a preference for a quieter life. For the sake of the State it would be well for him to retire. In office within Arizona for at least a score of years, in one capacity or another, never has he done less for the people than during his two terms in the Executive chair. Yet his opportunities have been magnificent during this period that should have been one of constructive growth, laying the foundation of a State, with statesmanlike appreciation of the errors of other communities, as well as with the possibility of benefiting from their successes. But the time for which the taxpayers dearly paid has been wasted in the support of fads, in trying to force acceptance of the abolition of capital punishment and the passage of laws that would throw the powers of government into the hands of his own pet union-labor faction, at large expense to the taxpayers.

Deeply solicitous of the welfare of criminals, even defying the voters and the courts in attempts to save the necks of murderers, he has overlooked entirely the greater problem, a wise solution of which might have brought to his State prosperity and happiness and to himself a fair renown.

EXTRACTING THE HYPHEN.

The war in Europe has caused many native and neutralized citizens of this country to express un-American sentiments and to commit un-American acts. Certain of them have even gone so far as to pugnaciously avow that if certain exigencies arose they would not admit that their first allegiance was to the United States.

This lamentable situation has created much disturbance, and foremost among those aggrieved have been foreign-born citizens who are staunchly loyal to the country of their adoption and who are taking laudable efforts to have themselves differentiated from the "hyphenated" Americans.

A movement has been started by Americans of recent foreign origin to make a nation-wide appeal on behalf of undivided Americanism. Twenty-four New York business and professional men of foreign extraction, most of whom are Germans, have called upon American citizens of foreign birth or parentage to come forward and declare themselves for the United States "first, last and all the time."

The reasons for such a declaration are set forth by them as follows:

"For months there has been an element in this class of foreign origin who have carried on in these United States the propaganda of their foreign sympathies, not as fair American participants in the open channel of public debate, but secretly in alliance with agents of foreign monarchies.

"They have lent their aid to plot and subterfuge of secretly subsidized organizations and to acts designed and executed for the purpose of embarrassing the government of the United States and its President in the delicate and troubled hours of this European conflict.

"They have broken the spirit and letter of the country's neutrality.

"They have broken their allegiance to the United States in an active allegiance to monarchies from whose tyrannies they or their parents have fled. Such men have gone so far as to intimate there may be some doubt, in the improbable event of a conflict between the United States and any foreign power whatsoever, whether citizens of foreign birth or parentage will be found loyally supporting the land of their adoption. They have bowed to the monstrous ideas of dual citizenship and lent themselves to the manipulations of foreign interests to whom the liberty, democracy and free ideals of these United States of America have been and are abhorrent."

A few weeks ago President Wilson, speaking before the Daughters of the American Revolution, made a plain statement of the case in words which included the following:

"I look forward to the necessity in every political agitation in the years which are immediately at hand of calling upon every man to declare himself where he stands. Is it America first or is it not? We ought to be very careful about some of the impressions that we are forming just now. There is too general an impression, I fear, that very large numbers of our fellow-citizens born in other lands have not entertained with sufficient intensity and affection the American ideal; but their numbers are not large. Those who would seek to represent them are very vocal, but they are not very influential. . . .

"I am not deceived as to the balance of opinion among the foreign-born citizens of the United States, but I am in a hurry to have an opportunity to have a line-up."

The leading newspapers throughout the country have been almost unanimous in castigating the "hyphen." The Philadelphia Record has said: "Decency requires that persons who have left Germany or France or Russia or England for their own benefit and come here should subordinate the interests of the countries they have left to those of the country whose citizenship they have assumed."

The New York Sun, the New Orleans Times-Picayune, the Springfield Republican, the Knoxville Sentinel have all, with one phraseology or another, agreed with the sentiment of the Washington Post, which said: "Now is the time for pseudo-Americans to search their hearts and choose their flags, for if war should come they might be too late."

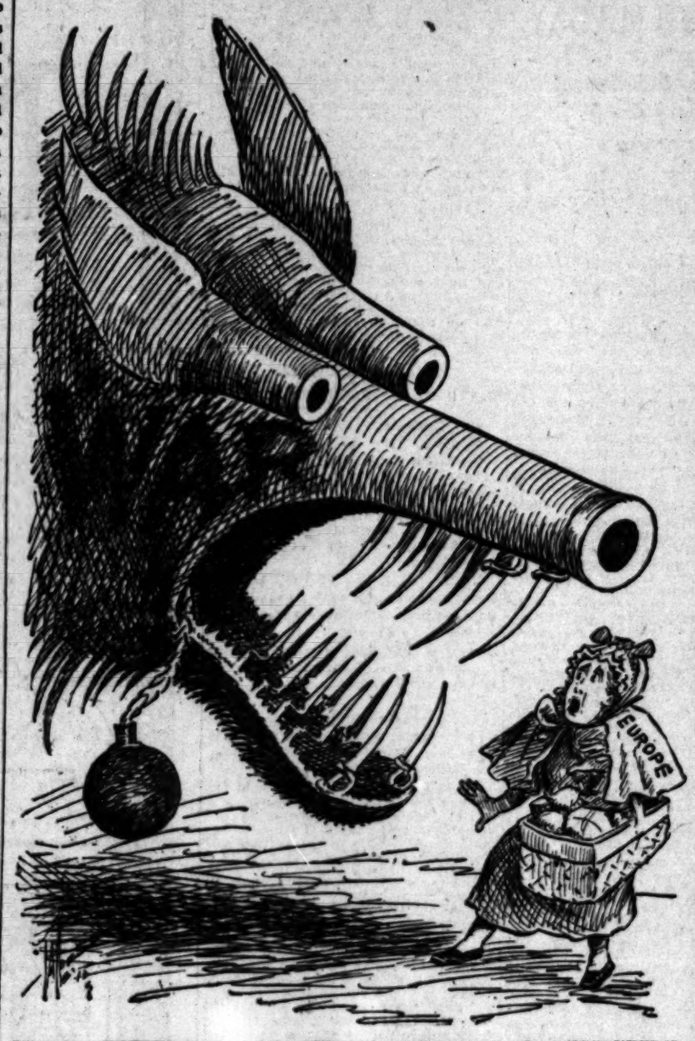
America has flung her portals wide open to all the world; immigrants have poured in and have been welcome; restrictions have perhaps been far too lax, but the hospitable position has been taken that America is a free land of opportunity and none but the physically diseased or morally vicious should be excluded. America has welcomed the strangers in good faith; we have believed in their good intentions and thought none so base as to swear a traitorous oath of citizenship for the commercial and political advantages of our land.

And to a gratifying extent that faith has been splendidly justified; but ostracism and contempt—and in crucial times something more severe—should be the lot of each perjured "American," as it is inevitably and justly the lot of any man in society or business who shows himself to be faithless and unworthy of trust.

CALIFORNIA IN NOVEMBER.

These are the days when the Pacific belongs to those sapphire seas that are spilled flame from skies, and when the hills stand at last revealed. It is on these days of white-winged beauty, whose frosted loveliness is like that of the tuberose and the sour wood bell and beneath whose chaste exterior there is an amethystine passion burning like an opal's fiery heart, that even the dumbness of clay may realize California as the poem of God.

Red Riding Hood, Revised.



REDFIELD'S ABSURDITY.

Secretary Redfield will never consent to abandon or modify the Democratic "tariff for revenue only" or to give countenance to the Republican doctrine of protection. Instead of protecting American workers from competition with the ill-paid labor of Europe by a tariff on imported goods he proposes the enactment by Congress of a law making selling by foreign firms to American importers at less than the sums charged to domestic buyers "unfair competition" and a transaction of that sort to cause the importers to be punished under the anti-trust laws.

Secretary Redfield proposes a law of Congress as follows:

"(a) It shall be unlawful for any person engaged in interstate or foreign commerce or industry to sell or purchase articles of foreign origin or manufacture in the sale of which in the country of origin or elsewhere discrimination as to prices is made between different purchasers, where the prices to be paid for such articles by any American buyer, user, consumer or dealer, after deduction of all charges incident to transportation, handling and entry, are materially below the current market rates for such articles in the country of production, or from which shipment is made to the United States, in case such prices substantially restrict competition on the part of American producers of similar or allied articles, or tend to create a monopoly in the sale of such articles in American markets.

"(b) It shall be unlawful for any person engaged in interstate commerce or industry to buy, sell or contract for the sale of articles of foreign origin or manufacture, or to fix a price charged therefor, or rebate upon such price, conditioned upon the purchaser thereof not using or dealing in wares produced or sold by competitors of the manufacturer or seller, where the effect may be to substantially lessen competition in the production in the United States of such article, or tend to create a monopoly of the sale of such articles in American markets."

Under this law suppose it costs 29 cents to produce a cotton shirt in Manchester, England, and 1 cent to bring it to this country, and it costs 40 cents to produce a similar shirt in Manchester, N. H. The Republican plan is to levy an import duty of 10 cents on the shirt. By this means the United States treasury would get 10 cents or probably the English shirt would not be imported at all, and the American shirt would hold the American market.

Mr. Redfield's plan is to leave the duty at 5 cents and compel the American importer, under the anti-trust laws, to give 35 cents for the shirt to the British manufacturer, although the latter will sell it to a home consumer for 31 cents.

That looks absurd. It is absurd. But can you cipher it out any other way?

THE CHAMBER OF LIFE.

If a beggar walked into a gambling house and somebody staked him to $5 and he should play this up to several thousand and then lose it all before morning he would leave the house as he entered it—a pauper. He would have felt afterward that he had lived much. He would have run the gamut of a wide range of experiences in that night of passionate winning and losing, yet all that he would have left would be whatever he retained within his own economy of these fierce fires of human desire. He would have left only the memories of his hopes and the short-lived happiness of their brief and fading fulfillment. He would retain perhaps some slight impulse of the courage or the cowardice he had felt in placing a hazard. Yet, mind you, he entered a pauper and he left in hunger. Perhaps the experience of being born and of dying is not so different. Man enters the chamber of the world in nakedness and he departs empty-handed with only the action of his experiences as registered upon his individuality to show for what the dream has been. He has a night of fever or a day of playtime, and then when he has won and lost through a long dream he returns to face the reality of himself as he stood before he entered the chamber.

OUR EXTRAORDINARY FOREIGN TRADE.

[CONTRIBUTED TO THE TIMES]

BY ROLAND P. FALKNER, PH.D.,

Of the Staff of the Alexander Hamilton Institute; Assistant Director of the Thirteenth Census 1911-12.

SINCE the year opened the trade figures issued month by month have been a source of increasing wonder and satisfaction. When the fiscal year rolled up an excess of merchandise exports over imports which exceeded one billion dollars, the jubilation of the press was unbounded. We are not likely to forget the fact or underestimate its significance. If the imposing figure has made a deep impression upon a nation always susceptible to big things it must also be admitted that its practical importance has been tremendous.

The significance of this enormous trade balance for foreign exchange was early perceived and has been deeply impressed on us by the recent loan negotiations, which have made us bankers for England and France. Important as are these aspects of the situation, the press has given less thought to the question whether these developments have promoted the welfare of the producers among our own people—whether they have made any permanent contribution to our well being.

We have grown accustomed to an excess of merchandise exports, though it has never been so great as last year. Many have overlooked the fact that, while compared with the year before exports rose by $404,000,000, imports fell by $220,000,000 in value.

Imports from Europe alone decreased $381,000,000, or nearly one-third, and with Asia also some trade was lost. Only in part were such losses offset by gains in other parts of the world. It was not, as might be supposed, the losses in German trade alone which curtailed imports from Europe, for all nations participated in the decline. Thanks to the increased price of sugar, the group of commodities officially described as "foodstuffs partly or wholly manufactured" rose in the value of imports; but all other groups declined.

More conspicuous was the rise in the value of exports, in which Europe has the lion's share. While European trade boomed, exports to other parts of the world languished. Though large shipments were made to Russia by way of Vladivostok trade with Asia indeed remained stationary, but trade with the American continents declined.

If the gain in exports was unevenly distributed among the continents, the gain in exports to Europe was still more unevenly divided among the nations. Germany and Austria were practically closed to us, and exports to them fell to only 5 per cent. of the preceding year. What Germany lost Great Britain gained, and other countries made notable advances. The neutral countries absorbed relatively enormous quantities; but if part of such gain filtered through to the central monarchies it made up for only a fraction of what they lost in direct trade.

Exports of foodstuffs doubled in value, while miscellaneous exports, in normal times less than ten millions, multiplied tenfold through the shipments of horses and mules. Raw materials fell off one-fifth in value, while manufactured products serving as a basis of further manufactures declined slightly. The much-heralded increase in manufactured exports reduces itself to a 12-per-cent. gain in manufactures ready for consumption. Wherever we look and the more we study the facts in detail, we see that the increase of exports has been for war purposes. Peace exports have not held their own.

However important recent developments may be for our position in international finance, they represent wholly abnormal commercial conditions. They break in upon and do not continue the development which has marked the past decade. When exports to Europe increase, when exports to other parts of the world decline, when foodstuffs are more abundantly exported, and exports of manufactures—except as they serve temporary emergencies—stagnate, we lack the conditions of normal, healthy growth. Yet, despite these conditions, the great excess of merchandise exports, the loosening of American capital to foreign nations which has followed, and other attendant circumstances, have given the semblance of an unusual prosperity, which has brought in its wake frenzied speculation on the part of those who cannot see below the surface.

The solid business men of the nation should not bank too strongly upon this upward rush in certain, after all, limited fields; and they are not doing so. In the present rift men are making hay while the sun shines—and none can blame them; but the weatherwise know that the clouds which for two years or more have hung over our industry and trade, though thinned, have not lifted.

RIPPLING RHYMES.

A LITTLE TRAGEDY.

I jaunted in my motor car, and ran o'er
Jimpson's shoat, and from that creature knocked the tar; I surely got its goat. I offered payment for the pig—'twas neither large nor fat—but Jimpson made the price too big; I wouldn't stand for that. "The rankest graft I ever saw," I cried with rising ire; "before I'll pay I'll go to law—a lawyer I shall hire." We went to law; the case was tried by judges near and far,
and now I see the lawyer ride in my nice motor car. I trudge along on weary feet, all burdened with disgust; the lawyer scoots along the street and covers me with dust.
Old Jimpson had a hundred pigs that fed on cockleburs; they've gone to purchase gowns and wigs for stately barristers. We stood last night by my abode, to cuss the legal rich; my lawyer motored down the road and shoved us in the ditch. For such a dark and dismal shame there's nothing can atone; the car that climbed my palsied frame was formerly my own. Oh, Jimpson had a hundred hogs, and I a choo-choo cart; and he has nothing now but dogs, and
I a broken heart. WALT MASON.

Pertinent Question.

[Kansas City Journal:] In his Commoner Bryan explains that he paid $300 for the desk and chair used by Seward, Blaine, Sherman, Hay and Root while they were serving as Secretary of State. What colossus is there around Lincoln, Neb., who can make use of them? asks the Nevada Herald. If Bryan should fall off the desk and tumble through one of the holes in the leather seat of the chair he might hurt himself.

Unfriendly Carranza.

[Washington Star:] Carranza declares that he will compel any Mexican grafters to cross the border and remain in the United States. This does not sound exactly like a favor.

THE AMERICAN RACE.

Our fathers' work so well begun
Shall onward lead us to the sun,
If we fulfill the noble plan
Which makes a god of every man.
The signs along life's winding way
Will guide us right if we obey
The higher call of heart and brain
Dominion o'er the world we'll gain.

Dominion o'er the world we'll hold,
While we are young, when we are old,
If we shall train to highest ends
Our heart and brain and hand and ...
To crush the low, weak traits of ...
To only give strength to our kind.
To only build with God-like minds,
To only live the life of right.

No reason why we should not be
The master race; we all are free
To think and act and to persevere,
The things we need and can endure.
Let us become the iron race,
And take and hold the foremost place
Among mankind forevermore,
And send the light the breed ...

Schmidt Trial.

his associates were present when the crime was planned, counselled and advised the commission of the act, and assisted in securing the required explosives.

The facts of the explosion were given, Mr. Noel declaring that the explosion was caused by the placing of a suit case containing twenty sticks of nitro-gelatine and an infernal machine devised by J. B. McNamara. A description of the mechanism of the infernal machine was then given.

The destruction of human lives that followed was recited, and it was stated that it would be shown that Charles A. Haggerty was employed in the basement of the Times Building, almost underneath the point where the suit case was set, and that his life was thus destroyed when the explosion occurred.

Mr. Noel then detailed the finding of an infernal machine and sixteen sticks of high explosive at the residence of F. J. Zeehandelaar, secretary of the Merchants' and Manufacturers' Association, with the clock set for 1 o'clock, and also of the finding of a similar outfit at the residence of Gen. Harrison Gray Otis about noon of the same day. He told of the taking of this plant by police officers to Westlake Park and its explosion, with the result that debris was thrown to a height of 200 feet into the air and a great hole was torn into the hard roadway where the plant stood when it exploded.

The wrappers of the explosives found in the plant at the Zeehandelaar residence showed, said Mr. Noel, that the explosive was manufactured by the Giant Powder Company of Giant, Cal., and that evidence would be introduced to show that the nitroglycerine was delivered by that company to the defendant.

ON LABOR SITUATION.

Mr. Noel then gave a general statement of the situation in California regarding the labor situation. He stated that Mr. Zeehandelaar is secretary of an association that was doing its utmost to maintain an open-shop policy in Los Angeles; that Gen. Otis is the editor and principal proprietor of The Times, a newspaper that for many years has been and still is conducting a fight for the open shop, or as Gen. Otis had termed it, "industrial freedom;" that Gen. Otis has incurred the wrath of the trades unions.

Proceeding, Mr. Noel stated that the evidence will show that the murder of Charles A. Haggerty was one of a large number of depredations, as part of a nation-wide conspiracy which had its activities in more than half of the States of the Union.

The evidence will show, said Mr. Noel, that the expense of this conspiracy was met from a common fund; that explosives were secured in large quantities and that from a common storehouse these explosives were carried to places where they were to be used, and that the same motive existed in California as in at least twenty other States for the carrying on of this gigantic conspiracy.

Then followed a comprehensive statement of the activities of officers of the International Association of Bridge and Structural Ironworkers, with national headquarters at Indianapolis.

The crime here is charged to the officers of this union and their employees, said Mr. Noel, and they are directly charged with being conspirators; that they went into the treasury of the union and stole its money to the extent of $26,000 for the purpose of getting funds to carry on crimes.

BEGINNING OF WAR.

It was then detailed that in 1905 the Ironworkers' Union declared a strike against the American Bridge Company all over the United States, and that on August 7, 1905, this was extended to all members of the National Erectors' Association, because it would not yield the open-shop policy.

The statement was made that evidence will be presented to show that there have been at least seventy-two explosions produced by this conspiracy. Mr. Noel then went into some detail of these in many parts of the country, giving the names of the firms affected, the character of the damage done and the locations of the work affected. In various cases there was apparent disregard for human life.

It was declared that Herbert S. Hockin directed Ortie McManigal to secure dynamite, at various times, and others mentioned in the general statement regarding these crimes were Frank C. Webb and George E. Davis, alias George O'Donnell.

Evidence will be produced, said Mr. Noel, to show that in cases where explosions occurred where open shops were operated previous threats had been made that "something would happen," and that in one instance where the manager agreed to a closed-shop programme he was told that he could withdraw his guards as there would be no more explosions.

"HIGH WINDS."

The vast amount of correspondence that occurred in the arranging for these "jobs," or "high winds," as the explosions were termed in these letters, was referred to, and it was stated that several hundred of these letters will be offered in evidence. These men were boldly planning the conspiracy and carrying it out with the use of the United States mails, said Mr. Noel. He declared that it will be shown that the $26,000 required to carry on these crimes was charged on the books as "organization expenses," and that a part of this went to pay for the destruction of the Times Building. At first, said Mr. Noel, payments were made by check, but these began to be so numerous that J. J. McNamara began to draw out $1000 a month, and to put it to bank in his own name, to be used as cash payments for this work.

In detailing the works that were dynamited, Mr. Noel stated that it would be shown that the plans also included the destruction of the Gatun dam in Panama.

Finally, in the recitation of these cases, Mr. Noel reached the point where Hockin met McManigal and secured his services, and stated that, after that time, more than twenty explosions were produced.

Then came, said Mr. Noel, an appeal from E. J. Clancy of San Francisco, a vice-president of the Bridge and Structural Ironworkers' Association, for help on the Pacific Coast; that the directors of the International Association provided that F. M. Ryan, a member of the executive board, should systematize the work of producing explosions over the country. In a letter from Ryan to J. J. McNamara, said Mr. Noel, a list was given of "jobs" to be done and the work was parcelled out to various men.

In the summer of 1910 McNamara urged that Clancy should get busy in California, said Noel, and Clancy wrote from Los Angeles, describing conditions here, stating that there was an attempt being made to arouse Los Angeles, and that it must be done then or forever fail. He stated this work was being directed from San Francisco, and mentioned Anton Johannsen and others in this connection.

Clancy, in this letter, stated Mr. Noel, urged that Hockin was the man needed in Los Angeles, but that McNamara said he was needed too badly nearer home. In one letter, said Mr. Noel, Ryan said that Clancy ought to be able to find some man on the Coast able to do the work. John H. Barry of St. Louis agreed to come, but later revoked this decision and then Clancy asked for J. B. McNamara, said the prosecutor.

TRIBUTE TO "TIMES."

Prior to that time, said Mr. Noel, Clancy reported to the other conspirators that Los Angeles was "the scabbiest town on earth," and that editorials in the union magazine and letters from J. E. Timmons, business agent here, urged that every effort be made to establish unionism here and that The Los Angeles Times was the worst enemy of labor unions on earth, and that the labor unions must concentrate on Los Angeles.

Mr. Noel then set forth the conditions of the strike of 1910, and the resistance of the local organizations, the M. and M. and Chamber of Commerce in favor of the open-shop policy; declared that labor unions of San Francisco organized a movement to compel the unionizing of Los Angeles and that Olaf Tveitmoe and Andy Gallagher were the chairman and secretary, respectively, of this movement, for which $330,000 in funds were raised. He said that these men spent a great deal of time in Los Angeles from April until The Times explosion.

SCHMIDT'S RECORD.

Schmidt, said Mr. Noel, was a woodworker in Chicago, and there met David Caplan. Schmidt was a union agitator and at one time, so he said himself, he beat up a non-union man so that he had to stay in the hospital six months.

In 1909, said Mr. Noel, Schmidt went to San Francisco, and there met Anton Johannsen, and that the evidence will show that Johannsen is a co-conspirator, and that Schmidt there again met Caplan. He said that Schmidt engaged in the business of producing fires upon the work of open-shop concerns by a device to break bottles and release gases.

The Pacific Coast and Lumber Company, said Mr. Noel, had planing mills across the bay from San Francisco, operated as an open shop, and that in the fall of 1909 two fires occurred in these shops traceable to bottles of chemicals; that Johannsen had said when the proprietor of the shops resisted the closed shop policy that he would have to be disciplined and that force would be used if necessary.

It was in connection with the recital of Schmidt's alleged activities that strenuous objection was made by the defense counsel, but without avail. Mr. Noel will resume his statement this morning.

FOR THE CHILDREN.

Baby Elephant to Distribute Invitations for School Day Saturday at Home Products Exhibition.

Invitations to attend the home products' show will be distributed to the children in the lobby of the Chamber of Commerce tomorrow afternoon and Saturday by "Tweedle-Dee," the Southland's littlest elephant.

Headed by Chairman Pridham, members of the Board of Supervisors inspected the exhibit in a body yesterday. All expressed themselves as surprised at the showing made. Today will be national and State day at the exhibit, with Federal and State officials and employees especially urged to attend.

The Other Side

"PERSECUTION AND PERJURY."

MOTION-PICTURE MAN'S HOT ANSWER TO CHARGES.

Employer Arrested on Complaints of Men and Women He Hired Says He will Prosecute Both Them and the Authorities—Has Receipts for the Wages Paid.

William Parsons, who was arrested last Sunday on a complaint charging him with failure to pay wages due employees, declared yesterday that he was "double crossed" and duped by his employees and trusted friends. He asserted that besides bringing action immediately against City Prosecutor Williams for "malicious persecution" he will press charges of perjury against the employees who claim that he has refused to pay their salaries.

"I put my own money and that of my intimate friends into the motion picture business and we are a legitimate, going concern, with money in the bank, and we do not owe a cent," said Mr. Parsons. "The facts in the case are that I never appeared before the City Prosecutor as a supplicant asking that the charges against me be held up until I could square things with former employees. I simply demanded that the charges be dropped because they are absolutely false, and I brought eleven witnesses to back my statements."

Mr. Parsons exhibited cancelled checks and receipts from some of the employees who are suing him to show that the men were paid in full.

WINS GAME BUT LOSES HIS GOLD.

SEES QUICK WAY TO RICHES, BUT THE CONFIDENCE MAN FAILS TO RETURN PROFITS.

C. E. Hoffman is 23 years old, and from Milwaukee, where his father is a prosperous business man. The young Mr. Hoffman is just entering his business career.

So when a proposition to make money was offered him yesterday he took the chance eagerly. It was at a film city, where he was overlooking the taking of pictures, sightseeing after his excursion along the Coast, where he visited the two expositions.

A stranger approached, became friendly, and engaged in entertaining conversation. A short time later, another stranger arrived, painfully prosperous. He displayed a great wad of bills, talked right vulgarly of his fast accumulating wealth, and remarked he was a sport, ready for any little game, at any old time, for any little old amount of money.

The new acquaintance called Mr. Hoffman aside.

"Here's our chance to nick this guy for some real cush," he said in the vernacular of his trade. "We'll get him into a game of matching dollars, and the odd man gets the money. So one of us will make a killing and then we'll meet and split, after pretending the thing was on the square."

Mr. Hoffman drew out a considerable roll of bills, and entered the game eagerly. Somehow his friend invariably won. At the close, both Mr. Hoffman and the sucker were out more than $100 each, and Mr. Hoffman gave a check for more.

They parted to meet downtown and split the profits. After a long wait, Mr. Hoffman called at the police station to report his troubles. He gave a detailed description of the confidence men.

SECOND FARMERS' SPECIAL.

Over a Hundred Representatives of Sixteen Different States Due Here Tomorrow to See Our Agriculture.

Representing sixteen different States from Rhode Island to Texas, 105 persons will arrive here at 1 o'clock tomorrow afternoon on the Santa Fe's second "farmers' special." The party will come here after spending a day each at San Bernardino, Riverside and San Diego. Today will be spent in an automobile trip from San Diego to Fullerton, by way of Orange and Anaheim.

After seeing the sights of this city and vicinity, the party will leave Sunday night by special train for Bakersfield. A number of stops in the more important agricultural districts of the San Joaquin Valley have been arranged. The party is traveling under the direction of C. L. Seagraves, general colonization agent of the Santa Fe, and R. M. Roberts, agriculture and farm advisor for California.

MOVEMENTS IN SOCIETY.

THE roseate pinks of a sunset's afterglow, together with the turquoise of the sky, were suggested in the beautiful decorative motif for the marriage which last night gave to Sayre Macneil one of the fairest brides of our Southland—Miss Daphne Drake, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Calhoun Drake of No. 2716 South Hoover street.

Rt. Rev. Joseph S. Glass, bishop of the Salt Lake diocese, read the nuptial service, assisted by Father Clement Malony, in the presence of an assemblage of nearly 300 relatives and intimate friends of the happy young couple, at the bride's home.

Arend's full orchestra, stationed in a bower of greenery at the end of the hall, announced, with the Lohengrin Wedding Chorus, the approach of the wedding party at 9 o'clock, the ushers, Messrs. Donald O'Melveny, Bruce Macneil, Marcus Marshall, Clinton K. Judy, Hugh Gordon, Maynard McFie, Douglas Brookman and Felix T. Smith—the last two of San Francisco—entering first from the upper hall and walking down the white carpeted path, aisled from the balustrade to the improvised altar in the blue drawing-room with high white standards holding gorgeous French bows of tourquoise satin looped in continuity and veined with silver iridescent gauze which seemed to catch the glints from the scintillating pyramidal electroliers of crystal. The groom and his best man, Stuart O'Melveny, awaited with the officiants at the sanctuary. The bridesmaids, Mrs. Charles Reginald Blyth of San Francisco (a bride of a few weeks and formerly Miss Marjorie Ramsay,) Mrs. George McDonald Wallace (nee Miss Juliet Bolleau, also a bride of the season,) Miss Mary Donohoe and Miss Ruth Winslow, two charming San Francisco society belles; Miss Louise Hunt, Miss Delight Shaffer, Miss Phila Miller of Pasadena, and Miss Louise Winston of Duarte, formed a stunning bridal party, being similarly attired in bouffant gowns of delicate pink silk and chiffon, trimmed in silver. They carried baskets of Cecile Brunner rosebuds tied in fetching bows of turquoise blue satin, hanging their floral showers on the crook standards as they walked, in pairs, to the enclosure where stood the attendants.

Then came Miss Helen Jones, the maid of honor, who looked very lovely in a filmy tulle frock the exact counterpart of the bridesmaids only that it differed in tone, being of turquoise. Her shower bouquet was of pink rosebuds. Immediately following came the bride, on the arm of her father, and looking ethereally beautiful in a creation of white tulle and silver brocade, made with court train over which fell the still longer tulle veil which was bordered in rich rose point applique—belonging to the bride's mother. Her flowers were of rare white orchids and lilies of the valley with maidenhair fronds. Dainty little Carrita Miller, youngest of the John Barnes Miller family, brought forth exclamations of pleasure as she came bearing the bride's train, being frocked in pink chiffon and adorable baby roses.

The imposing altar which had been erected in the great drawing-room was massed in pink and white blooms, rare duchess, rose point and other family laces which had been brought from the treasure chest to grace the auspicious event quite covering the structure, innumerable silver candelabra held burning wax tapers, which lent impressiveness.

The vows plighted, a reception was held during which time felicitations were showered upon the popular young couple. Supper was served in the marquee, the bride's table showing elaborate decorations in white tulle and lilies of the valley. In addition to the attendants, Miss Genevieve Cunningham of San Francisco, Dr. and Mrs. Bertnard Smith, Miss Katherine Ramsay, Mrs. Stuart O'Melveny, Gurney E. Newlin, Robert Trask and Mr. and Mrs. James Page were seated. At surrounding tables done in white chrysanthemums and white-shaded candelabra were grouped other guests. The lawn was canopied in canvas, set with palms and ferns, and throughout the evening the orchestra discoursed favorite airs.

Mrs. Hugh Livingston Macneil, mother of the groom, looked regal in an importation of American Beauty panne velvet, while her daughter, Mrs. Bertnard Smith, was a picture in gold brocade and gold lace. Mrs. Drake, the bride's mother, wore white satin, while Mrs. Randolph Huntington Miner wore a handsome rose velvet and Mrs. Mary Wilcox Longstreet was in black velvet.

Mr. Macneil and his bride have gone on an extended honeymoon, the destination of which is being kept secret. Upon their return, however, they are to live temporarily with the James Calhoun Drakes pending the completion of their own home on Fourth and Ardmore streets. They are to be at home after the first of the year.

Daphne Drake was born in Washington, D. C., though she has spent most of her life in Los Angeles, growing to sweet womanhood in the center of an admiring circle of friends and doting relatives. She was educated at a convent up north—Sacred Heart, in Menlo Park—and no social function has been complete without her since making her debut but a short time ago. The man she has chosen for her husband has legions of friends in the Southland, having been born in Los Angeles, and is a prominent member in all the select clubs—the Bachelors, Annandale, Los Angeles Country and the California clubs, in addition to Boston and San Francisco. He was graduated from Berkeley and the Harvard Law School. His mother, Mrs. Hugh Livingston MacNeil, is one of the leaders in society, the family having been long associated in the growth of the city, as are the parents of the bride.

Attracted by the Exposition.

Mr. and Mrs. Philip Forve of No. 427 Westlake avenue left last night for San Francisco to remain until Monday at the Jewel City. Mr. and Mrs. Stagmaier, a brother and sister, who were recently treasured guests in the Forve home, have returned to Wilkesbarre, Pa., after an extremely enjoyable visit in Los Angeles. The easterners were the recipients of much social attention while house guests of their kin.

For Saturday.

Mrs. Jones Simmons is giving a musical tea on the afternoon of Saturday at her studio in Blanchard Hall. The event is being pleasureably anticipated.

For a Bride-elect.

In compliment to two brides-elect, the Misses Ella Lee Harbert and Lorraine Holleman, Mrs. Joseph Kendall Williams of No. 900 Brand boulevard, Glendale, gave a pretty tea and handkerchief shower yesterday afternoon, those present including Miss Virginia Judge, Mrs. Fletcher Barker, Mrs. E. F. Nance, Mrs. Egbert F. Whiting, Mrs. Earl Cline, Miss Sadie Taylor, Miss Reon Herbert, Miss Lily Hill, Miss Ruth Savage, Miss Martha Savage, Miss Beaulah Offutt, Miss Fannie Mitchell, Miss Louise Royal, Miss Isabelle Douglas, Miss Mildred Eggbroad, Miss Clara Stephenson and Mrs. Richard Thompson Webb.

Stately chrysanthemums and other autumn blossoms lent their beauty to the scene. An elegant collation was served, and the showers were given in dainty flower baskets tied in tulle.

Miss Lucy Butler and Miss Mattie Butler of Kentucky, cousins of the hostess, shared honors.

Cards Out.

Mr. and Mrs. Manuel George Gonzales have issued invitations for the approaching marriage of their daughter, Stella Marguerite, and Jerome Thomas Connor, which is to be solemnized on Wednesday morning, the 17th inst., at 9 o'clock, at St. Vincent's Church, Washington and Grand avenue. A reception is to be given from 8 until 11 o'clock at the Ebell Clubhouse the evening of the nuptials.

Church Wedding.

Announcement is made of the marriage of Miss Lily Learmouth and James Watson in the Pico Heights Congregational Church. The bridal couple was attended by Miss Ina Learmouth and George Bramhall, while Miss Grace Holland presided at the organ. Rev. J. M. Schaefle performed the marriage service in the presence of many guests. Following the ceremony an elaborate banquet was served in the church parlors and the hearty congratulations were voiced by George Delavun, Jr., and others. The church was artistically decorated in white and green by Charles Loudensinger.

At the conclusion of a wedding journey Mr. and Mrs. Watson will reside in Ardmore avenue.

Hollister-Thomson.

On Tuesday, at the home of Mrs. Chester Perris, No. 1414 Ridgeway, was solemnized the marriage of Miss Emily Hollister, one of the State Normal School teachers, to Dr. David Thomson of Clifton, Ariz., the service being read at high noon.

The bride was daintily attired in white silk crepe, the gift of a sister in Japan, and carried pink roses. The rooms were adorned in ferns and cut flowers, the couple standing for the ceremony in front of a curtain of smilax. Covers were laid for seven at the luncheon which followed, those present numbering Dr. and Mrs. Thomson, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Gage, Miss Heffron and Rev. and Mrs. Ferris.

After a two weeks' stay in California the newlyweds will leave for their home in Arizona. The bride will be sadly missed from among her large circle of friends in this city.

En Route to New York.

Mrs. Ralph Deming left last night for New York City, called on business.

Popular Society Girl a Bride.

Miss Sueadele Miles, lovely daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Harvey Miles of No. 43 Westmoreland place, and one of the most popular girls in society, last night at the hour of 8:20 o'clock became the bride of Edgar Shelton Dulin at one of the prettiest weddings of the year. The American Beauty motif was carried out in the handsome appointments, the fireplace in the spacious drawing-room of the parental home being banked in long-stemmed American Beauty roses, palms and greenery, for an effective background, where stood the bridal party while the vows were plighted. Rev. George Davidson of St. Johns read the service.

The bride's sister, Miss Edna Miles, was her only attendant, wearing a handsome evening gown of American Beauty shaded tulle and carrying an immense arm bouquet of American Beauty roses. Garretson Dulin attended his brother as best man.

Most attractive was the charming bride in her rich wedding dress of ivory satin and flesh-colored tulle, embroidered exquisitely in silver. The long court veil of tulle, which fell in filmy folds, enveloping her girlish figure, was caught in the coiffure with a coronet of orange blossoms, and she carried a shower of white orchids, lilies of the valley and maidenhair.

An elaborate supper was served the guests, numbering over 100 intimate friends and kinsfolk. The bride's table was laid in the attractive rose-colored reception-room and adorned in snowy white flowers. From the central chandeliers were festoons of the white blossoms, and seated with Mr. Dulin and his bride were their attendants, Miss Miles and Mr. Dulin, together with Miss Mary Forve, Miss Dorothy Jackins, Miss Elizabeth Brant, Miss Mildred Strong and Messrs. Kenneth Dulin, Chester Banastelle, Overton Walsh and Robert Patton.

The other tables surrounding the bride's were done in pink roses and lilies of the valley.

Mrs. Miles received in a splendid gown of white velvet trimmed in sable.

The young couple left on a three weeks' honeymoon trip, and upon their return are to reside in Pasadena, at No. 629 Grand avenue.

The man who has won so fair a bride is the son of Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Dulin of No. 181 South Commonwealth avenue, and is prominent in business and social circles.

To Former Society Girl.

Mrs. Neal Dodd, who is the guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles B. Weaver of Edgemont drive, Hollywood, will be guest of honor at a card party tomorrow afternoon, given by Mrs. Myrtle Sheridan at the home of her mother, Mrs. W. S. Badger, No. 1835 North Kenmore avenue.

Mrs. Dodd will be remembered as Miss Lila Weaver, whose wedding was an event of April.

Dinner Guests.

Mrs. Frank E. Wilbur of Boston entertained a party at dinner Friday evening at the Beverly Hills Hotel. The table was artistically decorated with large yellow chrysanthemums and ten covers were laid. Among those who were present were Miss Constance Currie of London, Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Taussig of St. Louis, Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Mines, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Cook, Mrs. Hitchcock, Mrs. Wilbur and Dan Blair.

In Canada.

W. W. Carruthers of Los Angeles arrived in Winnipeg the end of last week and is a guest at Fort Garry.

UNDELIVERED TELEGRAMS.

There are telegrams at the Western Union office for Mrs. Jack Auble, J. Barry, William Vithorn, Hazel M. Childers, J. S. Culbertson, Miss Estella Dutton, Charles F. Gilroy, John Hagne, C. C. Healey, H. M. Howe, Mrs. E. Johnston, George H. Maxwell, Antonio Sandoval, Carl R. Suksdorf, Ida Tencate and Charles E. Wallis. At the Postal, I. S. Browne, J. H. Miller, Mrs. W. P. Tartt, William S. BIG TREAT IS ANTICIPATED.

Theatergoers Look Forward to "On Trial."

"Pair of Sixes" is Coming Soon to Majestic.

Week's Features Alluring at Playhouses.

"On Trial," whose presentation at the Mason is eagerly awaited by the city's theatergoers, will be given for the first time in this city on November 22. The Elmer Reisenstein play has been a feature in New York during the past two seasons.

The drama has a novel setting. It occurs in a courtroom where a man is on trial for murder. As the leading witnesses appear and begin their testimony the lights are lowered, the scene shifts, and the various incidents described by the witnesses are enacted.

As the trial goes forward the events described carry the audience backward in time, yet in this curious counteraction the interest is always cumulative, and the play is one of dramatic human interest.

Majestic.

The Majestic is to reopen as the home of legitimate drama December 5, when one of the most amusing farces ever written, "A Pair of Sixes," will be put on by the Chicago cast.

Burbank.

"Nearly Married" at the Burbank is breaking all attendance records of that house for some months. The pleasing comedy has a human element which is lacking in many of the farces of the day, hence its popularity. Frances Ring, Edmund Lowe, Ida St. Leon, Grace Travers and the others in the cast are making big hits.

Orpheum.

Three headliners is the paradoxical announcement for next week's Orpheum bill.

They are Nellie V. Nichols, whose "nationality is the great question; Harry Beresford and company in "Twenty Odd Years," and an excellent group of players in Paul Armstrong's last playlet, "The Bank's Half Million."

Also, there are Walter C. Kelly and Pat Rooney and Marion Bent; Galetti's baboons, Mignonette Kokin in songs, dances and imitations, and Garcinetti brothers, in trampoline work with a dog.

Empress.

The Empress Theater will reopen Sunday next with a "Made in Los Angeles" revue, described as a tabloid, brimful of humor, jingly tunes, pretty girls and striking scenery.

Pantages.

Olinto Lambardi and a sextette of the Lambardi singers headline the new Pantages bill to open Monday.

Others on the bill will be Duffy Lewis in a baseball monologue; Charley Case, with his stories about father; the Bottomley troupe in acrobatic numbers; Santucci, the wizard of the accordion; La Toy's dogs, Howard and White in "Billy's Awakening," and "Neal of the Navy" pictures.

Hippodrome.

Hassan Ben Ali's Arabs, in a thrilling acrobatic turn, head the new bill at the Hip opening next Monday.

Others will be a whole bevy of "perfect women," known as the vine models; Ester King, vocalist; Baker and Janis, with violin and accordeon; Mr. and Mrs. Ashley Cooper and company in "The Newsboys' Debt," Alf Ripon, the Scotch ventriloquist, and the Orpheus comedy four in musical numbers.

Republic.

The big range of interest in the programme this week at the Republic Theater is responsible for the audiences crowding the house at every performance. There is not a dull moment from the first flicker of "When a Woman Loves," the unconventional photoplay that features celebrated Emmy Whelen, to the stunts of Orbassany's trained cockatoos. The gymnastic feats of Emiletta brothers and Mora, the Imperial quartette, and charming Alice Arling all contribute added enjoyment.

Next week the joint headliners will be Martin and Valerio, a song and dance team, and the Ambler trio, expert equilibrists. Both of these acts come direct from the Empress Theater, San Francisco. The feature photoplay will be "Trilby," with Wilton Lackey and Clara Kimball Young.

"Mission Play."

Three hundred Riversiders attended a performance of the "Mission Play" in a body one night this week. They left home at 6 o'clock in the evening in order to reach San Gabriel in time for the play, knowing they could not be returned to Riverside again until 2 o'clock next morning. Only three weeks remain before the "Mission Play" closes.

Tally's Broadway.

Geraldine Farrar's phenomenal three week's run in "Carmen" will close Sunday night. The great diva has proved her right to be called also a great film star. The music is a notable feature of the entertainment.

Next week the attraction will be Mary Pickford in "Madame Butterfly," for which reserved seats are already on sale.

Clune's Auditorium.

The Triangle feature films, showing three celebrated stars in as many different photoplays, are making a sensational hit at Clune's Auditorium.

Raymond Hitchcock in "My Valet" keeps the house amused; Dustin Farnum appears excellently cast in "The Iron Strain," a strong drama of the West; and Douglas Fairbanks, the noted comedian, in "The Lamb" is one of the film hits of the year.

Next week's Triangle programme features Eddie Foy and all the little Foys, for the first time on the screen, in "A Favorite Fool." Frank Keenan will be see in "The Coward," and Dorothy Gish in "Old Heidelburg."

Clune's Broadway.

"The Frame-Up" is the photoplay which is pleasing at Clune's Broadway this week, with Maude George in the role of the woman who for five years has been the mistress of a political boss.

There are some interesting authorized French war pictures, a mile-a-minute farce and other features to fill out the programme.

Clune's Broadway will return to two shows a week next Monday, and thereafter there will be a change of programme on Mondays and Thursdays. Charlie Chaplin, Naomi Childers and Antonio Moreno will be featured on the first bill, and Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Drew, Blanche Sweet, Henry B. Walthall and others the latter part of the week.

Garrick.

"The Heart of the Blue Ridge," with beautiful Clara Kimball Young in the leading role, is proving a drawing card of unusual interest this week at the Garrick Theater. The talented star, as Plutina, a half-wild girl of the southern mountains, shows that she has true emotional acting ability, while the supporting cast is good.

Next week the Garrick will have an unusual double feature bill composed of Charlie Chaplin in his latest first run Essanay comedy, "A Night in the Show," and Robert Warwick, the popular star, in "The Flash of an Emerald," a story of a crook of the "Raffles" type.

Palace of Pictures.

"The Chalice of Courage," the Cyrus Townsend Brady masterpiece, which on account of its popularity was held over from last week, is duplicating its success this week at the Palace of Pictures. The strong plot, sincere acting and beautiful scenery all combine to make an unusual film production.

Next week the popular Broadway playhouse will feature "The Sins of the Mothers," the V-L-S-E photoplay, which in a contest with thirty-five other entrants won the $1000 prize offered by the New York Sun in its recent scenario contest. The prize-winning story deals with a young girl's inherited curse for gambling and features beautiful Anita Stewart and Earle Williams.

Woodley.

"Still Waters," starring dainty Marguerite Clark, is the delightful attraction at the Woodley this week. Miss Clark is adding to her already long list of admirers, a host of others, and also is winning fresh laurels as a photoplayer by her wonderful emotional work in the role of Nesta. The cast supporting Miss Clark is an exceptionally strong one.

Next week the celebrated stage star, Charles Cherry, will make his first appearance on the screen in "The Mummy and the Humming Bird," an elaborate picturization of Isaac Henderson's dramatic success.

Alhambra.

"Sin," with Theda Bara, is the absorbing film play now showing at the Alhambra, which theater is again a factor in the feature photoplay field, under management of the owners of Miller's Theater. The story of "Sin" is a striking one and the main role affords Miss Bara plenty of chances to display her mysterious charm and fascination. Bill Shay and the other brilliant players share honors with the star.

A new and funny cartoon comedy and the Pathe Weekly News Pictorial complete the programme.

Dot Bernard in a picture play based upon "The Little Minister," entitled "The Little Gypsy," is announced for next week.

Miller's.

Robert B. Mantell and Genevieve Hamper, together with Stuart Holmes, Claire Whitney and the balance of the big Fox cast, continue to please Miller's patrons in the modern society drama, "The Blindness of Devotion." It is a story of modern life and gives Mr. Mantell a good chance to display his rare dramatic ability. The added feature is another of the Wallingford comedies.

Nance O'Neil in a film drama, "A Woman's Past," is to be next week's offering, and the role is one that is said to afford her an opportunity to rise to heights of emotional artistry.

Quinn's Superba.

The film version of Owen Davis's sensationally successful play, "The Family Cupboard," which ran for more than 600 nights in New York, is being shown at Quinn's Superba Theater this week to crowded houses.

The story of the play, dealing with a self-made and wealthy man whose family are so busy spending his money that they have no time to spend with him, is rather out of the ordinary, while the skeleton which the opening of the cupboard doors discloses, is an exceptionally interesting one. A splendid cast, headed by Holbrook Blinn, carries the action along at high speed.

A Pathe comedy, "Giving Them Fits" and the World's News in Pictures are being shown.

WHEN THE KING IS ILL.

Peculiar Provisions of British Law Regarding the Administration of Medicine to Royal Patient.

[London Tit Bits:] The British law retains some peculiar provisions with reference to the "illness of the King." These provisions are mere survivals in the present settled order of government, but there was a time when the King's incapacity afforded opportunity to aspirants to the throne to shorten his days at a minimum of risk of deection. Accordingly, certain wise precautions were matters of law.

In his "Institutes" Coke says: "If the King be taken sick there ought to be a warrant issue from the Privy Council, addressed to certain physicians and surgeons, authorizing them to administer to the royal patient potiones, syrupos, laxitaves, medicines, etc.; still, none of these should be given except by consent and advice of the Council, and they ought to set down in writing everything done and administered, and they should compound all drugs themselves and not entrust their preparation to any apothecary."

Coke thus wrote of precedent in the year 1610, and today the law is practically as he found it, although now the Privy Council simply hears reports of the progress of the King's malady, and leaves actual treatment entirely to the physicians in direct charge of the case.

Temperament.

[Kansas City Times:] A good many persons treat their temperament as if it were a wart or a tumor over which they had no control. "I simply can't do that," a man will say; "I guess it's a matter of temperament." Or a man who is a "welcher on the trail"—who takes a wife as a "pardner" and then quits her on the trail—excuses himself on the score of temperament.

There is temperament, of course. And it is a good thing. It is chiefly that which keeps us from all being alike. Life would be dreadfully equable and boresome if it were not for temperament. But to mistake "cold feet" for temperament; or to let the real thing in the way of temperament master you instead of being mastered by you—that's bad. It's worse than bad, it's stupid.

TAKES PLANT TO MATERIAL.

Company with Chain of Brick Factories Will Locate One Near Elsinore—Other News.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

RIVERSIDE, Nov. 10.—That the Los Angeles Pressed Brick Company is planning to erect a big plant at Alberhill, was revealed today, when Attorney Hugh H. Craig, representing the company, asked for certain rights of way and easements from the Board of Supervisors. The site of the proposed plant for the manufacture of pressed brick, tile and vitrified pipe, lies about five miles from Elsinore.

The company operates a plant in Los Angeles, covering eleven acres of land, and also has large plants at Santa Monica and Richmond.

The company is proceeding on the basis that it would be more economical to bring the factory to the raw material than to move the clay to the factory, and will accordingly make the Alberhill plant one of the largest of its chain.

BIG ROAD CONTRACT.

The contract for the improvement of twenty-four miles of desert highway was let by the Board of Supervisors today to the B. R. Davisson Construction Company at its bid of $68,296. Of this highway, eleven miles, extending westerly of Indio, will be of concrete. Only thirteen miles of desert highway remains to be let, the section lying between Indio and Mecca.

DAMAGES ASKED.

A demand for $10,800 damages has been filed with the Board of Public Utilities by W. D. Erdice, for injuries alleged to have been received by his daughter, Bertha Erdice, through contact with one of the city's electric wires.

SHOOTS SELF.

A middle-aged man, believed from letters found in his clothing to be Charles Lombard, shot himself through the head early last night in the rear of the Arizona bar at Seventh and Main streets. Before medical attention could be called he died. The body was taken to the Pierce Bros. morgue. A note was found in the man's clothing in which he said that he had been in ill health and unable to find work. It was also stated in the letter that he was a member of the Foresters lodge.

SWALLOWS ANT PASTE.

Pouring himself out a drink of water in what he thought was an empty glass, early last night, Elmer Horton of No. 782 Ceres avenue swallowed a large amount of ant paste and at once rushed to the Receiving Hospital for treatment. According to Dr. Hart, who treated him, he will recover. Horton declared that he swallowed the mixture by mistake.

Censor was on the Job.

[Washington Star:] While Abdul Hamid was still upon the throne of Turkey the president of the American Missionary College at Tarsus sent to New York for a large consignment of text books. In due time all except the chemistries came safely. At first the president could not find out what was the matter, but finally the commissioner of the port sent for him.

"It is not for you to complain," said that officer, "but it is for you to give thanks to Allah that you did not follow your diabolical books into the flames. Here is one copy that we saved for a witness. Not all of its deadly ciphers could we read, but this is plain even to the eye of a babe." Pointing to the symbol, H2O, he read, with triumphant air and voice, "Hamid II is nothing!"

France's Stock of Gold.

[Washington Star:] The Bank of France holds in her vaults the largest reserve of gold ever held at one time by any bank in the world. It amounts to over one billion dollars, exclusive of the one hundred million dollars in gold which was exported recently.

COACH JIMMY SCHAEFFER THROWS UP HIS JOB.

Through.

BERKELEY HEAD COACH RESIGNS.

Jimmy Schaeffer Hands in His Resignation.

Unanimously Accepted by Committee.

To Take Charge of Football this Season.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

BERKELEY, Nov. 10.—Head Coach Schaeffer, for seven years coach of the University of California football and baseball teams, tonight tendered his resignation to the executive committee of the student body. The resignation was unanimously accepted. Schaeffer will have charge of the football team until the end of the season, but will not handle the baseball team this year.

His resignation takes effect immediately. No plans have been made for another coach. Schaeffer's resignation is as follows:

RESIGNS.

To the Executive Committee of the Associated Students, University of California. Dear Sirs:

The University of California has honored me by making me for several years head coach of football and baseball.

I am now under contract to coach football and baseball until May, 1917. It has always been my earnest desire to serve the University to the best of my ability.

It may be, however, that now some one else is better qualified to teach the revised American game. I want to have the executive committee feel free to choose whomever they wish to carry on this work. Therefore, I beg to ask that you would consider this letter as my resignation which is to take effect immediately.

With many thanks for your repeated kindnesses and with very best wishes for every future success,

Very respectfully,

[Signed] JAMES GARFIELD SCHAFFER.

ACCEPTED.

The executive committee issued the following letter to Schaeffer, after voting to accept his resignation. Dear Sir:

Your resignation as football and baseball coach has been duly received. There is no course open to us other than to accede to your wishes and to accept the same to take effect at the close of the present season.

For several years you have served the University of California loyally and well. In football, your teams have won three games, lost three games and tied one. In baseball, you have been successful in four out of five seasons. During the past season you have faced an impossible task in seeking to develop a victorious team from inexperienced material. That you have failed is no fault of your own.

Your services are deserving of the gratitude of every Californian past as well as present, and the executive Committee takes this opportunity of expressing to you the sincere thanks of the associated students.

[Signed] J. J. VANDENBURGH, Secretary A.S.U.C.

Schaeffer's resignation will come as a surprise to most of the student body, although it has been anticipated by those who were in close touch with athletic affairs. The resignation comes as a direct result of the Washington-California game, in which California was defeated by a score of 72-0.

The coach has been severely criticised by the local press and by alumni. San Francisco sporting writers have been extremely caustic and have added to such discontent as has been felt on the campus. Under the circumstances Schaeffer had but this one course open to him, as to attempt to coach a team in the face of alumni and newspaper criticism would have been an impossibility.

Schaeffer began his career at California in 1905, when he played on the first rugby team put out by the Bears. He played halfback on the team of 1906 and 1907, left college to return in 1908 as an assistant coach. 1909, he was sent to Australia to study rugby and in the fall of 1909 turned out a winning team. Since that time he has turned out three winning teams, three losing and one tied. All of these games were played with Stanford. The last four years have brought three defeats and one tie game.

In his freshman year, Schaeffer caught on the varsity baseball team and played on the two following varsities of 1906 and 1907. In addition to his work as football coach, Schaeffer has coached the baseball teams. His record in baseball has been better. Of the seven series played since he began coaching, six have been victories.

Schaeffer had little to say when seen tonight. He referred reporters to the executive committee and to his letter which was filed in the minutes. However, he did make this statement: "I expect to see California defeat U.S.C. on Thanksgiving. If the team can do this, I will sever my connection with the University of California with a feeling of satisfaction."

YOUNG HORSE MAKES MARK.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

LEXINGTON (Ky.) Nov. 10.—A world's record for a yearling trotting filly was made here at a meeting of the Kentucky Trotting Horse Breeders' Association when a yearling bay filly by Prince Amsed-Illa Moko trotted a mile in 2:17¼. She is owned by the Woodland Stock Farm of Woodland, Cal.

The former record was held by Miss Stokes, when she trotted the mile over the same track as a yearling in 2:19¼.

MINOR LEAGUES ADJOURN AGAIN.

SALARIES MAY BE REDUCED TOMORROW.

Committees are Appointed and Tip O'Neill is Succeeded by W. A. Rourke for Western League—Cutting Expenses Best Way to Save Baseball, is Opinion of Farrell.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 10.—A decision in the matter of salary reductions, the subject that occupied most of today's session of the National Association of Professional Baseball Leagues, may be settled on Friday, until which date the convention adjourned. In the interim, according to instructions approved by the convention, each classification will hold separate meetings and prepare for Friday's session an outline of their ideas on the salary question.

The Committee on Credentials seated W. A. Rourke of Omaha as the representative of the Western League. This is the first time in eleven years, it was pointed out, that N. L. (Tippy) O'Neill has not filled that position.

O'Neill was president of the league, but its members voted him out in September. O'Neill, they said, claimed to have a contract by which he retained the presidency until December 16.

The following committee appointments were made:

Credentials—N. P. Courish, Savannah, Ga.; Walter Morris, Fort Worth, Tex.; J. T. Hayes, Davenport, Iowa.

Resolutions—Frank Leavitt, Oakland; Clyde Shropshire, Nashville, Tenn.; E. G. Barrows, New York.

Auditing—R. H. Baugh, Birmingham, Ala.; R. L. Blewett, Seattle, Wash.; A. T. Timme, Milwaukee.

Revision constitution—A. T. Baum, San Francisco; T. H. Murnana, Boston; T. M. Chivington, Chicago; N. L. (Tippy) O'Neill, Chicago; M. H. Sexton, Rock Island, Ill.

Charles Ebbetts, president of the Brooklyn Nationals, according to J. H. Farrell, secretary of the association, who issued an official report of the meeting, advised the minor league men not to establish a standard salary limit for all leagues.

"Baseball can be saved only by sensible regulation of salaries," Farrell said. "It would be foolhardy for this convention to attempt to fix a general salary limit for all leagues. Each league should set its own figure to which all clubs should adhere rigidly."

Among other questions there were discussed at the meeting a proposal to establish for each league uniform training dates, player limits during the playing season, maximum salaries and a limit on the number of players held in reserve during the winter.

The election of officers set for today was deferred. It probably will be held tonight or tomorrow.

FIELD GOALS MADE IN YALE PRACTICE.

GUERNSEY WILL PLAY FULL AGAINST PRINCETON SATURDAY.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW HAVEN (Ct.) Nov. 10—Two field goals from the 45-yard line by Otis Guernsey were features of the practice of the Yale football team in its first scrimmage of the week, today. Guernsey has been out of the game for several weeks on account of injuries but will play fullback against Princeton on Saturday in place of Scovil, who has a broken thumb. Two years ago Guernsey scored field goals against both Princeton and Harvard and his presence in the line-up is encouraging to Eli supporters.

MICHIGAN LEAVES FOR BIG GAME.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

ANN ARBOR (Mich.) Nov. 10.—The Michigan football squad left tonight for its game with Pennsylvania on Saturday. The exact line-up of the team was uncertain.

OAKS PULL OFF BIG DEAL.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SAN FRANCISCO BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Nov. 10.—By far the biggest baseball deal pulled off since the minor leagues assembled was consummated by the Oakland club today when four men who have been for some years with the Milwaukee American Association team were purchased with the privilege of return if the players are not satisfactory.

Oakland has thus purchased upon the recommendation of Manager Rowdy Elliott, together with the guarantee of President T. M. Chivington of the American Association, the following men: Joseph Berg, infielder and shortstop; Thomas Dougherty, pitcher; Jap Barbeau, third baseman, and Newton J. Randall, outfielder.

This year's records are not available, although it is reported that Randall hit the pill over the .300 mark with Barbeau smashing away at a .293 clip.

Berg, still another infielder, who may be expected to fill in at the short field, was down to the .244 mark.

From a standpoint of games won and lost, Dougherty made a rattling good showing, annexing fourteen and losing but four. He was rather low from a standpoint of runs charged against him.

She's There.

MRS. BUNDY PLEASES NORTH.

PLAYS AN EXHIBITION MATCH WITH SISTER.

Norwegian Star is Improving with Each Practice—Takes Florence Sutton into Camp without any Trouble—Mrs. Wightman Keeping in Best of Condition.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SAN FRANCISCO BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Nov. 10.—Visitors to the California Tennis Club today were given a treat in seeing Mrs. May Sutton Bundy, the tennis queen, in practice in preparation of the opening of the round-robin tournament tomorrow, in which she will compete against Mrs. Wightman and Miss Bjurstedt, rated along with the former Miss May Sutton as the greatest woman players in the country.

Together with her sister, Miss Florence Sutton, herself a player of prominence, Mrs. Bundy engaged in a practice singles match, and displayed much of the skill and grace that won for her the title of the best woman tennis player in the world. Later on she played against Clarence Griffin and made a creditable showing. Mrs. Bundy seems to have lost none of her ability due to her long layoff, and promises to give her rivals a keen contest.

Miss Bjurstedt was also seen in practice. She played against Miss Florence Sutton and annexed a good lead. The Norwegian star is showing improved form right along. Mrs. Wightman has been keeping in condition and is ready for the play to commence.

The round-robin tournament arranged by the Pacific States Association will open Friday at the California Club courts, and will continue on Saturday and Sunday.

The contestants who will take part are the three acknowledged leaders of the world in women's tennis. Mrs. May Sutton Bundy twice held the world's championship, Mrs. Hazel Hotchkiss Wightman was three times national champion of America, and Molla Bjurstedt is the present American national champion.

TENNIS PLAYERS PEEVED AT EXPOSITION RULING.

THE atmosphere about the Exposition Park tennis courts is surcharged with electricity and the players may be seen gathered in little groups conversing earnestly and shaking clenched fists.

The reason for their indignation is explained by the fact that the Park Commissioners have seen fit to replace the "winner system" of holding the courts by the "hour system."

OLD SYSTEM

Under the winner system the winner of the match held the court and met the next comer. Should a person win two times in succession the rules caused him to give up the court.

This method of play enabled a number of people to use the courts in a single hour. Under the odious "hour system" four people must take the court and play one full hour without any change whatever in the personnel of the contestants.

PEEVED.

When the rule went into effect last week the players considered themselves imposed upon and persisted in using the winner system when the playground instructor was not around. Last Sunday, while several hundred were waiting to play, the aforesaid "instructor" calmly walked into the middle of things and removed the nets.

The players were powerless to do anything at the time, but immediately got together for action. Petitions were circulated for both the systems of holding the courts. Not a single signature graced the "hour system" sheet while everyone signed in favor of the previous order of things.

SHOULD KNOW.

Such racquet wielders as Eugene Warren, the Reinke boys, Archie Snodgrass and Frank Donley play regularly on the Exposition Park grounds and they are qualified to know what they are talking about.

The next step advocated is to take the matter before the City Council, since the Park Commissioners do not seem to be inclined to ameliorate matters.

Donley is now playing at a tournament in San Francisco and when he comes back it is thought that concerted action will be taken.

BILLIARD PLAY BEGINS MONDAY.

The billiard argument of the L.A.A.C. and the Sierra Madre Club begins next Monday evening. The players of the mountain town have challenged the L.A.A.C.'s possession of the handsome championship trophy.

NORTHERN TRIP IS POSTPONED.

The trip of the L.A.A.C. polo team into the northern part of the State has been postponed until March, according to Big Chief Vance Veith.

Who is it?

Anybody who can guess correctly will be presented with two box seats for the next fight at Tawm McCarey's Vernon Arena. It is no other than our old friend, Lord McHugh, who is now breaking into the movies. He played this part in "Penitentes," recently put on by the Fine Arts Film Company.

Pinagers.

TIGERS CRASH THROUGH LINE.

Wallop the Clubmen by Big Score.

Shorty Smith Features the Battle.

Elmore and Kaiser Star for L.A.A.C.

Ole Beefy Heath of Pomona hung over the fence while Pipal's Tigers were handing a 34-to-0 beating to the L.A.A.C. and Beefy never cracked a smile.

Occidental rammed and rushed all through and over the big club team and at the end of the game it was the heavy blue aggregation that was pounded to pieces while the Tigers were apparently ready to play a few more halves.

INTERFERENCE.

Pipal's back-field men had solved the problem of running interference and McClung and Brandstetner were dropping would be tacklers all over the field by long sure dives.

Shorty Smith was the driving demon of the game. He tore off several long runs of forty yards and crashed through the heavy club line for regular gains.

The game was scheduled for 2:30 and the clubmen were all on the job as was the crowd, but it was more than an hour later before the whistle was tooted and the game began.

VERY LATE.

The affair dragged on into the dark watches of the night, and was finally called somewhere in the region of quarter after five.

The feature of the game, if there was any feature to such a lop-sided affair, was the work of the Occidental line. It held better than in the Whittier game, and the plunges of Sid Neighbors and Williams resulted on losses rather than gains.

Shipke, Holmes, Hollinger and Deems were all slamming through the club line at will and picking off the club runners behind the line. The Occidental ends showed considerably improved form.

The play was devoid of anything new. The Tigers used the same old plays except that they executed them a good deal better. The Rugby pass worked better and so did the forward pass.

LINE BUCKING.

The plunging of the Tiger back field, however, was surprising. Rarely did the Occidental men attempt to circle the club ends. Bucks between tackle and guard were used almost exclusively and invariably worked for consistent gains.

McClung, Brandstetner, Smith, Bats and Lenz all ploughed through the clubmen regularly.

For the clubmen Williams played his usual consistent game at full-back. His defensive work was quite a feature, but his bucking was not up to standard, due to some high-class work by the Oxy line.

THE RECRUIT.

Elmore, the recruit from the U.S.C. ranks, played a startling game at half. He punted with marked success, intercepted a forward pass and made a long run and showed considerable defensive ability. He made a specialty of smearing forward passes.

Kaiser at left half was a real sensation. He was rather badly battered after a head-on collision with Sam McClung and finally had to be taken out of the game, but while on the job displayed ability.

With Tuttle missing from the club line-up, they did not put up quite the offensive game of which they are capable although the team was noticeably strengthened in several other positions and Elmore, Kaiser and Lund all played very well at half.

IMPROVED.

The Tigers looked like a real team for once. They gave their plays away—that was their chief fault. Sid Neighbors stood up during the last half of the game and almost invariably was able to call the play before the quarter had finished calling signals. Somebody in the Tiger back field was giving the plays away.

Straight football was the order of the day and the sensational stuff all came in the running back of punts. Smith and McClung both ran them in well.

McClung and Elmore both tried drop kicks from the 45-yard line. McClung's was perfectly straight, but went too high and fell just short while Elmore's, from a bad angle, went far enough but was just a trifle wild.

LOOKS GOOD.

The Occidental Varsity looked capable of giving Pomona a fine run for her money November 20. The men showed a good deal more pep and fire than in the Whittier game and the teamwork was noticeably improved.

Reports from the lair of the Huns are to the effect that Stanton's gang will be considerably stronger than the early games showed. The line, according to the L.A.A.C. players, is the best in the south. The ends are weak and the back field has heretofore been regarded as rather a failure, but manifestly has picked up of late.

The Hun backs did what no other team in the south has been able to do and that was to buck the Sherman line successfully. Nesbit, Green and Jesson are all heavy and of the slamming type, and will cause trouble.

The Pomona defense is said to be remarkable. The Tiger defense was shown to be very strong in the Whittier game. Nobody as yet has crossed the Tiger goal line. The game will be one featured by fine defense.

MICHIGAN NOT TO COME TO COAST.

STUDENT COUNCIL TURNS DEAF EAR ON INVITATION FROM PASADENA.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

ANN ARBOR (Mich.) Nov. 10.—The student council of the University of Michigan has declined an invitation from the Los Angeles alumni for the varsity to play a game of football with the University of California on New Year's Day.

The reasons given today were that such a game would not be official or under college supervision.

HUN VICTORIES ARE UNBROKEN.

WHITTIER FINDS SAGEHENS UNBEATABLE.

Lose Eight Times in Row to Pomona Team—Lack of Substitutes Chief Reason—Wilson may Break Jinx this Year and Down Stanton's Machine.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

CLAREMONT, Nov. 10.—Pomona and Whittier meet Saturday for the ninth time since intercollegiate relations were established between the two institutions, and football became a recognized varsity sport. The Quakers first played the Huns in 1907, and every season since that time has seen a football contest staged between the two schools.

So far, however, the Quakers have never been able to trail the Pomona colors in the dust, for the Huns have always come through with a victory over the Whittierites.

HUN VICTORIES.

From the very start, though, the Quakers have given the Sage Hens all the competition they have desired, and the Whittier-Pomona game is always looked forward to as one of the biggest games of the season. Following are the scores of the games played previously between the two colleges:

1907—Pomona, 37; Whittier, 0.
1908—Pomona, 16; Whittier, 6.
1909—Pomona, 6; Whittier, 5.
1910—Pomona, 6; Whittier, 0.
1911—Pomona, 44; Whittier, 0.
1912—Pomona, 16; Whittier, 6.
1913—Pomona, 20; Whittier, 6.
1914—Pomona, 13; Whittier, 7.

Almost every year the Quakers invade Claremont with all the odds favoring them, and with most of those who are supposed to know picking them as winners. Nevertheless, the Huns seem to be their Nemesis, and always manage to scrape over a victory by a small margin.

SUBS.

What the Quakers have always needed in the past has been a strong string of substitutes. As long as the first-string men are able to stay in the game the Poets have always proven to be a wonderful football machine. It is only when one or two of their stars are laid up that the Quaker machine goes to pieces. The Huns have proven fortunate in the past in picking the Whittier varsity just after another hard game, when it is in the midst of a slump, and this, as much as anything else, accounts for the unbroken string of victories the Sage Hens have hung up.

This year the Quakers seem to be better than ever. For the first time since he has been at the college, Coach Wilson has plenty of substitutes to fall back upon in case of injury to his stars. The Huns themselves are wondering whether Whittier will be able to overcome the jinx, and finally manage to hang up a victory over them.

CRITICAL.

Coach Stanton is determined that this record of past victories shall remain unbroken. He has prepared for this game just like it was to be the only big game of the season, and has really paid more attention to the Whittier plays and formations than to those of Occidental. The coach has told his men that this game will be more trying than the Occidental game itself, and that nothing but their best efforts will serve to return Pomona a winner again for another year.

ONLY TWO RACES ARE PULLED OFF.

SLOPPY CONDITION OF TRACK CAUSES WITHDRAWAL OF SEVERAL.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 10.—Only two races were run at today's harness meet at the Panama-Pacific Exposition grounds. Because of the sloppy condition of the track many of the horsemen withdrew their entries. George N. Patterson won the Stanford stakes and Mirthful the 2:16 trot, both in straight heats.

RESULTS.

First race: Stanford stakes, three-year-old trotters, purse $1200:

George N. Patterson (Rutherford)	1	1	1
Carl (Durfee)	2	2	2

Time—2:20¼, 2:21½, 2:22¼.

Second race: 2:16 trot, purse $2000:

Mirthful (Murphy)	1	1	1
Seneca Boy (Dean)	2	2	2
Ben Crumpe (Ward)	4	3	3
Columbia T. (Daniels)	3	4	4
Malawan (Schwartz)			Default

Time—2:20, 2:20, 2:24.

POWERS HEARS NO TALK.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SAN FRANCISCO BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Nov. 10.—According to Johnny Powers, he has heard of no plan to work against Baum as president of the Coast League. Of course, this couldn't be done legally since the executive has a contract that runs for another year. There is a strong tip out, however, that those who are presumably unfriendly to Baum may attempt to work against him by voting a reduction in his salary and practically forcing him to quit his berth. Whether any such action will really be taken remains to be seen.

Powers Talks Over Managers and Says Cap Might be Back on Job. Former White Sox After too Much. Chance Never Intimated He Would Take Job.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SAN FRANCISCO BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Nov. 10.—Johnny Powers, who controls two-thirds of the stock of the Los Angeles club and is here chiefly to attend the Pacific Coast League meeting the last of the week, says that no definite action has been taken with reference to a manager for the Angel club.

"As affairs stand now," he said, "Dillon has just as much of a chance to manage the club as any other man. Jimmy Callahan of Chicago wanted to come to the Coast, but he was not satisfied to manage the team, wanting a half interest. Not one share of my stock is for sale and that put Callahan out of the running. As regards the talk that Barney Oldfield would buy into the club and have Frank Chance as manager, I have no information. As regards Chance, I would consider him an acquisition to the league and if he would manage the Los Angeles club, it ought to be a strong boost. But Chance has never intimated to me that he would be willing to take the club and manage the players."

ARIZONA LAW BRAINS PONDER.

PARI-MUTUEL MACHINE HAS THEM LOOKING UP STATUTES.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

PHOENIX, Nov. 10.—At a late hour tonight no further step had been taken in the matter of the legality of the pari-mutuel machine. Warrants have not yet been issued for Judge McCall for operating a machine on the race track yesterday. State and county legal advisers have been in session and have been visited by representatives of religious organizations, but they are inclined to the belief that operation of the machines is not in violation of the law, which does not prohibit horse racing or betting on racing.

ARMY AND NAVY TICKETS ARE OUT.

NO USE TO MAKE APPLICATION FOR SEATS AT ANNUAL FOOTBALL GAME.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WEST POINT (N. Y.) Nov. 10.—Every ticket of the army's allotment for the army and navy football game, to be played in New York November 27, has been distributed. The tickets were all put in the mails tonight. No tickets are left, and it will be useless for late applicants to expect seats.

Bow-wow!

DOG SHOW TO START TODAY.

Cocker Spaniel Club to be Bench Feature.

Mrs. Anita Baldwin Enters White Knight.

German Police Dogs to do Various Stunts.

Once again will ki-yis, yips, and yoodles rend the peaceful calm of the downtown district. This time the event is the Eighth Dog Show given by the Ladies' Kennel Association of Southern California. The exhibition starts today and closes Saturday night.

A big feature will be the exhibit added by the Cocker Spaniel Club of Los Angeles. Fifty-three of the little animals will be shown on one long bench. The exhibit will be decorated in the club colors, green and gray, and each dog will be furnished with a blanket of the same hues. This outlay, it is expected, will win the prize for the best decorated bench.

Notable among the cocker spaniels is Knebworth Rowdy, entered by the Knebworth Kennels. He is four times Pacific Coast champion and brother to Mission and Mission Chief, owned by Mayor Rolph of San Francisco.

MYSTERY DOG.

There is also a mystery dog named "Red and White," who has never been shown before, but is said to carry all the marks of a thoroughbred.

Twenty of the cockers will be entered by the Bellmore Kennels. The judges will certainly have a hot time deciding the winners for this bench.

Anita Baldwin will have an exceptionally decorated section and has entered five of her best dogs. Among them is White Knight, a famous English bulldog. S. L. Harris will be the judge of English and French Bulldogs and of Boston Terriers, while Wrightson Thorpe will criticise the other barkers.

W. A. Mattern will furnish a group of genuine German police dogs, trained in Germany and imported to this country. At some time during the show they will give an exhibition. It is said that the smallest of them can leap a ten-foot fence with ease.

GREAT DANES.

Sixteen Great Danes, the largest number ever entered in a dog show on the Coast, will be on hand. The war for the prizes in this class, strange to say, will be between three doctors, who are the owners of the dogs.

Dr. Graff, Dr. Newton and Dr. Weber are the rival backers of these melancholy specimens and each swears staunchly that his bunch will get the prize.

Dr. Graff's dogs seem to have the edge on the others. He has entered Cleopatra, several times winner in the Pasadena show and a dog of fine points. Dr. Newton has put in a specimen by the name of Zelos.

Rumors are afloat concerning some exceptional dogs which are on the way for the approaching San Francisco show and will stop here to take part in the Kennel Association exhibit. Mrs. Anna Bell, president of the association, says that she would hate to have to judge the 250 entries.

M'CREDIE IS FOR AL BAUM.

SEES NO REASON FOR OUSTING LEAGUE EXECUTIVE.

Says He Considers Pacific Coast Head One of Most Efficient Presidents in Baseball and that it Seems Peculiar Ed Maier Should be Gunning—Majority on Proxy's Side.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

PORTLAND (Or.) Nov. 10.—There have been a number of reports coming from Los Angeles, especially from the Vernon president, Eddie Maier, to the effect that he was going to oppose the re-election of Allan T. Baum as president of the Coast League again next year.

Judge McCredie, who is considered the shrewdest business man of the entire list of Coast League magnates, said before he left for San Francisco that he is certainly going to support Baum, and there is no question that the Salt Lake, Los Angeles and San Francisco owners will do likewise. This puts the majority on his side of the fence and there can be no doubt of the result, whatever course the Vernon and Oakland magnates pursue.

"Unless there should be something unusual and some especially important reason yet to be shown as to why we should oust Baum, or try to restrict his activities, I don't see why anything should be done," said the Portland magnate.

"I consider that Al has been one of the most efficient presidents we ever had, and will support him from the start, if any of the threatened opposition should arise.

"It seems peculiar that Eddie Maier, who has never attended a Coast League meeting in his life, so nearly as I can remember, should have the nerve to propose to oust Baum. When he doesn't pay any more attention to the league policies and business than this it doesn't seem that he ought to go gunning for the president. I really don't think there is anything to the story, at that."

LIVELY WORK FOR TROJAN PLAYERS.

SHERMAN INDIANS WILL BE APPROACHED NEXT FRIDAY.

The U.S.C. freshmen and second-string men will have no little contest before them when they meet the Sherman Indians at Bovard Field on Friday afternoon. Efforts have been made to call off the game with the University of Utah at Salt Lake City, but this does not seem possible.

SAN DIEGO GOES BACK ON NORMAL.

WIRES THAT SHE CANNOT PAY EXPENSES FOR THE TRIP.

San Diego High School has wired the local Normal School that it cannot furnish the funds to bring the teachers to the southern city for the game scheduled on Saturday.

Consequently the Normal fellows are considerably peeved and perhaps they have a right to be since San Diego sent a letter several months ago containing a cordial invitation and promising the expenses.

Manager Franklyn Skinner of the teachers says that this last minute go-back has greatly hurt the vacation plans of a number of the men and inconvenienced all of them.

TSURUGA ENJOYS QUITE A BOOM.

MUCH WAR MATERIAD PASSES THROUGH JAP PORT.

Women of the Little Fishing Town are Employed to Load Great Guns for the Russians and Their Muscular Development Makes an Impression Upon Foreigners.

[A. P. FOREIGN CORRESPONDENCE.]

TSURUGA (Japan) Oct. 12.—This little port has suddenly taken on great importance to the Russian army. It is the Japanese terminus for the Russian volunteer fleet operating between Vladivostok and Japan, and has suddenly become a great shipping center for arms and ammunition. Two boats operate regularly every week between Tsuruga and Vladivostok and this service has been supplanted by a number of small coaling ships.

The docks at Tsuruga and platforms of the railway station are now stacked high with gun carriages and ammunition cases. Temporary shelters have been thrown up and canvas is used for covering supplies which cannot be placed under a roof. Most of the war supplies are handled by Japanese women dock laborers. Although the women are less than 5 feet high, their hard work has given them great muscular development. KIVIAT AND SMITH ARE TURNED DOWN.

APPEAL OF ATHLETES TO LAST RESORT RESULTS IN FAILURE.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—The ruling of the Registration Committee of the Amateur Athletic Union, metropolitan division, in declaring Abel R. Kiviat and Harry J. Smith, Olympic runners, ineligible for amateur competition, was upheld by the board of managers of the division tonight. Kiviat and Smith appealed from the ruling of the Registration Committee in declaring them professionals. The managers, who heard arguments by counsel for the athletes, decided by a vote of 50 to 6 to deny the appeal. The runners had been accused of having demanded excessive expenses for their appearance at games at Schenectady, N. Y., last September. Kiviat, who is probably one of the best-known athletes in America, is a middle-distance runner, and Smith has held the national ten-mile and indoor two-mile championship titles.

PRINCETON HAS LAST SCRIMMAGE.

TEAM HAS SUFFERED FEW INJURIES AND IS IN FINE SHAPE.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

PRINCETON (N. J.) Nov. 10.—The Princeton football squad finished its last hard scrimmage of the season here this afternoon and will devote tomorrow to light signal drill only.

With two exceptions the team that faced Harvard was used today, the only changes being those made necessary by injuries. Gennert was not at center and Hogg was missing at guard. The latter is sure to be in shape for the Yale game, but Gennert may not be able to play for any length of time.

SIMONS WILL ENDEAVOR TO CHANGE EASTERN MEET PROGRAMMES.

Seward Simons, local delegate to the New York convention of the A.A.U., will endeavor to have that body reschedule the big eastern swimming meets so that Ludy Langer may compete in them.

As the list of events now stand Langer could only compete in one and it is hardly worth while to send him back East. As it is, several events will be held each week and as Langer can only remain one week some provision will have to be made for him or he will not take the trip.

CLIFFMEN OFF FOR BERKELEY.

Meet Freshmen There Next Saturday.

Backfield Men Slightly Out of Shape.

Langer, New Back, Proves Sensation.

The scare regarding the postponement of the L. A. High School-Berkeley freshman game turned out to be a false alarm. The Cliff Dwellers will leave this morning from the Southern Pacific depot at 7:30 o'clock.

A telegram arrived at the High School for Coach Featherstone Tuesday morning, but no one could be found who had the authority to open it. It was feared that the message was from the northern coach, calling off the game, because it has been reported that the weather is in an unusually state up north. What the note contained was a request to take the northern official up with the team.

Several local men have been on the field each morning this week. Featherstone has been smoothing over the rough spots. Realizing that his men are not as heavy as the freshmen, and that they are not overly fast, he has been devising several trick plays, hoping to overcome the handicap. Phil Cass, who played on the championship Los Angeles team in 1906, has taken a great interest in the boys, and has spent many hours teaching them the art of defensive playing.

The team, with the exception of the backfield, are in good condition. Langer, quarter, has a bad leg. Nimmer, who is expected to lead in the offensive Saturday, complains of a bad knee and a troublesome knee. Shea, fullback, has had trouble with his left leg for several weeks, having injured it by drop-kicking at the first of the season. Stanger, right half, hurt his leg during practice yesterday. All expect to see him in tip-top shape before the game.

Langer is a new addition to the team. He is only a second-year man. He does not weigh over 130, but he is fast as lightning, and hits the line like a bullet. He spent the first of the season playing with the Junior College team, although only a high school student. At the suggestion of Coach Bob Noble of the college men, he was given a chance with the first team. In all probability he will start the game at half.

There seems to be a difference of opinion as to who will win the game when the two schools meet. Phil Cass is afraid that the local boys are too light. When it is remembered that the Berkeley freshmen team beat St. Mary's eleven, and that the St. Mary's team held the Berkeley varsity to a 9-9 score, one is inclined to agree with Phil.

Featherstone, when asked if his team would win, replied: "We sure will give 'em some battle." Dean Pentz, however, says: They haven't got much on us. The only good men they have are from L. A."

Those who will make the trip are: Emery, Sherman, Smith, Mardis, Murphy, Swank, Wood, Sharpe, Scott, Kelly, Pentz, Nimmer, Shea, Isenberg, Roberts, Drange, Hesson and Langer.

They are scheduled to return Monday night.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

BERKELEY, UNIVERSITY OF CALIFORNIA, Nov. 10.—Rain today and yesterday interfered with freshman football practice, which is beginning again in preparation of the Los Angeles High School-freshman game on Saturday.

Since the Nevada game the freshmen have done but little real work. Coach Mini intended to begin today. The rain has upset his plans somewhat, so that the "babes" have only three days left in which to prepare for the High School team.

The freshman team in its game against Nevada displayed much better football than did the varsity against Washington. Quarter-back Pedlar handled his team effectively and the whole squad seemed to get on the right foot.

The High School boys are expected to put up as strong a game as the Nevada varsity, or stronger, since the Nevada team was crippled by the loss of several of its good players.

Nevada has never had good competition, something the L. A. High School certainly has enjoyed, and because of which she should be all the more dangerous. Neither the freshmen nor Coach Mini view the game lightly, and full preparations are to be made for a hard fight.

VARSITY TO GO NORTH.

The varsity is to leave Thursday for Seattle for the second Washington game. Practice was held in the rain today. Despite the defeat of last Saturday, the team is working with a will, and expects to give a better account of itself in the coming game.

Twenty-one men will make the trip, with the usual number of coaches, trainers, etc. Because of the ship schedule it was impossible to arrange a longer trip, and under the circumstances it is doubtful if a boatload could be gathered up.

Miss Katherine Stimson,

The diminutive aviatrix, who loops the loop, using Lincoln Beachey's old motor. She is in town on the way to San Diego, where she will give several exhibitions.

MIDGET AVIATRIX HAS LEARNED TO LOOP LOOP.

LITTLE Katherine Stinson, a Mississippi girl of 19 years, the only woman in the world to execute the loop the loop in an aeroplane, is in Los Angeles en route to San Diego, where she is scheduled to give a series of flying exhibitions at the exposition.

The diminutive southern girl has been flying four years and is a graduate of the Wright school. She has been giving exhibitions for the last three years, performing most of the feats known to the fancy-flying game. She first looped the loop in Grant Park, Chicago, last July and since that time has cut the aerial circle more than 250 times, appearing at the big State fairs throughout the Middle West and East.

"I am an ardent advocate of the suffrage cause," declared the daring girl as she reclined in one of the mezzanine chairs at the Alexandria last night, "and I am proud of being the woman who can equal man at the most difficult branch of science and skill. I am proud that an American girl leads Europe in aviation achievements.

"I use the machine and the famous French-made motor used by the great Lincoln Beachey during the year previous to his death, and my motor is the one which carried him to his doom in San Francisco Bay last March, so you see I am not superstitious.

"I have been duplicating the feats of all the male 'loopers' since last summer and am prepared to hold my own in exhibitions with any of them as competitors. I fly both day and night and have never had an accident or a bad scare."

Miss Stinson is a comely girl, wears her hair in schoolgirl fashion, weighs less than 100 pounds, and is about the last person in the world one would select as the one who has achieved such success at so dangerous a sport. She leaves at noon today for San Diego.

GOBLET CONTEST FOR THE GOLFERS.

EACH PLAYER WILL FURNISH GOBLET WITH NAME ON IT.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

REDLANDS, Nov. 10.—The Greens Committee of the Country Club has announced a new competition among the golfers for the winter. It is a silver goblet tournament, starting on November 15, and ending May 15. All of the active, non-resident and visiting members are eligible.

Each player must provide himself with a silver goblet on which will be engraved the name of the contest. Any contestant holding a goblet may challenge any other contestant for his goblet, the winner to the match to get both goblets. Any contestant without a goblet may challenge any contestant with one. It is expected that this will be an annual event.

Those entered are R. Hornby, L. R. Gay, S. Williams, H. H. Garstin, E. Stauffin, Jr., W. B. Power, B. Aymar, R. Herold, H. M. Paine, J. O. Riddel, C. F. Smith, W. M. Kerr, C. J. Tripp, G. Palmer, M. CHESS

NOTES

First prize in the "Blake Quo" chess correspondence tournament has been won by Rev. E. B. Adams of San Diego, the decisive game having turned in his favor by an error of C. H. Lemberger, of Craftonville, which turned an apparently drawing position into defeat on his sixty-first move.

Adams, who is champion of the Catskills Club, finished with the excellent score of eight wins, one loss and one draw—a total of 9½ won, 1½ lost, in a field composed of six prize winners in previous Southern California tournaments.

A. G. Pearsall, of Chula Vista, now stands in second position, having won seven points and lost two, while Lemberger was in the pearsall for second prize, as he has won five games, lost three, and has two to play. It is going to be, however, by most small lot if Harry C. Richards, of Redlands, is both games—a decision being expected shortly.

Rose has won 9½ games, with 4½ losses. V. Ashley, of Redlands, and O. E. Frazier, of Watts, are considering their last game, which will not affect second prize. Ashley has won three games and lost six, while Frazier has won nine and lost five.

At the conclusion of the schedule play, all games are to be considered as candidates for the "test game" prize, which is to be determined by a committee composed of Messrs J. W. Arman, Justice H. K. Wells and C. F. Pierce, the tournament director. The game which eliminated Lemberger after months of careful play, is subjoined.

NOTES BY THE WINNER.

(a) White at this point was willing to make a present of the QRP for the later use he could make of the file. His purpose is too obvious, however, and black takes the pawn at his leisure, when it becomes perfectly safe to do so.

(b) This bishop might better have been captured two moves sooner.

(c) White has a cramped position, yet one where it is difficult to discover a vulnerable point. Still, he chooses Hinterlegs up, at the embrace of knights and the stronger of a pawn.

(d) It would appear preferable to prevent this sacrifice, in the light of the necessity to retaliate at the cost of the qualité pawn. From this point a few should mates, if black had not made an unfortunate slip.

HI JASPER SIGNS WITH NATIONALS.

JOIN THE ST. LOUIS CARDINALS FOR THE COMING SEASON.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

ST. LOUIS (Mo.) Nov. 10.—Hiram Jasper of the Los Angeles club, Pacific Coast League, signed a contract today to play with the St. Louis Nationals during the 1916 season. A player and a cash consideration will be given the Los Angeles club for Jasper, a pitcher.

EASTERN TEAM MAY COME HERE.

TOURNAMENT OF ROSES HAS INVITED BROWN, CORNELL AND HARVARD.

It was learned yesterday that the Pasadena Tournament of Roses has invited Harvard, Brown or Cornell to come here for a game with Washington on January 1, 1916. Michigan has refused, but both Brown and Cornell are still on the string.

THE VANISHING GOLD.

Has Been Mined in Enormous Quantities and is Most Enduring Metal, but is Mysteriously Elusive.

[Chicago Journal:] What becomes of gold?

It is one of the oldest metals in human use—there are gold beads dating back to the stone age. It is an object of almost universal desire. It is proof against almost all the influences which destroy other metals, and it has been mined in enormous quantities. Yet today more than two-thirds of the gold in use has been dug since 1849.

What becomes of the rest? Where is the gold that set Jason wandering into the Black Sea, that filled the treasuries of Croesus, that paid the terrific tribute which Persian kings assessed against the Punjab? What has happened to the yellow dust and "electrum"—an alloy of gold and silver—which negro traders brought down the Nile to Egypt for 4000 or 5000 years? Ancient gold, like that of modern times, was used for money and for ornaments, but both have disappeared. Where?

The most enduring of metals, and yet the most evanescent; perpetually sought and yet constantly escaping the hands of even the successful seeker—that is gold. What is the reason for its curious elusiveness?

A Cheerful Optimist.

[Kansas City Star:] "Ah, this world is growing better! I do not believe there is any danger of our getting into war. The return of prosperity is already apparent. This weather is truly salubrious. All reports tell of the most bountiful crops—"

"Look here!" interrupted Gaunt N. Grimm. "You've had your salary raised."

AT THE STAGE DOOR

BY GRACE KINGSLEY

Maude Fulton, author of "The Brat," which Manager Oliver Morosco has accepted, and in which Lenore Ulrich will play the lead, has written another play, with the mutable title, "Mary," which Mr. Morosco has also accepted.

Makes Himself a Present.

There is a rumor that Charlie Chaplin, following the close of his contract with the Essanay, is to open a studio of his own.

With the Gasoline Bugs.

That Thanksgiving motor tour to San Diego looks like a winner in the studios. "Dusty" Farnum is one of the latest recruits who hopes to get away for the big highway celebration. He's some carburetor jockey, too.

Hello, Letty.

"So Long Letty" is going to start its repeat engagement at the Morosco December 5.

Huck Finn, Too.

The Lasky Company has secured the rights to the production of all the Mark Twain books.

No More Cavorting Chromos.

Again the Majestic is to become the home of the legit, with "A Pair of Sixes" opening on December 5.

Understudies Jupiter Pluvius.

It begins to look as if the Burbank company would remain with "Nearly Married" for another week, so big has been the success of the play.

Billie Colvin, stage manager, lost his thunder expert the other day. The latter is now the lightning man for the Fine Arts Film Studio, thunder not being needed in pictures.

Billie turned a green hand loose on the thunder drum, with the result that the audience was astounded at what seemed to be an explosion behind the scenes.

Film Project.

The National Film Company, in spite of its "troubles," announces it is spending some $5000 in the renovation of the Quality Studio, which it has just taken over. A night stage is being built, and the company has leased several acres adjoining the studio.

The company is planning the making of several big features. Paul Gilmore has been engaged to star in a series of pictures, including a film version of several of his former stage successes, notably "The Havoc," "At Yale," and "Boys of Company B." Eddie Foy is being negotiated with for two comedy pictures, and most of the former company will be retained. Two comedy companies have already been engaged, and will begin work at an early date.

Miss Maude Fulton, author of "The Brat," a play recently accepted by Manager Morosco, has been retained as scenario writer, and she will at once begin work on some comedies for "Smiling Bill Parsons."

Albert W. Hale is director-general.

Fair Lil in "Vodeville."

Lillian Russell has re-entered vaudeville in New York, and will play the Orpheum time this season.

A local picture firm is also negotiating for her services.

Just Naturally Careless.

Charles Reigel, the District Attorney in "On Trial," enjoys visiting courtrooms. At a recent luncheon given in his honor Mr. Reigel told the following:

An old offender was on trial for assault with intent to kill. While summing up, the judge, in an attempt to soften the effect of the sentence that he felt compelled to impose, said that he had no personal feelings against the prisoner, that he was sorry for him and wished he could befriend him, that it actually hurt him very much to be obliged to tell the culprit that he must go to prison for a term of thirty years.

Asked if he had anything to say, the condemned man replied: "I'm glad to know that you have nothing against me, judge, that is very nice. But it seems to me that you are d—d careless with other people's time."

Wants to See It.

Lady Augusta Gregory, the distinguished Irish noblewoman who is now lecturing here on Irish folk-lore and the Irish drama, will pay a visit to the "Mission Play" at San Gabriel on Friday. Lady Gregory has expressed a fond desire to see this now world-famous California pageant drama, particularly since its author is a man of her own race, although a Pennsylvanian by birth. During Lady Gregory's visit to San Gabriel she will discuss with Mr. McGroarty his new pageant drama which deals with the wonderful color and romance of pagan Ireland in the days of "gods and fighting men," long before the Christian era.

Ida St. Leon's beautiful curls

Are not the least of her personal charms, and they look remarkably pretty in "Nearly Married" at the Burbank this week. Clever Lillian Elliott is seen beside the winsome Ida in the picture. Above are three of the Gillespie girls, who are helping to put the gin in ginger at Pantages this week.

Can Talk Too.

Anita King, the Paramount Girl, who made the trip 'cross country alone in an automobile, is to lecture in the north towns of this State, Washington and Oregon. She will speak before women's clubs and in picture-houses, on the experiences of her recent trip.

Can You Beat It?

Pat Rooney, at the Orpheum, is teaching Lonz Tack Sam to dance the tango and an Irish jig! For why? Because Long Tack means to introduce them into his new act next year. And Sam is teaching Pat how to be "illoosive."

Poor Lucretia.

Friends of Miss Lucretia del Valle will be grieved to learn that she was forced to retire from the cast of the "Mission Play" for several days on account of a severe attack of bronchitis.

Just Like Mikado.

When "Madam Butterfly," with winsome Mary Pickford in the leading role, goes on at Tally's Broadway next week, that theater will be transformed into a Nipponese bower of beauty. Japanese lanterns will decorate the lobby, and Japanese costumes will decorate the pretty blond girl in the box office; the boy ushers will be replaced by pretty girls in Jap dresses, who will take you to your seats.

The "Madame Butterfly" music will be played by the orchestra, and "Sec" Tally will drape a fresh sprig of wistaria in his buttonhole each day.

Hungry Actors Get Jobs.

The life line is thrown out to stranded S. and C. acts!

A wire to Resident Manager Al Watson of the Republic from San Francisco received yesterday, brought the news that Bert Levey, the owner of the circuit bearing his name, has taken over the entire Sullivan and Considine circuit so far as the acts themselves are concerned, and will book them exclusively on the Coast.

Levey will assume control the 21st inst. He has also taken over the Pickwick Theater in San Diego, and will start his acts there the 15th inst. A full bill of former S. and C. acts will start at the Republic on the 29th inst.

Native Daughter.

Virginia Richdale Kerrigan is the name of the first native daughter of Universal City. The little lady, daughter of Wallace Kerrigan, superintendent of the Universal ranch, made her appearance on this mundane sphere on the morning of the 4th inst. Her uncle is J. Warren Kerrigan, and "handsome Jack" is almost as proud of the little one as is his brother Wallace. J. Warren thinks that Miss Virginia Richdale Kerrigan is the prettiest infant he has ever seen, and he believes that some day she will make a real leading lady.

Starts Something.

Charles P. Brown, veteran writer of musical comedy, is in the city, and is engaged in writing a new play, which he proposes to name "The Minister's Sin." Brown declares his play will wake up the clergy. He is seeking a producer.

Kitty's Back's Up.

The noble Bersefords, it is reported, are objecting to their son's daughter (and Kitty Gordon's,) going on the stage. Miss Gordon is indignant at the idea, and says that if Cyril Maude's daughter is on the stage, she doesn't see why her own should not be.

Gaby Stops, Looks, Listens.

Gaby Deslys arrived in New York this week, with crowds of secretaries, maids and trunks. Harry Pilcer arrived on the same boat.

Mlle. Gaby starts rehearsals at once for the Dillingham production of "Stop, Look, Listen!" in which she will be starred this season. She expects to take the piece on a tour of the country next fall.

Will Will Do It?

Sir Herbert Beerhohm Tree, having been announced to appear in films for the Triangle, and do "Henry VIII," one of the extra men out at the Fine Arts Films Studio inquired of Mary O'Connor, head of the scenario department, whether she "was going to write the photoplay version."

Miss O'Connor never smiled, but answered with quick Irish wit: "Why, yest, if we can get Will Shakespeare to relinquish his rights to the plot!"

Zeppelins Scare Peg.

Laurette Taylor may be seen in the West next spring in a new play, entitled "Happiness," by her husband, J. Hartley Manners.

Miss Taylor has been playing "Peg o' My Heart" in London the past year, but it is said her nerves are shattered by the night Zeppelin raids, and she will leaves for America on the 29th inst.

Divine Sarah's Leg.

Despite the dire prophecies of Carl Laemmle that Mme. Sarah Bernhardt would never be able to come to America, that dauntless lady has set December 25 as the date on which she will sail for this country. Just now she is rehearsing her new play, the name of which is not announced.

Mme. Bernhardt, in a dispatch from Paris, declares she has received many letters threatening her life if she comes to America.

"Naturally I have no fear for my life," she said, "or I would not go. It would be too entirely stupid to be killed over there and leave my company stranded, and I have therefore taken out heavy insurance against murder. After all it requires but one madman to take a life."

Speaking of her artificial leg, Mme. Bernhardt said: "The armoire in my room occupies half the room's space. It is absolutely full of artificial legs. I would not call it the Cupboard Bluebeard, but it might be a cupboard consecrated to his wives. Half the leg-makers of the world have loaded me with their wares."

Seven Hundred Births.

"The Birth of the Nation" is closing at the Liberty Theater in New York after the amazing run of 725 performances.

Maybe It Has.

"The Bare Idea" is the name of a new musical comedy being put on in New York. We believe the "bare" all right, but how about the "idea?"

Sweet Thanksgiving.

The motion picture actor's Thanksgiving: Yes, today we can go down and see the other fellows work.

FIGHTERS IN THE CALCIUM.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 10.—Joe Mandot was today matched to fight Bobby Waugh at Shreveport, La., on Thanksgiving Day, fifteen rounds. Dick Burke will probably referee the match, as this is the only hitch so far between the promoters and fighters. Kid Williams, bantamweight champion, and Frankie Burns, challenger, today signed for a twenty-round championship fight here November 29. Williams is to receive $5500 and Burns 25 per cent. of the gate over that. The referee question of this fight has started a big argument. Williams wants Ed Smith or Billy Haack, while Burns wants Dick Burke. It will be threshed out later. Several local men today made an offer to Freddie Welsh to fight Joe Mandot here for the lightweight championship. Rocky Kansas started training for the Russell fight.

W. H. Wilshire, W. F. Cannon, Stanton Benner and Mr. Leidretter formed a hunting party in the vicinity of Lake Elsinore recently. Each of them was favored with the quail limit.

Dr. L. M. Packard has killed another quail limit in the San Fernando Valley. He gets the limit there when no other shooter sees a bird and claims that his stamping-ground is good for several cases strings.

"The Evolution of the Parker Gun," is the name of an interesting display in the window of the R. H. Dyas Co. this week. Each part of the assembler arm is shown with an explanatory note and several fine specimens of the completed product are on view.

SOME ARGUMENT OVER SCHEDULE.

BIG CLUBS THINK THE HIGH HONOR SHOULD BE FOR THEM.

BY ALMA WHITAKER.

At noon, November 19, the Southern California Golf Association will meet in solemn conclave. Delegates from eleven country clubs will meet at the California Club and pass upon the schedule of the season's golf events.

Of course, the Southern California championship is the star event. A coveted occasion for which there is a good deal of amiable competition. Midwick had it last year, Los Angeles the year before, San Gabriel the year before that, Annandale the year before that.

Very well, then. Virginia thinks it an opportune moment to show what she can do with a really stylish event. But there are many demurrers, the course being a short one and not overmuch bunkered. Annandale is quite sure her turn has come round again. Altadena is not at all sure that she is not entitled to the graceful compliment as a welcome into the league. Orange county Butters with modest hopes. Midwick, have spent a young fortune on creating an all-green course, can see no good reason why she should not have it there again—for the benefit of the whole association, who would naturally prefer the best course, precedent or no precedent.

Quite so, says Los Angeles, but ours is the best course. And that's where the excitement comes in. Proud members of clubs never dream how many grievous faults their courses possess until they hear members of other clubs commenting thereon. The argument will, however, resolve itself to Los Angeles vs. Annandale in the end, and the voting delegates will be called upon to expose their preferences.

It is odds on for Los Angeles—not that they love Los Angeles more, but that they love Annandale less. For alas! 'tis true that for some occult reason Annandale is not really popular. Individually there are any number of nice members at Annandale, but collectively they don't make a really affectionate hit. Perhaps it is the large preponderance of eastern members, who naturally do not exude that warm partisan interest that the local man feels toward his net club.

And then, of course, the Los Angeles course is steadily reaching a very high stage of perfection. New aprons to the greens, loving considerations for the greens themselves, diversely interesting holes, and a noble army of enthusiastic boosters to see that no attribute of charm goes unappreciated.

Another proposition that is going to create considerable discussion is a suggestion to make the scratch team trophy rather exclusive. You see, there are eleven teams now, entailing a long and complicated arrangement of dates, for every team must play every other team on its home links in the league.

Now the idea is to make the scratch trophy exclusive to Los Angeles, Midwick and Annandale, the three star teams—to accept the assumption that none but one of these could hope to win the scratch. The other eight teams are, however, to fight it out among themselves for the handicap trophy.

Now, this is class distinction unbecoming a democracy. We may know in our hearts that some us are much superior to others of us, but we are not going to admit it if we can help it. We can submit with grace when we have had a chance to prove our equality and failed, but we won't have it assumed offhand. And who knows what a year may bring forth.

San Gabriel, for instance, is murmuring. Of course, San Gabriel never won the scratch, or even the handicap, but she feels she might. Ask Bill Bacon and George Cline.

And Virginia actually did win the handicap event last year, and she feels a bit cheesy about that. A mere stepping stone to greater glory. Ask A. M. Goodhue, Bill Campbell, Dr. Foote, et al. Any one of them feels capable of beating an Armstrong, a Robert Hunter, a Macbeth, on occasion. It has been done. Stars have their off days anyway, quite often, too.

Then there is Redlands. Morris Phillips, winner of numerous events and runner-up in the southern championship two years ago; Raymond Hornby, Gregory Palmer—voila, would you consign such names to golf oblivion? Why, even Riverside and Orange are bristling. True, these clubs never have, but they always may. Are not the humble and meek exalted above the mighty in daily incidents? And, anyway, there is the joy of giving the stars a fright now and then. If but three members of a star team are defeated, one trembles on the brink of joyous victory.

And there is the subtle argument that a win over eleven teams is so much more starry than a win over two. Especially when each of them can boast at least one or two first-class players. A mere two-power standard is so trifling. But the eleven-power standard makes for a very arduous golf season and becomes a penance rather than a pleasure.

They will fight it out at noon today. Then, also, the dates for invitation tournaments will be allotted, the supplementary event and the open championship.

The latter is highly unpopular with many members and there is a strong party for abolition. Those against it draw attention to the small number of professionals and the still smaller number of amateurs that [illegible] the event, which becomes a superfluity. And carries [illegible] its train. A straightforward [illegible] sional tournament is more [illegible] fills the bill. So they [illegible] the fate of the open will be [illegible] today.

MUSICAL EVENTS.

A particularly enjoyable [illegible] was presented last night [illegible] Gamut Club's public [illegible] at the club auditorium. [illegible] bers, solo and concerted, [illegible] and violin selections, as well [illegible] dancing novelty made up the [illegible] gramme. Henry la Bonte and [illegible] stance Balfour, both popular [illegible] cally, sang solo numbers from [illegible] operas, and both joined in [illegible] the finale of the first act of "[illegible] Butterfly." Aubrey Burns, a [illegible] young baritone, was heard in the [illegible] logue from "I Pagliacci," and [illegible] garet Jarman, well known [illegible] contralto, sang an aria from [illegible] rienne Lecouveur." The four [illegible] at the close of the programme [illegible] the quartette from "Rigoletto."

Oskar Seiling, first violinist of [illegible] Brahms Quintette, played a group [illegible] selections, and Lillian [illegible] Smith was heard in a group of [illegible] numbers.

The accompanist was Lorna [illegible]

An attractive number on the [illegible] gramme was the dancing of [illegible] Riley, accompanied at the piano [illegible] Marjorie Nichols.

Piano Recital.

A piano recital, which promises [illegible] be particularly enjoyable, will [illegible] given by a young local [illegible] Berenice Morrison, assisted by [illegible] leine Starrett, soprano, tomorrow [illegible] ning at the Ebell Clubhouse. [illegible] ing is the programme: Prelude [illegible] and fugue in D major (Bach-[illegible] sonata in A major (Mozart); [illegible] in D, Op. 10, No. 1 (Brahms); [illegible] in the Trees" (Thomas A. [illegible] "Bird of Love Divine," "[illegible] Song" (Haydn Wood;) "A Little [illegible] Serenade" (Landon Ronald); [illegible] ludes, Op. 13, Nos. 2, 3, 4, Op. 1[illegible] 17 (A. Scriabine;) "The [illegible] Cathedral," "Bells Thro' the [illegible] "Reflections on the Water" [illegible] Debussy,) and etude [illegible] minor, major (S. Bortkiewicz.)

A Labor Problem Solved.

[Christian Herald:] Last [illegible] there was a shortage of wood [illegible] poria, Kan. The Rev. J. R. [illegible] took the matter up with his [illegible] congregation. He announced [illegible] persons who had dead trees [illegible] property would notify him, he [illegible] send men to cut and chop them [illegible] for fuel. As police judge, [illegible] made arrangements with the [illegible] haul the wood to the homes [illegible] men who did the work, or to [illegible] who would buy the wood. The [illegible] ceeds went to the workers and [illegible] bor problem" in Emporia. [illegible] Mr. Rice is emphatic in his [illegible] that he is only doing his [illegible] theory in regard to his church [illegible] it is his opportunity to serve the [illegible] munity. Mr. Rice holds the [illegible] church is an instrument of [illegible] ness, which should not demand [illegible] entire services of its pastor.

Great Things Almost Happen.

[Washington Star:] "The [illegible] could have rid the world of [illegible] mosquitoes, of consumption—[illegible] almost have rid the world of [illegible] at less than what this war is [illegible] him."

The speaker was Dr. Harvey [illegible] Wiley. He continued:

"But men are like that. [illegible] big, grand, heroic things that [illegible] men.

"Alexander wept because he [illegible] more worlds to conquer. But [illegible] ever wept yet because there was [illegible] more coal to carry up on deck [illegible] help his wife with."

Reese and Gray, the great [illegible] style billiard players [illegible] articles for a match of 18,000 [illegible] to concede a start of 5000. The [illegible] will be commenced on January [illegible] 1916, at a hall in London to be [illegible] cided upon later. The winner [illegible] take 75 and the loser 25 per [illegible] the gate receipts.

CATS, CATS; ALL SORTS.

Fireman's Kitten Killed; He is Swamped with Felines; Slayer Arrested.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

PASADENA, Nov. 10.—Because he is alleged to have killed a kitten belonging to M. Schlossberg of the Pasadena fire department, Henry Wakely, chauffeur for F. H. White, of No. 179 South Orange Grove avenue, will be tried in Judge Strang's court today on a charge of cruelty. Field Officer Kelley swore to the complaint to which Wakely pleaded not guilty.

Since a newspaper printed the story of the killing of the little cat, which was very blue-blooded and very affectionate, much of Pasadena seems to sympathize with the fireman, to whom it belonged, for it is declared several hundred cats have been sent to Mr. Schlossberg. They have come in baskets, boxes, by parcel post and in various other ways and are so numerous now that the fireman can't sleep. But they are all just ordinary cats or else toy cats.

The arrival today of a celluloid cat from a member of the White family was the blow that almost killed and resulted in the mourner having the chauffeur arrested.

TRAVEL FAR TO DIVORCE COURT.

COLLIERS CROSS CONTINENT ON THE SAME TRAIN.

Former President of Southern Fair and His ex-Wife Expect Final Decree will be Granted Tomorrow. Former will Proceed to Oakland at Once.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

SAN DIEGO, Nov. 10.—Mrs. Ella Copley Collier came across the continent from Washington, D. C., to be in San Diego to see that her final decree of divorce from D. C. Collier was granted and went through without any hitch.

Col. Collier, former president of the Panama-California Exposition, came across the continent from New York to look after the same little matter, after which he intended to travel on to Oakland to see the Mrs. Collier-soon-to-be.

Mrs. Ella C. Collier and Mr. Collier had an interesting transcontinental trip, due in part to the fact that both were on the same train. On trains, as on steamers, passengers will cross paths, and the former Mrs. Collier and her husband often crossed each other's paths.

Formal motion for a final decree in favor of Mrs. Ella Copley Collier will be made by Attorney Adam Thompson in Judge Guy's court next Friday, at which time the prescribed period of one year will have elapsed. It is expected a satisfactory settlement will be made between the parties

In connection with the interlocutory decree, an order was made requiring Col. Collier to pay $100 a month for the education of two sons, 17 and 15 years old. Col. Collier will leave Friday for Oakland.

RECORD RUN TO BATTLE FLAMES.

MEN AND WOMEN PUT UP HARD FIGHT ON RANCH WHILE TRUCK SPEEDS.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

SANTA MONICA, Nov. 10.—An explosion in a gasoline stove started a fire at 11 o'clock this morning on the chili ranch of Barnard Bros., at the end of Pico street, bordering on Santa Monica and Sawtelle. Buckets, axes and other primitive apparatus was used in fighting the flames until a large tank, containing 100 gallons of distillate was also caught in the sweep of the flames.

Men and women employed on the ranch joined the fight until the arrival of a chemical wagon from Sawtelle. Record time was made in the run, seven minutes for a distance of a mile from the time the call was received until a stream was playing on the flames.

The damage is estimated at $3000. A warehouse, considerable sacked rice, a small amount of chili and equipment were destroyed. About $1500 worth of chili was saved.

GREAT CHRISTMAS FETE IS PLANNED.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

POMONA, Nov. 10.—Within the next few days Mayor Vandegrift will call a mass meeting of the citizens of Pomona to arrange for a monster municipal Christmas celebration and jubilee to last an entire week. All the churches, the Chamber of Commerce, lodges, clubs and other societies will join hands to make the affair a success and will turn their usual holiday activities in this direction.

A big tree will be erected Christmas eve in front of the City Hall. Another feature will be a big chorus made up of the choirs and soloists from all of the local churches. It is proposed to make this celebration the biggest of the kind ever held in a city of this size.

Wherever the subject has been broached here it has met with an enthusiastic reception. A number of committees are to be appointed to handle the different phases of the event. In connection it is proposed to poll the entire city to secure the name of every person in need.

Launch Departs to Salvage Cargo of Copper.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

LONG BEACH, Nov. 10.—Efforts by naked divers this afternoon to recover a supposed human body floating or pinioned under water near the end of the pier failed. Chief of Police Cole today secured the promise of the commander of the United States submarine squadron to send here tomorrow a corps of divers who will attempt to bring the body to the surface. It is thought the remains are those of Miss Anna Kirkwood, for whom relatives have been searching for a month.

A crawfisherman brought up on his tackle this morning a piece of a black-and-white woman's shirtwaist, and a wisp of hair, to which flesh was clinging. Wilbur Counts, the one-armed diver, grasping a heavy weight, descended to the bottom in twenty-eight feet of water. He thought he saw the outlines of a naked human form twisted around one of the piles. He descended again this afternoon and became convinced the body of a woman was made fast to the pile at the bottom of the ocean. He was unable to make more than three descents because of the low temperature of the water.

TO RECOVER CARGO.

The salvage launch Dolores, Capt. Hodds, left this port this morning for Buena del Rey, Chile, to assist in the recovery of a cargo of copper from the sunken steamer Williamson, which foundered while bound from San Francisco to London. Although the circumstances of the sinking of the Williamson are not known, her entire crew perishing, it is believed a German cruiser was responsible for her doom. In case this is proved, the salvage operations may cause an international dispute, it is believed. The Dolores's two engines develop 150 horse power each, and she can make thirty miles per hour. Capt. Hodds stated before he left that he would not make great speed going down the coast, but was cautioned to use discretion in running past Lower California ports. The first stop will be at Turtle Bay, where the launch will take on gasoline.

BEACH BRIEFS.

Frank "Blacky" Jordan and S. E. Peel, incarcerated on drunk charges, almost broke jail yesterday. They ripped off the heavy screening on the window of their joint tank and crawled between the bars and a crevice about six inches wide. Thus they succeeded in getting into the women's quarters on the second floor. Before they could make their way downstairs to liberty they were heard by Patrolman Chorn, who promptly placed them in individual cells, where they will serve additional time.

City Commissioners this morning, on motion of Commissioner Riley, rejected a demand presented by Commissioner Cates for $200 alleged to be due Mrs. Cora M. Morgan for salary as stenographer in his office for four months. The appointment of Mrs. Morgan was never made. She may sue the city.

Roy Mulheron, 32 years old, of Compton, received contusions above the left eye tonight when an auto in which he was riding collided with another machine on the Long Beach-Wilmington boulevard at 6:10 p.m. Mulheron was thrown out of the machine. None of the other men riding in the machines was hurt. Mr. Mulheron was taken to the seaside hospital by Dr. B. M. J. Conlin.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

ALHAMBRA, Nov. 10.—The funeral of Levi White Young, who rounded the Horn in 1854 and had been a resident of California for 61 years, was conducted this morning at the undertaking parlors of Utter & Allen. The remains were cremated. Mr. Young died Monday at the home of his son, Levi E. Young of Ramona Acres.

BETTER NIGHT PROTECTION.

The City Trustees are planning a night telephone system to be installed in the City Hall, for benefit of those who may need the assistance of officers during the night. When the system is installed the officers will be required to ring to the night man at the City Hall hourly. In this way the night police force can be communicated with, in case of an alarm, at a few minutes' notice.

MOTOR VICTIMS.

George Fettiman, the millionaire who was injured two weeks ago when his auto lost a tire and he was hurled from the machine to the pavement, continues to improve slowly at the Alhambra Hospital. Harry Metsuta, the Japanese, who was dangerously wounded two weeks ago, when two companions lost their lives on the El Monte road by being run down by a motorist, was discharged from the hospital today.

TREE MEN WILL CONVENE TODAY.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

REDLANDS, Nov. 10.—Men from all parts of the State, who have made a study of tree planting on city streets and in parks and who are experts in the work of landscape gardening, gather here tomorrow morning for the opening session of the Southern California Arboricultural Society. The delegates will meet at 11 o'clock and register and half an hour later there will be the reports by the standing committees.

Tomorrow the visitors are to be entertained at noon with a luncheon at the Casa Loma Hotel. In the afternoon Mayor Cortner will welcome them. The response will be by President J. M. Paige. Dr. A. Boyd Doremus, who planned the parks of Santa Barbara, will then tell of the work there. Donald McLaren, who with his father planned the landscape gardening of the San Francisco exposition, which cost $14,000 an acre, will tell of the work done there and also at Golden Gate Park.

The visitors will be taken for a drive in the afternoon and the first part of the evening will be given over to "Arboricultural Work in the Counties." Francis Cuttle, Riverside; David Kinney, Upland; and J. M. Grant, Santa Ana, will speak. The main address of the evening will be by Ernest Braunton, who will speak on "Economic Value of Beautiful Trees."

W. B. Hadley of this city, Prof. George Robertson of the University of Redlands; Theodore Payne, specialist in native plants, of Los Angeles; P. D. Barnhart, Pasadena, J. H. Reed, Riverside, Dean George A. Damon of Throop College, Pasadena, and Alfred D. Robinson, editor of "The California Garden," of San Diego, will be the speakers Friday.

PINS FAITH UPON WASH-TUB POLICY.

FORMER MAYOR FORMALLY PUTS HAT IN THE RING IN RECALL FIGHT.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SAN BERNARDINO, Nov. 10.—Although it has been presumed that Joseph W. Catick would be the recall candidate against Mayor George H. Wixom at the election on December 14, Mr. Catick waited until tonight to make the formal announcement that he would be a candidate for the office. Nominating petitions for Catick are already in circulation, and Catick declared tonight that married women alone will be the signers of his petitions on the belief that his "wash-tub" policy at home will prove a winner with the women when it comes to politics.

Because of the fact that Catick startled the country during his administration a year ago by declaring for a municipal church and the abolition of denominational worship, and because his opponent, the present incumbent, Mayor Wixom, is pastor of the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ, Latter Day Saints, it is declared the church people of the city will line up solidly behind Mr. Wixom. A record vote at the election is expected.

GRAZING OUTLOOK BEST IN YEARS.

WITH THREE INCHES OF SNOW IN HIGHER HILLS OF VENTURA COUNTY.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

OXNARD, Nov. 10.—Three inches of snow fell in the higher mountains of the county during the recent rains. Range conditions are said to be better than for many years, at this time, and large quantities of stock will be pastured in the uplands. Prospects are that water will be plentiful in the hills this year, according to J. N. Thompson of the forest service, who has just made the trip by horseback from Maricopa through the mountains.

The minimum temperature here last night, which was the coldest of the season, so far, was 42 degs.

TEACHERS HAVE A DAY OF FUN.

Sunshine Lures Thousands to Swarm Over City.

More Banquets and Business also Drawing Cards.

Children Form a Giant Flag that Waves in Stadium.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

SAN DIEGO, Nov. 10.—Sunny skies this morning greeted the thousands of teachers who are attending the convention of the Southern California Teachers' Association here, and cheered them into the hope that the good weather would last the balance of their stay. As soon as they could get away they swarmed over the city and to every point of interest possible; one sight-seeing car alone taking over $60 around the city.

The general session opened this morning at 9:30 o'clock in the grounds of the exposition in front of the organ pavilion, and was presided over by C. H. Covell of Redlands. After a short concert by the Thirteenth Coast Artillery Band, Mayor Capps and George Burnham, vice-president of the Panama-California Exposition, made addresses of welcome and these were appropriately responded to by Supt. Francis of the Los Angeles city schools. Dr. J. H. Finley, commissioner of education from Albany, N. Y., spoke, his subject being "Educating Our Ancestors."

FLAG OF CHILDREN.

The afternoon section of the session was omitted to enable the teachers to witness the exercises of the Al Bahr Temple at the stadium. One of the interesting features of this exhibition was the formation of a human flag in which 2500 school children, dressed in red, white and blue, participated. It was an inspiring sight and received enthusiastic approbation from the watching multitude.

The third annual banquet of the Los Angeles City Teachers Club was the biggest thing of the convention so far. The grillroom of the U. S. Grant Hotel was filled to overflowing and after 12:30 o'clock the doors were closed to further applicants. Four hundred and seventy were seated. City teachers' sessions were held during this luncheon, lasting until 3:30 o'clock. Among the speakers was the ever-popular author, Date Douglas Wiggin, who read excerpts from an unpublished manuscript, about to be put into book form and telling of her early experiences as kindergarten teacher in California. Many of the characters of her books were gleaned from these early days. Mrs. Wiggin left for Los Angeles on the 6 o'clock train. The other speakers were Miss Blanche Vance, president of the Los Angeles Teachers' Club, the toastmistress; Miss Snow Longeley, address of welcome; response, Miss Emma Jackson; original poem, Miss Marjorie Jenkins; O. W. Plummer; Dr. J. H. Finley, an original blank verse, dealing with the terrifying condition in Europe after war was declared; Mrs. A. E. Horton of San Diego; Mrs. R. J. Waters, San Diego; Miss Ada Minor, Long Beach Teachers' Club.

HIGH SCHOOL BANQUET.

At the Hotel Del Coronado, the Los Angeles High School Teachers' Association, 250 strong, held a banquet, afterwards making a tour of the points of interest on the island and attending at the stadium. The speakers at this banquet were E. T. Hughes, presiding, and Rev. Willard B. Thorpe of First Congregational Church, San Diego.

The teachers are visibly enjoying themselves. The first day they felt uncertain, the second day they began to thaw, and this, the third day, found all, men and women alike, having a good time.

The rain of yesterday gave the young gallants of San Diego a chance to introduce themselves, and they lost no time in taking advantage of the opportunity. Sam Price, well known as a merchant and for his eye for feminine beauty, posed as a newspaper reporter and photographer and made great headway until a real reporter began to ask him about business. Jack Lyons, the millionaire of Imperial Valley, was on hand looking for a pretty school teacher and every reporter in the city was in the U. S. Grant Hotel seeking a good-looking schoolma'am to entertain.

The ball for the teachers will be given Friday night in the ballroom of the Grant Hotel, this being the entertainment offered by Manager Holmes.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

OWENSMOUTH, Nov. 10.—Constable Tullis, assisted by Deputy Harbold and Deputy Gschwind, made a raid last night on the I.W.W. camp, known as "Hotel de Bum." For a month a deserted building east of town has been the rendezvous for a motley horde of job-dodgers, who have lived, it is alleged, by stealing from the neighboring farmers. When the officers invaded the camp twenty-one hobos were preparing a roast chicken dinner. The menu also included roast potatoes, vegetables, melons and fruit, all gleaned during foraging expeditions.

Numerous thefts of farm tools, harness, auto tires and other articles have been reported in this vicinity, but as nothing of value was found in the camp, no arrests were made. The inmates were driven out of town and cautioned not to return under penalty of arrest.

TWO SKELETONS IN HILLS.

Bones, Perhaps Those of Indians, Dug up in Preparing Winter Camp for Prisoners.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

CRAFTON, Nov. 10.—When the work of clearing ground for the establishment of the winter camp for the county prisoners was started today at Glen Martin, in Mill Creek Canyon, the skeletons of two men were uncovered. The bones were found less than two feet below the surface and there is every indication they have been in the ground many years.

It is possible the bones are those of Indians but the skull of one is so battered this could not be established. One might have been an Indian.

In the early days there was much lawlessness in that section; many shootings and men disappeared suddenly. Criminals from the valley would strike at once for the mountains and if they reached the canyons, were usually safe.

The bones were gathered up carefully and will be examined by experts.

OIL CASES ARE ALL POSTPONED.

DECISION OF DISTRICT COURT OF APPEAL AWAITED.

Causes will be Reset for Trial in Courts Here After Mooted Question of Right to Jury Hearing is Determined, Perhaps in About a Month.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

FRESNO, Nov. 10.—Trials of the oil cases in the Federal Court were postponed this afternoon by Judge Bean pending the decision of the United States District Court of Appeal in the case of the United States against the Eldoro Oil Company, similar to the Fresno cases in almost all points.

Judge Bean transferred the cases to the Los Angeles court to be reset for trial after a decision has been given in the Eldoro case.

Five other oil cases were continued until the spring session of the court, so there will be no trials or hearings on motions in any oil cases in Fresno at this session of the Federal Court.

The point involved in the Eldoro suit, which is before the Court of Appeal, is whether the cases should be tried by a jury or without a jury. The oil companies hold that the suits are simply cases at law, and that they were entitled to have jury trials.

The question came up in the Eldoro case last week before Judge Bledsoe. Attorneys for the oil companies objected to going ahead with the trial on the grounds that the suit of the government against the oil companies is not properly a suit in equity, but a case in law. Judge Bledsoe overruled the objection, and the oil companies then appealed. By special request the appeal was advanced on the calendar of the higher court and a decision may be given in a month.

SUDDEN DEATH.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

MOJAVE, Nov. 10.—W. H. Hankin, a ranchman, 37 years of age, living five miles from here, died suddenly today, presumably of heart failure. A physician was summoned from Tehachepi, but when he arrived the man was dead. The Coroner has been summoned from Bakersfield. Mr. Hankin leaves a family. The body will be sent to Los Angeles for burial.

WEEDING OUT THE WEAKLINGS.

STANDARD SHARES THE ONLY ONES IN ANY DEMAND.

Most of the War Issues are Sold Down 5 to 20 Points While Dividend-paying Industrials and Railroads Make Good Gains—Steel Leads the Market.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—A distinct line of cleavage between standard stocks and those in the speculative class was the significant feature of today's active market. Investment issues, especially high-grade railways, were consistently strong, and in good demand, while war shares and allied issues were again subject to severe shrinkage. Declines in war stocks during the precipitate break of the mid-session ranged from 5 to 10 points, while Bethlehem Steel at its low figure of 400 showed a loss of 35, though closing at 430. The weakness of Bethlehem was naturally ascribed to the damage and possible delay in operations resulting from a fire at the company's main plant, but the violence which attended the slump in such stocks as Baldwin Locomotive, Studebaker, Lackawanna Steel, Crucible Steel and Continental Can were largely in the nature of a weeding out of weakened accounts. United States Steel, in which trading was the latest of any recent day, opened at a fractional decline, but gradually rose 2⅞ to 87¼, closing at a small fraction under its maximum. Steel's strength was directly traceable to the corporation's highly gratifying October statement, which disclosed an increase of about 850,000 tons in unfilled orders, and exceeded any similar exhibit since the early months of 1913. Railway stocks were at their best in the later dealings, Southern Pacific and Canadian Pacific leading the broad upward movement. Southern Pacific's rise of 3⅞ to 103⅝, its highest quotation in two years, gave point to the negotiations now under way between a banking syndicate and the Pennsylvania Railroad for the latter's large holdings of Southern Pacific shares. Average gains of 1 to 2 points were scored by Union Pacific, St. Paul, New York Central, Reading and Norfolk and Western, and specialties made pronounced recoveries, some showing net gains on the day. Total sales amounted to 1,220,000 shares. Bonds shared only in moderate degree with the advance in stocks, additional "future" sales creating some irregularity. Total sales, par value, aggregated $5,355,000. United States bonds were unchanged on call.

Grain.

COUNTRY BLASTS AID TO WHEAT.

BELIEVE MAXIMUM OF MOVEMENT REACHED.

Largely as a Result of this and a Higher Tone from Liverpool, Prices Close Over a Cent and a Half Higher—Corn and Oats are Up.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

CHICAGO, Nov. 10.—Wintry conditions northwest, giving sanction to reports that the maximum of the spring movement had been reached, were influential today in lifting the wheat market here. Largely as a result, the market, although unsettled, was 1¾ to 2¼ higher, with December at $1.04¾ and May at 1.04¾@1.04¾. Corn closed ¾ to ⅞ net up, oats showing a gain from 2⅜ decline to a rise of ⅝. Unexpected strength in quotations at Liverpool added to the buoyancy of wheat traders. Pit speculation in wheat had an unusually bad setback. Corn showed independent strength. Unsettled weather was an influence in buying. Oats hardened in sympathy with other cereals. Hog arrivals much smaller than had been looked for and the provision list as a whole nevertheless a few upturns at the close were scored because of the strength in grain.

NOTE—In the above tabulation of tides the daily tides are given in the order of their occurrence, commencing with the early morning tide in the left-hand tide column, and the succeeding tides as they occur. On some days but three tides occur, the fourth tide occurring on the following morning. The first line gives the hour, the second the height in feet. Comparison will show high and low tides.

FORT NOTES.

The only arrival today was the steamer Brunswick from Fort Bragg, which proceeded to Hueneme after discharging a partial cargo of redwood. Departures of steam schooners for northern ports in ballast to reload were the Multnomah and Wasp for Puget Sound and Shasta for Portland. The Tahoe and Wellesley sailed for Redondo Beach with balance of ramons.

The steamer President proceeded to San Diego today and will call for freight and passengers tomorrow on the return voyage to San Francisco and Puget Sound.

SEPTUAGENARIAN SUES BAPTISTS.

SAYS HE GAVE PROPERTY TO MISSION SOCIETY AGENT.

Effort Made to Collect Annuity on Alleged Transaction of Two Decades Ago—Second Party is Dead and the Institution Denies the Deal was Authorized.

Nicholas L. Rigby, prominent years ago in Baptist circles, is a suitor in Judge Hewitt's court for the execution of an alleged agreement entered into twenty-one years ago whereby the American Baptist Home Mission Society was to have his property at the southeast corner of Second and Los Angeles streets, worth at that time about $30,000, and in exchange give him an annuity for the rest of his life.

The society denies that it ever received this property and the attorneys for Mr. Rigby stated they did not expect to show that the society had received it. They seek to prove that Mr. Rigby did consent to the transfer of the property to W. W. Tinker and that Mr. Tinker was an agent of the society.

Mr. Rigby testified that he received from Mr. Tinker annuities for three years only. Mr. Tinker died about ten years ago. Mr. Rigby is 71 and not in the best of health. He testified he had an equity of $11,000 in the property and the agreement was that he would receive 5 per cent. on that amount or $550 a year for life.

The lot which even twenty years ago brought in an income of $4000 a year, has a frontage of 152 feet on Second street and sixty-two feet on Los Angeles street. It is now very valuable, but since Mr. Rigby owned it and it passed over to Mr. Tinker, as it is alleged, it has been conveyed to other owners.

The various attorneys are composed of church men and Baptist laymen. Stewart & Stewart and W. H. Holmes represent Mr. Rigby; former Judge Merriam and Jones & Evans. Mr. Rigby was examined all afternoon and the case was continued until today.

DOESN'T MIND IT.
FINDS JAIL INTERESTING.

Considering the circumstances under which he appeared before Judge Taft yesterday, Charles Berner, a bank official, was in the language of Artemus Ward, "a cheerful cuss." A court warrant had whisked him last Saturday night from his comfortable home to the County Jail, on the alleged charge of his ex-wife that he intended leaving the State. But while he deplored his ex-wife's action, he rather enjoyed mixing with the "peepul."

It was not that Mrs. Berner, the first, wanted him here for his own sake, but she charged him with the intent to defraud her of alimony and a property settlement aggregating $5800. So the County Jail held Mr Berner until yesterday noon when Judge Taft sent for him, and promptly released him on his own recognizance on his declaration that he had no intention of leaving the State.

Mrs. Berner, the second, a charming young woman, was waiting to welcome her husband back home. After a fervent embrace and kisses, she exclaimed, "Oh, I am so glad." But never a word of reproach for the ex-wife, whose act had torn Mr. Berner from her from Saturday until yesterday.

Attorney Elliott L. Perkins, representing Mr. Berner, stated that the arrest was the result of a domestic misunderstanding. The property settlement was $5000 and of this amount Mr. Berner has paid $1600 and all of the alimony. The date of the trial involving the issues will be set later.

ESTATE GROWS.
FILE APPRAISEMENT.

The late William S. Crane, of Vail & Crane, who died last February, left an estate estimated at that time, of the value of $450,000. Yesterday an inventory and appraisement filed by A. W. Francisco, Frank P. Sproul and V. B. Vaughan gives the value of the estate as $752,785.21.

Under the terms of the will, the widow, Mrs. Charlotte K. Crane, receives one-half of the estate; Albert Crane, a brother, one-fourth, and George Crane, a brother, one-fourth.

The inventory shows the largest asset of the estate to be 2900 shares of stock of the Vail & Crane Company, the value of which is $446,678. The Leighton Hotel and residences at No. 445 Alvarado street and No. 488 Lake street have an appraised value of $209,000.

Mr. Crane carried life insurance worth $26,000; National Biscuit Company stock, $16,920; a legacy from Emma L. Greenville, $2143; cottage at Avalon, $750; credits due from Vail & Crane, $32,722; Leighton Hotel Company credits, $11,000.

WIFE LOSES CASE.
KIDNAPING STORY FAILS.

The Braithwaite divorce suit came to naught yesterday because Judge Monroe denied a decree to Mrs. Edna B. Braithwaite, after hearing a story of alleged cruelty and kidnaping. The suit was contested by John Braithwaite.

The evidence showed that the couple was married at Hagerstown, Md., September 23, 1905. At that time Mrs. Braithwaite stated she was only 15 years old. There was a separation June 26, 1911, but Mrs. Braithwaite did not know whether she deserted Mr. Braithwaite or he left her. She went to the home of a friend and on her return home, she says her husband attacked her with a bread knife. Neighbors interfered, and that night her husband kept the knife, she testified, under his pillow.

They had a child and because she could not see him she said she got hi mone day and took him from Martinsburg to her sister's home at Cumberland. During her absence one day she says her husband kidnaped the child. She got him back again and subsequently she came to Los Angeles. She asked for the custody of the child and an allowance for his support.

TRIES AGAIN.
VICE HUNTER WANTS PAY.

Sam L. Browne made a second attempt to "come back" in Judge Taft's court yesterday. Upon his first entry into the legal ring he had a bout with the city officials of Long Beach, asking them to pay him $575 for services as special investigator of vice conditions in that city. He claimed he had a contract with the city to do the work which he did quite thoroughly.

The city set up that the contract was illegal, also that it was not in writing, and Mr. Browne lost. Yesterday his action was against Swafield & Swafield, attorneys, through whom, he says, he was employed to make the clean-up. On the stand Mr. Browne was asked what services he had performed, and he detailed how wide his scoop net had been thrown out.

The Swafield brothers moved for a nonsuit which the court said he was inclined to grant, but continued the case ten days for Mr. Browne's counsel to file briefs.

ENDS STORMY LIFE.
DIVORCE IS GRANTED.

In a divorce suit alleging cruelty Mrs. Ethel L. Ullman testified in Judge Monroe's court yesterday that her marriage to Carl Ullman followed a brief courtship and that their home life was marked by quarrels, the alleged basis of which was Mr. Ullman's friendship for another woman.

She said they separated eight months after the wedding, after her husband had made love to another woman in her presence. Six months later Mr. Ullman went to her and desired to kiss her. They were reconciled and they went to the St. Mark's Hotel to live. One day, she testified, they walked to the Palisades at Santa Monica and when he seized her and attempted to throw her off the bluff, she struggled from his grasp and ran. The decree was granted.

ASKS ANOTHER CHANCE.
ADMITS RESISTING OFFICER.

Charles Forbes, who says he wants a second chance, but will take his medicine if he does not get it, admitted to Judge Reeve yesterday that Forbes is not his true name. He begged, because of his family, that he be not compelled to tell it.

Forbes, who was taken under the guidance of a leading Prohibitionist with the view of weaning him of his wild life, says he met two youths who borrowed his machine and turned over one which proved to have been stolen. When the officers got after Forbes he and a companion resisted arrest, and this is one of the charges against him.

Reposing confidence in the youth, Probation Officer Dunlap allowed Forbes and a companion to return without guard to the County Jail yesterday. This touch of faith pleased the youth, who hopped gayly down stairs.

ARSON CASE ENDS.
GOES TO JURY TODAY.

Deputy District Attorney Keetch argued for two hours before Judge Craig yesterday afternoon in the case of Salvatore Turco, charged with having conspired with Joe Barbera in the burning of the clothing store at 2161 East Ninth street to get insurance on the contents. Deputy Keetch endeavored to show that Turco has been connected with a number of other incendiary fires, but this was ordered out of the records, it having been impossible to show these things during the examination of witnesses.

Turco is claimed to be one of an Italian small arson gang alleged to have fired a number of houses to collect the insurance. Barbera has been convicted and is waiting sentence. Testimony in the Turco case has not been as strong as that found against his partner. The jury will deliberate this morning.

INS AND OUTS
ABOUT THE COURTS.

PLEADS NOT GUILTY—Mrs. Imogene Huey, who was arrested several weeks ago at Montecito on a charge of having appropriated $500 belonging to Mrs. Mary F. Green, entered a plea of not guilty before Judge Houser yesterday and date for trial was set for January 11. The complaint against Mrs. Huey, who was secretary of the Los Angeles Woman's Democratic Club at one time, was brought by Mrs. Minnie Pelzer. Mrs. Huey was brought to trial on a similar charge, involving the same persons about a year ago and at that time was acquitted.

SENTENCED—Having committed sixteen other burglaries after being granted probation for his first offense, William Falch, alias Falk, alias Fouch, was yesterday sentenced by Judge Craig to three years at San Quentin despite his youth. It was only the fact that he is but 20 years of age that saved him from a longer sentence.

WIFE ILL—DELAYS CASE—Illness of Mrs. G. C. Speers of such a critical nature that her life is in danger was the excuse causing Judge Craig to grant a continuance to her husband when his trial came up yesterday. He is charged with having attempted to collect two insurance policies on his home at No. 4600 Wesley avenue after having assured each insurance company that he carried only one policy. Mrs. Speers is in an Anaheim hospital.

WINS BY DEFAULT—Although they filed answers, neither Glen Goodman, who owned the auto, nor E. H. Porter, who drove it at the time it struck Mrs. Emma Bentley, 62 years old, appeared in Judge Taft's court yesterday when the case was called for trial. Mrs. Bentley testified that she was crossing the street in the southwest part of the city when she was run into, sustaining a fracture of the left wrist, a dislocation of the right shoulder and bruises on the knee. The court awarded her $1200 damages. She sued for $10,000.

INCORPORATIONS — California Tax Agency Corporation, incorporators Dwight Whiting, Warren H. Doane, Roy L. Glover, Frank A. Duggen and Earl L. Wisdom, capital stock $50,000, subscribed $50; California Transmission Company, incorporators Ralph W. Bailey, Ethel W. Bailey, Wesley H. Beach, G. Ray Boggs and S. L. Phillips, capital stock $10,000, subscribed $50; Cochise Machine Company, incorporators Charles A. Hultquist, Thomas H. Lindsay and James W. Brickson, capital stock $100,000, subscribed $125.

KIDNAPED, SHE SAYS.

Chorus Girl, With Broken Shoulder, Declares Man Took Her in Machine, Then Threw Her Out.

"Bobby" Barrett, a chorus girl, was treated for a fractured shoulder in the Receiving Hospital yesterday, where she reported she had been kidnaped and injured by an unknown man the previous night. She said she went homeward on a Stephenson-avenue car late at night, and that she noticed a man in an automobile watching her.

This machine, she said, followed the car, and when she alighted at Stephenson and Indiana avenues, to go to her home at No. 566 Indiana avenue, the machine followed her. As she passed a vacant lot, one of the men in the machine, she said, got out and ordered her to stop, saying she was under arrest. She said he flashed a police badge.

He took her in the machine to the Whittier road where she became alarmed, and started to struggle. Then the man, she said, opened the door of the car and threw her out. Her shoulder struck against the road, and was fractured.

COUNCIL BACKS MAYOR'S ORDER.

REMOVAL OF CENSOR BOARD MEMBER APPROVED.

Deposed President Tugwell Asks That His Side of the Case be Heard and the Public Welfare Committee will Listen to His Evidence.

The removal of A. P. Tugwell, president of the Board of Motion Picture Censors, made by the Mayor Tuesday, was approved by the Council yesterday after Mr. Tugwell had demanded a hearing on the charges which supposedly caused his removal. It was pointed out that no charges against Mr. Tugwell have been filed with or presented to the Council, and yesterday's action was simply concurring with the action of Mayor Sebastian and, furthermore, the action was in line with the policy of the Council expressed in the ordinance pending to prevent any person interested in the motion picture business serving on the board. The Council agreed, however, to give Mr. Tugwell a hearing before the Public Welfare Committee, and the Mayor was asked to furnish Mr. Tugwell and the committee with copies of any affidavits, complaints or charges that he may have against the former president of the board.

"I never saw those charges that have been filed against me," said Mr. Tugwell, when the Mayor's letter removing him from the Board of Censors was read to the Council. "I demand a full and fair hearing on any charges against me. Even the meanest criminal has a right to be heard in his own defense."

President Betkouski, who, as acting Mayor, received the affidavits charging Mr. Tugwell with misconduct, replied that he had told Mr. Tugwell that he might see the affidavits if he would call at the Mayor's office before 10 a.m. Tuesday. "I waited until after noon, and you did not show up," said Mr. Betkouski. "You told me that you would come in and give your answer to my demand for your resignation, and you failed to come."

"I did not understand you to say that," replied Mr. Tugwell. "I have been taking quinine and maybe that's why I did not hear you."

Mrs. Tugwell rushed to her husband's side, exclaiming: "I tell you, my husband was a very sick man—he couldn't come."

The Council vote sustaining the Mayor's action was unanimous and Mr. Tugwell left, with the remark that he wanted to "thank the Council for condemning me before I am heard."

Mr. Tugwell issued a formal statement yesterday saying that the various film exchanges pay from $4 to 50 cents a week for having their films delivered to the Board of Censors and returned to them, and all this money goes to the boy who does the work.

"I have never solicited any money or favors from any film exchange in the city," Mr. Tugwell says. "And I have never solicited any money or favors from any other person connected with the industry, and I do not think it is either right or proper to make charges based on the statement of the confessed briber, and other parties, if there are any, interested."

FOR EFFICIENCY.
CHANGES PROPOSED.

Following a conference with Mayor Sebastian, members of the Humane Animal Commission yesterday considered plans for submitting a new ordinance relative to the work of the commission and providing for abolishing the office of paid secretary and creating the position of pound superintendent. It is the wish of the board to have this position filled by a man and the Mayor agreed with the commission that the work of managing the City Pound, supervising the destruction of animals and directing the work of inspectors is more suited to a man than a woman. Councilman Topham said yesterday that he believes such an ordinance will be supported by the Council if it has the approval of the Humane Animal Commission.

STREET WORKS
STARTED AND ABANDONED.

The City Engineer and the City Attorney were instructed by the Council yesterday to commence proceedings for widening West First street and paving with asphalt seventy feet wide between Rampart boulevard and Vermont avenue. Sidewalks ten feet wide will be provided in the plans.

An ordinance of intention was adopted for improving Avenue Sixty-four with asphalt pavement from the north city line to Meridian street.

Protests against improving Bunker Hill avenue from Alpine to California street were granted and proceedings will be abandoned.

Residents of Bronson avenue between Canyon drive and Hollywood boulevard appealed to the Council yesterday to abandon proceedings for paving the street on the ground that the improvement will draw all of the traffic from near-by rock quarries through that street. The Council denied their protests, but the work was postponed for one year.

Requests are Filed.

The Council refused yesterday to favor an ordinance proposed by the Police Commission requiring all automobile repair shops to report repairs to the police department and a request from the Los Angeles Advancement League for an ordinance against the sale of firearms within the city limits was also filed without action. A resolution directing the Chief of the fire department to file a statement showing the names and addresses of all firemen, together with the location of the houses to which they are detailed, was passed by the Council. Later, it is proposed to require Chief Eley to assign men, so far as possible, to stations near.

Delayed One Day.

Because of the absence of Councilman Wheeler, who visited the city power plants yesterday, the ordinance creating the position of police court defender was laid over for one day. Councilmen Wheeler and Wright and Councilwoman Lindsay have pledged themselves to work for an ordinance that will provide for the appointment of William Francis Ireland and the other members of the Council propose to support the ordinance drafted by Councilman Roberts, which provides that the office must be filled by a qualified attorney.

ON OVERDRAFTS.
REFORMS PROPOSED.

The Council will consider an ordinance within a few days proposing sweeping changes in the methods of handling departmental expenditures in order to do away with the practice of overdrawing accounts. By the terms of the ordinance proposed, the City Auditor will be empowered to act as a controller to prevent such expenditures and all bills from departments will be subject to closer scrutiny before the indebtedness is contracted. The report of City Auditor Myers at the close of last month shows a dozen or more city departments "in the red," as overdrawn accounts are termed. Of these, the Engineer's department shows an overdraft of $79,398 in salaries to date, while other expenses for the department are overdrawn $21,055 and outstanding accounts amount to $33,995. The park department salary account is overdrawn $8000 to date and numerous other departments have exceeded the pro rata monthly allowance.

Municipalograms.

Consideration of a question of a grade crossing or a viaduct over the Pacific Electric tracks at Vineyard station was scheduled to come before the Council yesterday, but action was postponed for two weeks because of the absence of City Engineer Hamlin, who is on vacation.

The new ordinance intended to eliminate a large part of the red tape incidental to the work of the purchasing department was presented to the Council yesterday and referred to the Supplies Committee for further consideration. Bids for police motorcycles and for an automobile for the City Engineer were also referred to the committee.

Mrs. Lindsay's anti-rooster ordinance was introduced in the Council yesterday and referred to the Public Welfare Committee for consideration next Monday morning. The ordinance makes it a misdemeanor to harbor a rooster within the settled residence district of Los Angeles.

The City Attorney was instructed by the Council yesterday to prepare an ordinance against the erection or maintenance of barbed wire fencing within the city limits, excepting in the rural districts. This ordinance was requested by the Fire Commission at the suggestion of Chief Eley.

Protests against the condemnation of Glassell Park, between Verdugo road and the Los Angeles Railway right of way, were denied by the Council yesterday and that body will proceed to acquire the land for park purposes. It was pointed out that under the proposed proceedings the assessments will not exceed $5 a lot, and the district will be so arranged.

ALLEGED FORGER FREED.

Chester A. Ingvolstadt, who has been in the County Jail for three months on the charge of forging the signature of Alvin W. Bubenzer, formerly coxswain on the battleship Colorado, to a United States treasury warrant for $20, was released on his own recognizance yesterday by United States District Judge Van Fleet. The action was based on the fact that it is impossible to secure the attendance of Lieut. L. H. Randall, an essential witness, as he is aboard the battleship Maryland, engaged in fortification work at Pearl Harbor.

Cash on Hand.

COUNCIL FIXES POWER POLICY.

RESOLUTION ADOPTED WITH SALE OF BONDS.

In Case of Unreasonable Delay in Condemnation Proceedings for Distributing System, City is to Begin Work Promptly to Construct New Lines.

Formal action was taken by the Council yesterday closing the sale of two blocks of municipal power 4½ per cent. bonds, aggregating $3,420,000, to St. Louis and New York bond houses. The bonds sold at par and accrued interest, and they are to be delivered in New York, with interest and principal payable either in New York or Los Angeles. At the same time the Council passed a resolution declaring its policy respecting the use of the bond money. This resolution, introduced by Councilman Conwell, is as follows:

"Whereas, the Council has offers to purchase a substantial part of the $6,500,000 electric [illegible] on account of the [illegible] money to be realized [illegible] said bonds, it seems [illegible] Council should declare its [illegible] respect to the expenditure [illegible] money; therefore, be it
